Op. 173 (1978).

Indigent Residency Requirement for Nursing Home: A county (under 7-34-2302, now repealed) may restrict entry into the county boarding or nursing home to only those indigent aged who are bona fide residents of the county, as the obligation of the counties to provide institutional care to indigent aged appears to be limited to indigent county residents according to the language of 53-3-104. 35 A.G. No County Authority to Provide Housing to Low-Income Elderly: A county with general government powers does not have the authority under Art. XI, sec. 4, Mont. Const., or 7-8-2102 to construct or maintain an apartment complex for elderly low-income citizens that does not otherwise constitute a boarding or nursing home under this section and that does not constitute a public building under 7-8-2102. Instead, a county or municipal housing authority should be created under Title 7, ch. 15, parts 21 or 44, to provide such housing. 42 A.G. Op. 20 (1987).

Lease of Hospital Facilities and Contract for Services for Indigent Aged: A county that has leased hospital facilities to a lessee may lease space in the facilities from the lessee and contract with the lessee to provide services for the indigent aged who cannot be accommodated in the county nursing home. 37 A.G. County's Inherent Power to Prevent Destruction of Its Property: If a county-operated nursing home and a district hospital will close as a result of the failure of the county to construct a doctors' facility, the county has the inherent power to construct the facility using federal revenue sharing funds and payments in lieu of taxes to preserve its property. 37 A.G. Op. 61 (1977).

Source of Depletion Allowance Reserve Fund — Not Subject to Budgeting: This section permits poor fund money to be used to fund a depletion allowance reserve fund only to the extent that the money represents actual money received in excess of expenses incurred from or for the care of indigent patients in the county facility. Because depletion allowance reserve fund money is not derived from tax revenues and the sources and uses of the fund are limited statutorily, the transfer of money to a depletion allowance reserve fund is not subject to the requirements of 7-6-2326 (now repealed). 40 A.G. Bonds for Health Care Facility Not Subject to Voter Approval: When Toole County proposed to borrow $1.7 million to construct a county hospital and nursing home, plaintiff sued, alleging that the county could not borrow money without first submitting the bond proposal to the voters for approval. Affirming the District Court decision, the Supreme Court ruled that the indebtedness for the repayment of bonds for the proposed health care facility is not indebtedness of the county for which an election is required under 7-7-2402. Case Notes

Exhaustion of Administrative Remedies Doctrine Not Applicable if Constitutional Violation Alleged: Since declaratory judgment petitioner argued that the state requirement that firefighters working for it at an airport and protecting civilian and military aircraft be members of the Montana Air National Guard was unconstitutional, the doctrine requiring exhaustion of administrative remedies before seeking a declaratory judgment did not apply. McKamey v. St., 268 M 137, 885 P2d 515, 51 St. Rep. 1218 (1994).

Possibility of Being Fired as Controversy With Employer: The state required firefighters working for it at an airport and protecting civilian and military aircraft to be members of the Montana Air National Guard. Since another firefighter was terminated because of noncompliance with this requirement, after retiring from the National Guard, petitioner firefighter's employment would be threatened if he resigned or retired from the National Guard. In addition, the existence of a case or controversy was amply demonstrated by multiple lawsuits concerning the pay and employment status of the firefighters. Therefore, the declaratory judgment requirement of a threatened injury and a case or controversy was met. It was proper to refuse to dismiss the petition for a judgment declaring the National Guard membership requirement unconstitutional. It was not necessary for petitioner to have already suffered an injury. McKamey v. St., 268 M 137, 885 P2d 515, 51 St. Rep. 1218 (1994), followed in Chipman v. NW. Healthcare Corp., 2012 MT 242, 366 Mont. 450, 288 P.3d 193.

Requiring National Guard Membership of State Firefighters Protecting National Guard Aircraft: The state's requirement that its firefighters protecting civilian and National Guard aircraft belong to the National Guard did not meet the rational basis test and was an unconstitutional violation of equal protection. Other states do not have the requirement, the federal National Guard Bureau does not recommend it, the state fire chief said that there is no rational basis for it, and the state offered no persuasive argument for it. The state's argument that firefighters need security clearances and thus have to be in the National Guard was without merit because a security clearance can be given to nonmilitary personnel. McKamey v. St., 268 M 137, 885 P2d 515, 51 St. Rep. 1218 (1994). See also Peters v. St., 285 M 345, 948 P2d 250 (1997).

Retaliatory Employment Requirement — Not Relevant to Requirement's Constitutionality: The date on which the state began to require that its firefighters protecting civilian and National Guard aircraft be members of the National Guard was not a material issue of fact precluding a summary judgment that the requirement was unconstitutional. The date was relevant to the petitioner firefighter's claim that the requirement was in retaliation for a firefighters' wage and hours suit against the state, but whether the requirement was in retaliation for the suit was not relevant to the issue of whether the requirement was constitutional. McKamey v. St., 268 M 137, 885 P2d 515, 51 St. Rep. 1218 (1994).

Right to Declaratory Judgment on Discretionary Military Policy Threatening Public Sector Harm: The general rule of no subject matter court jurisdiction over a discretionary military policy (in this case, a state government military policy) did not apply to a state requirement that its firefighters protecting civilian and National Guard aircraft belong to the Montana Air National Guard. Loss of the job for failure to belong was a threatened injury resulting from military intrusion into the civilian sector by the state. The state did not show that the requirement was related to military employment. Therefore, the rule could not be used to dismiss a firefighter's petition for declaratory judgment. McKamey v. St., 268 M 137, 885 P2d 515, 51 St. Rep. 1218 (1994).

State Job Requirement — Many Years' Worth of Witnesses' Records With State and Others Not Relevant: In an action for judgment declaring that the state requirement that firefighters working for it at an airport and protecting civilian and military aircraft be members of the Montana Air National Guard was unconstitutional, the state asked three firefighter witnesses for the petitioner to produce 20 years' worth of any correspondence with the state, 25 years' worth of any correspondence with the National Guard, numerous types of records of the firefighters' union, and the last 4 years' worth of records of the union's payments to its law firm. The request was overbroad, none of the material may have been relevant to the proceeding, and it was proper to grant the petitioner's motion to quash and for a protective order. McKamey v. St., 268 M 137, 885 P2d 515, 51 St. Rep. 1218 (1994).

Unsuccessful Defense to State's Requirement That Firefighters at Airport Belong to National Guard — Costs and Attorney Fees Denied: Because the state's defense to a firefighter's petition for judgment declaring it unconstitutional for the state to require Air National Guard membership of its firefighters protecting National Guard aircraft was not frivolous or in bad faith, it was not an abuse of discretion to refuse costs and attorney fees to the prevailing firefighter. McKamey v. St., 268 M 137, 885 P2d 515, 51 St. Rep. 1218 (1994).

Case Notes

Liability of State to Suit — Active Duty U.S. Army Worker Injured While Assigned to National Guard — Tort Claim Not Barred: While in full-time service to the U.S. Army, Trankel was assigned to a Montana Army National Guard unit rebuilding armored vehicles and was injured by toxic chemicals during the rebuilding project. Trankel sued the state, asserting violations of the Occupational Health Act of Montana, the Montana Safety Act, and the Employee and Community Hazardous Chemical Information Act. The state contended that Feres v. U.S., 340 US 135, 95 L Ed 152, 71 S Ct 153 (1950), and Evans v. Mont. Nat'l Guard, 223 M 482, 726 P2d 1160 (1986), barred a claim that was incident to military service regardless of the substantive law upon which the claim was based, the status of the plaintiff at the time of injury, or the status of the party against whom the claim was made and that the alleged violations of the state Acts did not provide a private cause of action and could be enforced only through the administrative remedies provided for in the Acts. The District Court agreed with the state and dismissed Trankel's complaint with prejudice. On appeal, the Supreme Court distinguished Feres and related federal cases because they were based on federal rather than state tort claims, with little bearing on rights under state law and the Montana Constitution. The Supreme Court overruled the holding in Evans that the National Guard was not a political subdivision subject to suit, finding instead that the National Guard and the Department of Military Affairs were clearly governmental entities within the meaning of 2-9-101 and that the constitutional premise on which Evans was based did not apply. Consistent with other applications of Art. II, sec. 16, Mont. Const., any statute or court decision that deprives an employee of the right to full legal redress, as defined by general Montana tort law against third parties, is absolutely prohibited. Because Trankel was not employed by the Montana Army National Guard or the Department of Military Affairs at the time of injury, Trankel's claim against the state pursuant to the tort claims statutes was not barred. Further, applying the rationale in Pollard v. Todd, 148 M 171, 418 P2d 869 (1966), the Supreme Court held that the statutory state Acts did not give rise to causes of action independent from a claim of negligence subject only to the administrative remedies contained in the Acts, but rather established duties, the violation of which is negligence per se. Trankel v. St., 282 M 348, 938 P2d 614, 54 St. Rep. 380 (1997), distinguishing Feres v. U.S., 340 US 135, 95 L Ed 152, 71 S Ct 153 (1950), U.S. v. Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 87, L. 1997, provided: "WHEREAS, Article VI, section 13, of the Montana Constitution provides that the "governor is commander-in-chief of the militia forces of the state, except when they are in the actual service of the United States"; and

WHEREAS, section 10-1-101, MCA, defines "militia" as "all the military forces of this state, whether organized or active or inactive"; and

WHEREAS, section 10-1-101, MCA, defines "national guard" as "the army national guard and the air national guard"; and

WHEREAS, section 10-1-102, MCA, recognizes that the Department of Military Affairs performs duties and functions required by federal laws and regulations; and

WHEREAS, section 10-1-104, MCA, recognizes the application of federal laws, regulations, forms, precedents, and usages relating to and governing the armed forces of the United States to the military forces of this state; and

WHEREAS, the Army National Guard and the Air National Guard perform a uniquely federal mission and role except when ordered by the Governor into state active duty as provided for in Article VI, section 13, of the Montana Constitution; and

WHEREAS, the federal government has established comprehensive administrative programs to compensate military forces for injuries that they may incur while performing training for the nation's defense; and

WHEREAS, the federal government has established comprehensive administrative programs to compensate those who make claims for death, personal injury, or damage to real or personal property under the Federal Tort Claims Act, 28 U.S.C. 2671, et seq.

NOW, THEREFORE, the Legislature finds it appropriate to enact [section 1] [10-1-111] for the purpose of limiting liability of this state, its officers, employees, and agents, and members of the militia for the performance of the uniquely federal functions of the Army National Guard and the Air National Guard."

Part Case Notes

Liability of State to Suit — Active Duty U.S. Army Worker Injured While Assigned to National Guard — Tort Claim Not Barred: While in full-time service to the U.S. Army, Trankel was assigned to a Montana Army National Guard unit rebuilding armored vehicles and was injured by toxic chemicals during the rebuilding project. Trankel sued the state, asserting violations of the Occupational Health Act of Montana, the Montana Safety Act, and the Employee and Community Hazardous Chemical Information Act. The state contended that Feres v. U.S., 340 US 135, 95 L Ed 152, 71 S Ct 153 (1950), and Evans v. Mont. Nat'l Guard, 223 M 482, 726 P2d 1160 (1986), barred a claim that was incident to military service regardless of the substantive law upon which the claim was based, the status of the plaintiff at the time of injury, or the status of the party against whom the claim was made and that the alleged violations of the state Acts did not provide a private cause of action and could be enforced only through the administrative remedies provided for in the Acts. The District Court agreed with the state and dismissed Trankel's complaint with prejudice. On appeal, the Supreme Court distinguished Feres and related federal cases because they were based on federal rather than state tort claims, with little bearing on rights under state law and the Montana Constitution. The Supreme Court overruled the holding in Evans that the National Guard was not a political subdivision subject to suit, finding instead that the National Guard and the Department of Military Affairs were clearly governmental entities within the meaning of 2-9-101 and that the constitutional premise on which Evans was based did not apply. Consistent with other applications of Art. II, sec. 16, Mont. Const., any statute or court decision that deprives an employee of the right to full legal redress, as defined by general Montana tort law against third parties, is absolutely prohibited. Because Trankel was not employed by the Montana Army National Guard or the Department of Military Affairs at the time of injury, Trankel's claim against the state pursuant to the tort claims statutes was not barred. Further, applying the rationale in Pollard v. Todd, 148 M 171, 418 P2d 869 (1966), the Supreme Court held that the statutory state Acts did not give rise to causes of action independent from a claim of negligence subject only to the administrative remedies contained in the Acts, but rather established duties, the violation of which is negligence per se. Trankel v. St., 282 M 348, 938 P2d 614, 54 St. Rep. 380 (1997), distinguishing Feres v. U.S., 340 US 135, 95 L Ed 152, 71 S Ct 153 (1950), U.S. v. Hillhaven W., Inc., 238 M 21, 776 P2d 488 (1989), and Francetich v. St. Comp. Mut. Ins. Fund, 252 M 215, 827 P2d 1279 (1992); and overruling Evans

v. Mont. Nat'l Guard, 223 M 482, 726 P2d 1160 (1986). Trankel was followed in Lake v. St., 282 M 484, 938 P2d 698, 54 St. Rep. 442 (1997), and Oberson v. Federated Mut. Ins. Co., 2005 MT 329, 330 M 1, 126 P3d 459 (2005).

Nature of National Guard Service — State Court Jurisdiction: Members of the National Guard serve a dual responsibility, both to the State of Montana and to the United States of America. While Guard units consist of members enlisted in the United States Army, they are also a Montana military unit consisting of Montana citizens. The District Court improperly dismissed a suit brought by members of the Montana Army National Guard on grounds that the court did not have jurisdiction, absent proof that the members were on federal active duty as opposed to state active duty. The case was remanded for further findings. Grove v. Mont. Army Nat'l Guard, 264 M 498, 872 P2d 791, 51 St. Rep. 366 (1994), distinguishing Evans v. Mont. Nat'l Guard, 223 M 482, 726 P2d 1160 (1986).

National Guardsman Injured on Weekend Drill, Not During State of Emergency — No Remedy: A National Guardsman alleged that 10-1-504 (repealed 1983) provided a remedy for an injury he received while on routine weekend drill since the section allowed the same benefits to a member of the organized militia "who is wounded, disabled, or dies while on duty in the service of this state" that would have been received if the member had been in federal service. The Supreme Court held that within the context of Title 10, ch. 1, part 5, the words "in the service of this state" clearly referred to active duty during times of state emergency declared by the Governor pursuant to Art. VI, sec. 13, Mont. Const. Since the Guard was not called to emergency service in this case, summary judgment against the guardsman was proper. Evans v. Mont. Nat'l Guard, 223 M 483, 726 P2d 1160, 43 St. Rep. 1930 (1986), distinguished in Grove v. Mont. Army Nat'l Guard, 264 M 498, 872 P2d 791, 51 St. Rep. 366 (1994). Evans was overruled in Trankel v. St., 282 M 348, 938 P2d 614, 54 St. Rep. 380 (1997).

Military Pension Vested Property Subject to Distribution in Property Division: The military pension of a party to a divorce resembles an ordinary private pension, and just as a private pension, it should be treated as a vested property right that can be distributed as a part of a court's property division. A military pension is distinguishable from a pension under the Railroad Retirement Act, which is subject to limitations on its distribution. Further, the heirs of the former spouse of the divorced party receiving the pension could inherit the spouse's share freely. DECISIONS UNDER FORMER PREFERENCE LAW
(See Title 39, chapter 30, for Current Employment Preference Provisions.)

Repeal of Veterans' Preference: Retroactive repeal of the absolute veterans' preference, 10-2-201 through 10-2-206, revoked a government gratuity. The repealer did not provide for sovereign immunity from accrued causes of action without a two-thirds vote of the members of each house as required by Art. II, sec. 18, Mont. Const. As previously decided in Nick v. Dept. of Highways, 219 M 168, 711 P2d 795, 42 St. Rep. 1926 (1985), the Legislature could repeal the veterans' preference by a majority vote at any time. Femling v. Mont. St. Univ., 220 M 133, 713 P2d 996, 43 St. Rep. 235 (1986).

Repeal of Veterans' Preference — Due Process: Plaintiff applied for a position with the Montana University System, claiming entitlement to the then statutory veterans' preference in employment. He was not interviewed for the job; a nonveteran was hired. Plaintiff petitioned the District Court for an order to show cause why he should not have been employed. Before a hearing was held, the veterans' preference was repealed. Plaintiff's cause of action did not become a vested property right upon the filing of his complaint. The filing of a claim to what was a government gratuity does not change that gratuity into a vested right. Repeal of the preference gratuity did not violate the Due Process Clause of the state or federal constitution. Femling v. Mont. St. Univ., 220 M 133, 713 P2d 996, 43 St. Rep. 235 (1986).

Veterans' Preference Claim Based on Gratuity — No Express Reservation Through Stipulation: Plaintiff Jensen filed an amended petition to enforce employment preference that contained three counts. Thereafter, the parties filed a stipulated set of facts and agreement that the court would hear only Count I. The stipulation reserved all claims and defenses arising from Counts II and III. The District Court ruled on Count I, finding Jensen had been denied his veterans' preference, and the ruling was then appealed to the Supreme Court. While the appeal was pending, the Legislature met in special session and enacted a new Veterans' and Handicapped Persons' Employment Preference Act that retroactively repealed the old Veterans' Preference Act under which Jensen had filed his amended petition. The state then filed a motion to dismiss Counts II and III, and the motion was granted by the District Court. On appeal, Jensen questioned whether Count II, which has been expressly reserved by the stipulation, survived the Legislature's retroactive repealer. He argued that the stipulation created an obligation on behalf of the state to reserve the claim for an indefinite period and regardless of legislative action. The Supreme Court held that the stipulation must be viewed as an agreement to reserve a claim based not on a vested right but on a gratuity that the Legislature was empowered to repeal at any time, and that the stipulation reserved only what existed at the time it was entered into. Jensen v. St. 221 M 42, 718 P2d 1335, 43 St. Rep. 621 (1986).

Appointment of Manager From Internal Applicants — Preference Applied: The former veterans' preference law (10-2-201 through 10-2-206, repealed in 1983) gave veterans a preference in "appointment and employment". The Department of Labor issued a vacancy announcement for the position of manager of the Great Falls Job Service Office, viewed the filling of the position as an internal promotion, took only internal applications, and did not consider the former veterans' preference law then in effect, because the Department viewed that law as applying only to initial hirings. To give the former law any effect, the hiring of the Job Service Manager must be construed as employment, and the law covered the hiring. Therefore, a Department employee who was a veteran and who had applied for and did not receive the position was wrongly denied the position in favor of a nonveteran. Jensen v. St., 213 M 84, 689 P2d 1231, 41 St. Rep. 1971 (1984).

Court Order to Hire Bypassed Veteran — Improper Remedy: Although under the former veterans' preference law (10-2-201 through 10-2-206, repealed in 1983) the lower court had authority to order an appointing authority to comply with the law, the court did not have authority to order an appointing authority to grant to a veteran a job it had improperly denied him and granted to a nonveteran. The judiciary does not have and cannot be granted the executive power of appointment. The lower court was directed to order the employer to reopen the position to the original applicants, grant preference to the petitioner-veteran in this case and the other preferred applicants, and otherwise fill the position in accordance with Crabtree. Jensen v. St., 213 M 84, 689 P2d 1231, 41 St. Rep. 1971 (1984).

Crabtree Retroactively Applied: On June 16, 1982, the Department of Labor hired Waltermire to fill a position. Another Department employee filed a petition on June 21, 1983, claiming he was a veteran while Waltermire was not, and therefore he should have been hired instead. On June 16, 1983, the Supreme Court issued its Crabtree decision holding that the then current veterans' preference law (10-2-201 through 10-2-206, repealed in 1983) granted an absolute preference that existed from its enactment in 1921 through its 1983 repeal. That decision applies retroactively to Jensen's claim, and the potential impact upon one person, Waltermire, who may lose his job, was insufficient to rule that Crabtree did not apply retroactively. Jensen v. St., 213 M 84, 689 P2d 1231, 41 St. Rep. 1971 (1984).

Absolute Preference Required for Minimally Qualified Veterans — No Conflict With Other Laws: Where the plaintiff, who had been blind from birth, brought an action against the defendant state library for failing to hire her under 10-2-203 (repealed in 1983) over other more qualified applicants, the District Court did not err in holding that 10-2-203 (repealed in 1983) required an absolute preference for minimally qualified veterans and disabled civilians over other more qualified persons. Neither the language of the statute nor its history contains any qualifications limiting it to a relative preference over only those equally qualified. Nor does the statute conflict with the duties of governmental agencies to offer employment in a nondiscriminatory manner on the basis of merit. The statute is in the nature of an affirmative action program that agencies must implement and maintain in any event and simply requires the preference of veterans and disabled persons of any sex or race. Crabtree v. Mont. St. Library, 204 M 398, 665 P2d 231, 40 St. Rep. 963 (1983).

Remedy for Failure to Recognize Preference — Order to Redefine and Readvertise Position Upheld: Where the plaintiff had been denied employment for a library staff position and sued to enforce the preference required by 10-2-203 (repealed in 1983), the District Court did not err in ordering the library to redefine and readvertise the position. The court found that the minimum requirements set out in the library's Notice of Position Open bore little correlation to the rating scale used in the selection process. Because the minimal qualifications were never clearly determined or clearly stated, they could not have been used in evaluating the plaintiff's application. It was therefore only fair that all applicants be given an opportunity to reapply. Crabtree v. Mont. St. Library, 204 M 398, 665 P2d 231, 40 St. Rep. 963 (1983).

Constitutionality: The 1943 amendment insofar as it attempted to confer authority upon the Court to make an appointment and insofar as it undertook to confer judicial power without notice and hearing was declared unconstitutional and void. State ex rel. O'Sullivan v. District Court, 119 M 189, 172 P2d 816 (1946); Application of O'Sullivan, 117 M 295, 158 P2d 306 (1945).

City Attorney: Veterans' preference law applies to office of City Attorney. Application of O'Sullivan, 117 M 295, 158 P2d 306 (1945).

Veteran Appointee to Possess Requisite Qualifications: This act merely provides that veterans be preferred, and though a veteran's application must be transmitted to the Police Commission by the Mayor when a vacancy exists unless he is convinced the veteran is not qualified, he may not be coerced by Writ of Mandate after his investigation reveals that the veteran is not qualified physically due to a back injury. The duty to appoint carries with it the duty to determine the requisite qualifications. Horvath v. Mayor, 112 M 266, 116 P2d 874 (1941), explained in State ex rel. O'Sullivan v. District Court, 119 M 189, 172 P2d 816 (1946).

Veteran to Qualify Physically: Although veteran's application must be transmitted to Police Commission by Mayor when a vacancy exists, he may not be coerced by Writ of Mandate to forward application after his investigation reveals veteran is not qualified physically due to a back injury. Court will not substitute its discretion for that of Mayor unless it is shown Mayor abused his discretion by making his decision unfairly or in bad faith. Horvath v. Mayor, 112 M 266, 116 P2d 874 (1941).

No Duty Where No Vacancy Exists: Mandamus was improper to compel the Mayor of a city to transmit the application of an honorably discharged World War veteran for the position of patrolman on the police force to the city Police Commission, since neither under 10-2-211 (repealed in 2005; formerly section 77-601, R.C.M. 1947), nor under 7-32-4108 (formerly section 11-1803, R.C.M. 1947 (part)), relating generally to appointments to the force, was the Mayor required to transmit such applications when no vacancy on the police force existed. State ex rel. Montgomery v. Mayor, 112 M 275, 114 P2d 1046 (1941).

DECISIONS UNDER FORMER LAW

Appointee Entitled to Continue in Office During Term of Incumbent: Relator's claim that 124 write-in votes cast for him at general election held on November 3, 1942, entitled him to office of Attorney General was without merit because appointee was entitled to continue in office during term of incumbent where incumbent was elected to serve from January 1, 1940, until December 31, 1944. Entry by incumbent into military service did not create a vacancy in office requiring an election for office of Attorney General as purpose of this title is to make provision for full functioning of office without an election during absence of regular incumbent while in military service, and so that his right to office will be preserved and that he may resume it upon his return. State ex rel. Niewoehner v. Bottomly, 116 M 96, 148 P2d 545 (1944), following Gullickson v. Mitchell, 113 M 359, 126 P2d 1106 (1942).

Purpose: Legislative intent was not to establish a new class of officers for the state from top to bottom under the title of "acting officers" appointed under 10-2-227 (now repealed) but merely to provide for the naming of officers to replace elected officers for a period not to exceed unexpired term of those replaced. Gullickson v. Mitchell, 113 M 359, 126 P2d 1106 (1942).

Induction to Result in Leave of Absence: When regularly elected incumbent Attorney General was ordered to report for active military service before expiration of his term, his temporary relinquishment of office did not result in a permanent vacancy but in a leave of absence or suspension from duty. Gullickson v. Mitchell, 113 M 359, 126 P2d 1106 (1942).

Constitutionality: Although 10-2-221, 10-2-225, and 10-2-227 (all now repealed) may not lawfully apply to certain officers such as judicial officers absenting themselves from the State of Montana more than 60 consecutive days owing to the provisions of Art. VIII, sec. 37, 1889

Mont. Const. (now Art. VII, sec. 10, 1972 Mont. Const.), it is not objectionable as class legislation. Gullickson v. Mitchell, 113 M 359, 126 P2d 1106 (1942).

Sections Not to Apply to Elected Members of Legislature: Sections 10-2-221 and 10-2-227 (both now repealed) were inapplicable to legislative officers and therefore did not warrant appointment of an "acting" Senator to serve during absence of elected one while serving in country's armed forces. State ex rel. Grant v. Eaton, 114 M 199, 133 P2d 588 (1942).

2009 Amendment: Chapter 261 in (1) at beginning deleted "A state, city, town, or county", after "employee" inserted "of the state or any political subdivision as defined in 2-9-101", near end substituted "120 hours" for "15 working days", and after "calendar year" inserted "or academic year if applicable"; in (3) near middle after "calendar year" inserted "or academic year if applicable", substituted "240 hours" for "30 days", and near end after "calendar" inserted "or academic"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2009.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 381 in (1) near middle before "6 months" inserted "at least", before "15 working days" substituted "accruing at a rate of" for "for a period of time not to exceed", and at end after "year for" substituted "performing military service" for "attending regular encampments, training cruises, and similar training programs of the organized militia or of the military forces of the United States"; inserted (3) providing for the carryover of military leave; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 25, 2005.

1991 Amendment: Near beginning, after "city", inserted "town".

Attorney General's Opinions

Town Employee Not Entitled to Military Leave With Pay: An employee of a town is not entitled to a leave of absence with pay while attending regular encampments, training cruises, or similar training programs of the organized militia or of the military forces of the United States. (See 1991 amendment.) 42 A.G. Op. 26 (1987).

No Differentiation Between Persons Serving Out Mandatory Military Requirements or Continuing Service Under a Contract of Service: This section requires that state, city, or county employees be allowed leave of absence with pay for annual military training sessions, regardless of whether the employee has fulfilled all mandatory military service and reserve obligations and has extended his service by a contract of reenlistment or continuation of service. The leave taken may not be charged against annual vacation time. 36 A.G. Op. 22 (1975).

Public School Teacher Entitled to Regular Pay When Called on Active National Guard Duty: This section entitles a public school teacher to regular pay for a period not exceeding 15 working days during the school term when he is called on active duty for training with the Montana National Guard. 36 A.G. Op. 35 (1975).

Attorney General's Opinions

OPINIONS UNDER FORMER LAW

Absence of Public Service Commissioner From State on Military Duty — Vacancy in Office Not Created — No Additional Compensation:

When asked to clarify his opinion in 43 A.G. Op. 32 (1989), the Attorney General looked to the nature of service and the source of payment as affecting the right of a state officer to receive additional compensation, noting that a National Guard member engaged in federal service and thus compensated by the federal government is subject to the duties and may receive the benefits of federal law, while a member engaged in purely state-oriented service and thus compensated by the state is subject to state regulation. Therefore, Art. VI, sec. 5, Mont. Const., prohibits an elected member of the Executive Branch from accepting compensation from the state for service in the Montana Army National Guard, beginning with the first instance of dual compensation. Further, a public officer has a duty to repay unauthorized compensation and the state, through the State Auditor, has a corresponding right to compel repayment of the unauthorized compensation. 43 A.G. Op. 43 (1989).

Absence from the state attributable to active military duty does not result in a vacancy in the office of Public Service Commissioner. However, an elected member of the Public Service Commission may not receive additional compensation for simultaneous service in the Montana Army National Guard. 43 A.G. Op. 32 (1989).

Chapter Compiler's Comments

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 776, L. 1991, provided: "WHEREAS, Montana's women in military service have always responded to the needs of their country and have fought for liberty throughout our nation's history; and

WHEREAS, the United States Congress has unanimously passed legislation authorizing construction of a living memorial to honor the 1.2 million women veterans and the 400,000 women in active military service, the reserves, and the National Guard; and

WHEREAS, the memorial will house a register, making it possible for all servicewomen to have a permanent, visible place in America's history, and will serve to illustrate women's partnership with men in the defense of our nation; and

WHEREAS, March 29, 1991, has already been proclaimed by Lieutenant Governor Kolstad, the Boards of County Commissioners, and the Indian tribes of the State of Montana as the date during National Women's History Month to recognize and honor Montana's women veterans and women active in military service for their contribution to Montana and America.

THEREFORE, the Legislature of the State of Montana finds it appropriate to allocate funds toward the construction of a national women veterans' and servicewomen's memorial in Arlington National Cemetery."

WHEREAS, the Interim Committee found that, using 2000 data, Montana's population of nearly 107,000 veterans and an estimated 170,000 family members of veterans not only ranks Montana second in the nation in the number of veterans per capita (11.9%) but also means that veterans and their family members constitute more than 25% of Montana's total population; and

WHEREAS, the Interim Committee found that more than 80,000 Montana veterans are combat-era veterans (more than 36,000 are Vietnam-era, more than 16,000 are Persian Gulf-era, more than 16,000 are World War II-era, and about 14,000 are Korean-era veterans) and that the largest group of veterans is now between 50 and 65 years of age; and

WHEREAS, the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs estimates that more than 50% of combat theater veterans suffer from clinically serious and disabling posttraumatic stress disorder, that twice as many veterans as nonveterans experience homelessness, that many veterans have overlapping and complex needs encompassing medical and nursing home care, mental health and chemical dependency counseling, housing, transportation, education and training, job services, and family support services, and that the children and families of veterans who do not get the help that they need are themselves at risk; and

WHEREAS, these complex needs and a maze of federal, state, local, public, and private services demand a high level of interagency coordination and cooperation for effective service delivery to ensure that veterans and their families do not fall through the cracks and to avoid unnecessary cost-shifting from federal to state and local public assistance programs; and

WHEREAS, the Interim Committee found that current statutory language establishing the Board of Veterans' Affairs as the lead agency for veterans' affairs dates back to 1919 and that although the Board's duties and responsibilities have consistently evolved, statutory language has not kept pace; and

WHEREAS, the Board hires and supervises its own classified employees, who make up the Montana Veterans' Affairs Division, but the Board does not have rulemaking authority to implement programs; and

WHEREAS, the Board is administratively attached to the Department of Military Affairs, which has greatly assisted veterans and supported the Board but has no statutory authority over veterans' affairs; and

WHEREAS, a legislative performance audit requested by the Interim Committee revealed that although the Montana Veterans' Affairs Division is to be commended for doing a great job with limited resources and limited statutory guidance, it also revealed that new management tools and updated information management systems are needed to provide more consistency and to track and manage staff workload; and

WHEREAS, the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs spent about $175 million in Montana during fiscal year 2000, which ranked Montana 37th nationwide in per capita expenditures by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs on veterans; and

WHEREAS, the Interim Committee found that a statutory restructuring of powers, duties, and responsibilities for state veterans' affairs programs is essential, not only to address inadvertent statutory shortfalls and elevate the profile of state veterans' affairs, but also to better integrate benefit claims with human services programs so that eligible veterans and family members receive the federal compensation, benefits, and care that they have earned in self-sacrificing service in the armed forces of the United States of America."

2005 Amendment: Chapter 542 in (2) near beginning substituted "15-1-122(3)(d)" for "15-1-122(3)(h)". Amendment effective January 1, 2006.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 491, L. 2003, provided: "WHEREAS, the 57th Legislature requested a study of veterans' issues, and the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee conducted numerous hearings, received expert testimony, and examined research during a 14-month period; and

WHEREAS, the Interim Committee found that, using 2000 data, Montana's population of nearly 107,000 veterans and an estimated 170,000 family members of veterans not only ranks Montana second in the nation in the number of veterans per capita (11.9%) but also means that veterans and their family members constitute more than 25% of Montana's total population; and

WHEREAS, the Interim Committee found that more than 80,000 Montana veterans are combat-era veterans (more than 36,000 are Vietnam-era, more than 16,000 are Persian Gulf-era, more than 16,000 are World War II-era, and about 14,000 are Korean-era veterans) and that the largest group of veterans is now between 50 and 65 years of age; and

WHEREAS, the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs estimates that more than 50% of combat theater veterans suffer from clinically serious and disabling posttraumatic stress disorder, that twice as many veterans as nonveterans experience homelessness, that many veterans have overlapping and complex needs encompassing medical and nursing home care, mental health and chemical dependency counseling, housing, transportation, education and training, job services, and family support services, and that the children and families of veterans who do not get the help that they need are themselves at risk; and

WHEREAS, these complex needs and a maze of federal, state, local, public, and private services demand a high level of interagency coordination and cooperation for effective service delivery to ensure that veterans and their families do not fall through the cracks and to avoid unnecessary cost-shifting from federal to state and local public assistance programs; and

WHEREAS, the Interim Committee found that current statutory language establishing the Board of Veterans' Affairs as the lead agency for veterans' affairs dates back to 1919 and that although the Board's duties and responsibilities have consistently evolved, statutory language has not kept pace; and

WHEREAS, the Board hires and supervises its own classified employees, who make up the Montana Veterans' Affairs Division, but the Board does not have rulemaking authority to implement programs; and

WHEREAS, the Board is administratively attached to the Department of Military Affairs, which has greatly assisted veterans and supported the Board but has no statutory authority over veterans' affairs; and

WHEREAS, a legislative performance audit requested by the Interim Committee revealed that although the Montana Veterans' Affairs Division is to be commended for doing a great job with limited resources and limited statutory guidance, it also revealed that new management tools and updated information management systems are needed to provide more consistency and to track and manage staff workload; and

WHEREAS, the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs spent about $175 million in Montana during fiscal year 2000, which ranked Montana 37th nationwide in per capita expenditures by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs on veterans; and

WHEREAS, the Interim Committee found that a statutory restructuring of powers, duties, and responsibilities for state veterans' affairs programs is essential, not only to address inadvertent statutory shortfalls and elevate the profile of state veterans' affairs, but also to better integrate benefit claims with human services programs so that eligible veterans and family members receive the federal compensation, benefits, and care that they have earned in self-sacrificing service in the armed forces of the United States of America."

Preamble: The preamble attached to I.M. No. 149, provided: "WHEREAS, tobacco related disease is the single most preventable cause of death in Montana.

WHEREAS, tobacco related disease kills more people than alcohol, AIDS, car crashes, illegal drugs, murders, and suicides combined.

WHEREAS, 1,400 Montanans die each year from their addiction to smoking.

WHEREAS, smokeless tobacco use can lead to oral cancer, gum disease, and nicotine addiction; and increases the risk of cardiovascular disease, including heart attacks.

WHEREAS, over 18% of Montana high school students use spit tobacco, more than double the national average of 7.8 %.

WHEREAS, 17,100 Montana children, now under 18, will ultimately die prematurely from smoking.

WHEREAS, Montanans spend $216 million annually on health care costs in Montana directly caused by smoking.

WHEREAS, studies have also found that adolescents and young adults are 2 to 3 times more likely to quit than adults due to tobacco price increases.

WHEREAS, significant tax increases on all tobacco products will reduce consumption, prevent kids from becoming addicted, and increase quitting success for all Montanans.

WHEREAS, Montana loses federal matching dollars every year by under funding Medicaid.

WHEREAS, 173,000 Montanans, including 41,500 children, lack health care coverage.

WHEREAS, 56% of uninsured Montanans are self-employed or work for small businesses with 10 or fewer employees; and 60% of small businesses cannot afford to offer health benefits.

WHEREAS, prescription drug costs are increasing 10% per year and are not affordable for many families, seniors or people with disabilities.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF MONTANA:

That we raise the tax on cigarettes by $1.00 per pack (from 70 cents to $1.70 per pack) and increase the tax on smokeless tobacco by a proportional amount and dedicate use of those tax funds for health care needs."

2007 Amendment: Chapter 370 in (1) at end inserted exception clause; inserted (4)(a) stating conditions under which the board may designate veterans' cemetery; and inserted (4)(b) requiring that cemetery be recognized and identified on state maps. Amendment effective July 1, 2007.

Contingent Voidness: Section 3, Ch. 370, L. 2007, provided: "If Senate Bill No. 21 is not passed and approved, then [this act] is void." Senate Bill No. 21 was approved March 30, 2007, as Ch. 112, L. 2007.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 600 in (2) deleted former second sentence that read: "The board may establish a state veterans' cemetery in Missoula County, Montana" and inserted second sentence providing that veterans' cemeteries may be established in Missoula County and Yellowstone County if funding allows; in (3) after "cemeteries" inserted "only" and after "funding" deleted "appropriated pursuant to 10-2-603"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

2003 Amendments — Composite Section — Coordination: Chapter 451 inserted third sentence authorizing board to establish veterans' cemetery in Missoula County. Amendment effective April 21, 2003.

Pursuant to sec. 7, Ch. 451, L. 2003, a coordination section, the code commissioner in first sentence substituted "board of veterans' affairs" for "department of military affairs" and in third sentence substituted "board" for "department".

Chapter 491 in first sentence at beginning substituted "board" for "department of military affairs" and inserted "and operate"; and inserted fourth sentence allowing the board to establish additional veterans' cemeteries. Amendment effective January 1, 2004.

Style changes were slightly different in the chapters. In each case, the codifier chose appropriate text.

Negotiations for Missoula Veterans' Cemetery: Section 2, Ch. 451, L. 2003, provided: "(1) On [the effective date of this act] [effective April 21, 2003], the department of military affairs [board of veterans' affairs] shall initiate activities at or in the vicinity of Fort Missoula, Missoula County, Montana, in the city of Missoula, or in Missoula County, as appropriate, to complete all preapplication requirements provided in the federal department of veterans affairs national cemetery administration's state cemetery grants program grant requirements, including but not limited to:

(a) completion of an environmental assessment and an environmental impact statement if necessary;

(b) designation of the area to be served by the preferred location of the cemetery;

(c) a design concept that describes the primary features to be included in the project and the number of grave sites to be provided; and

(d) a needs assessment that explains the need for the project to establish, expand, or improve the veterans' cemetery.

(2) If the review provided for in subsection (1) shows that the selected property meets all the federal requirements for a veterans' cemetery, the board shall enter into negotiations with the appropriate entities for the acquisition of property for the purpose of a veterans' cemetery."

Appropriation: Section 5, Ch. 451, L. 2003, provided: "There is appropriated $150,000 from the special revenue account provided for in 10-2-603 to the department of military affairs [board of veterans' affairs] for the purpose of completing the preapplication inspection and requirements as provided in [section 2(1)] [not codified]."

1999 Amendment: Chapter 51 at end substituted "Miles City" for "the location chosen pursuant to sections 1 through 6, Chapter 109, Laws of 1997". Amendment effective March 15, 1999.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 109 at end of first sentence substituted "cemeteries" for "cemetery"; at end of second sentence inserted clause concerning Ch. 109, L. 1997; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 20, 1997.

Siting of Eastern Montana Veterans' Cemetery: Sections 1 through 6, Ch. 109, L. 1997, which were not codified, provided: "Section 1. Legislative findings. The legislature finds that Article II, section 35, of the Montana constitution states that the legislature may give Montana veterans special consideration. Accordingly, there are geographical requirements for veterans' cemeteries for proper interment. Therefore, it is necessary to provide guidelines for the siting and construction of an eastern Montana state veterans' cemetery." Section 1 effective July 1, 1997, and terminates June 30, 1999.

"Section 2. Request for proposals. (1) The board of veterans' affairs shall request that proposals for the siting of a new state veterans' cemetery be submitted to the board from town, city, county, and tribal governments in the counties enumerated in [section 4]. The request must:

(a) be made in the form of a request for proposals;

(b) specify 90 days from the date on which the requests for proposals are mailed as the date on which all proposals are to be received by the board; and

(c) contain the information required under subsection (2) and other information determined necessary by the board.

(2) The request for proposal must:

(a) require that information be submitted by a town, city, county, or tribal government as part of any proposal according to the requirements in 38 U.S.C. 2408, 38 CFR, part 39, and the most recent department of veterans affairs National Cemetery System Program Guide 40-1, state cemetery grants program;

(b) include the extent to which land is donated to the state for an eastern Montana state veterans' cemetery; and

(c) state the proximity to the veterans' affairs field offices and department of military affairs support facilities.

Section 3. Board to select site. (1) Proposals submitted in response to the request for proposals required by [section 2] must be evaluated by the board of veterans' affairs.

(2) Except as provided in subsection (3), the board must be compensated, reimbursed, and otherwise governed by the provisions of 2-15-122 regarding advisory councils.

(3) The board members must receive an honorarium of $50 for each day spent performing the duties required in [sections 2 through 6] that does not constitute a regular board meeting.

(4) The board shall meet as often as necessary to perform the duties assigned by [sections 2 through 6]. The board shall consider, evaluate, and select the location for the eastern Montana state veterans' cemetery according to the procedure and criteria provided for in [sections 2 through 6].

(5) The department of military affairs shall provide staff and budgetary, administrative, and clerical services to the board as the board or its presiding officer requests.

(6) The board must receive assistance and information, as requested, from the department of administration, architecture and engineering division, and other executive agencies that may have information relevant to siting and supporting a state veterans' cemetery.

(7) The board's site selection function terminates on the date of the announcement by the governor of the winning proposal, in accordance with [section 6].

Section 4. Site selection procedure and criteria. (1) The board of veterans' affairs may not consider a proposal unless the proposal:

(a) is submitted within the time required by the request for proposal;

(b) contains the criteria and additional information required by [section 2]; and

(c) is submitted by a town, city, county, or tribal government located in Big Horn, Carter, Custer, Daniels, Dawson, Fallon, Garfield, McCone, Musselshell, Petroleum, Phillips, Powder River, Prairie, Richland, Roosevelt, Rosebud, Sheridan, Treasure, Valley, Wibaux, or Yellowstone County.

(2) The board shall determine a maximum numeric value for each of the criteria required in [section 2] and the tie-breaker criteria described in [section 6(2)]. Criteria that the board determines to be of more relative importance must be awarded a greater maximum value. The board shall rate each proposal considered by it by using a weighted-scale process that assigns a numeric score for each criterion and then totals the score for each proposal. The score for each criterion and proposal must be determined by the extent to which each criterion is satisfied, based upon a documented demonstration.

Section 5. Site visitations and hearings required. The board of veterans' affairs shall determine the three proposals with the highest numeric scores. The board shall eliminate the other proposals from further consideration. As soon as possible after elimination of the other sites, the board shall conduct onsite reviews of the remaining candidate sites by both conducting an onsite tour of each of the candidate sites and holding a public hearing on the subject of the cemetery in the community where each proposed site is located. The purpose of the tour and hearing is to receive information concerning the extent to which each candidate site satisfies the criteria provided in [section 2]. The hearings must be conducted under procedures determined by the board, and the board shall give notice of each hearing by advertisement in a newspaper of general circulation in the county of each candidate site.

Section 6. Site selection. (1) After completing the onsite reviews required by [section 5], the board shall again score each of the candidate sites by applying the criteria and scoring method provided in [section 4].

(2) If two or more proposals receive the same total score, the board shall determine the leading proposal by scoring those proposals on the following criteria for the community in which the cemetery would be located:

(a) the extent to which land is donated to the state for an eastern Montana veterans' cemetery; and

(b) the proximity to the veterans' affairs division field offices and department of military affairs support facilities.

(3) The cemetery must be located at the proposed site that receives the highest numeric score using the procedure provided in this section. Upon selection of the winning proposal by the board, the board shall inform the governor of its selection. The board shall submit its selection to the governor no later than 250 days after [the effective date of this section]. The governor shall review the selection process to ensure that the board has not made an error in process or in fact. If the governor determines that an error has been made, the governor shall remand the recommendation to the board for further evaluation. The governor shall make a public announcement of the board's selection upon determining that no errors have been made." Sections 2 through 6 effective March 20, 1997, and terminate June 30, 1999.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 491 in first sentence at beginning substituted "board" for "department of military affairs", inserted "to administer the state veterans' cemetery program and to", and substituted "who may be buried" for "which veterans may be buried"; inserted third sentence requiring rules to be adopted in accordance with Title 2, chapter 4; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2004.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 109 near end of first sentence substituted "a veterans' cemetery" for "the veterans' cemetery". Amendment effective March 20, 1997.

Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 734, L. 1985, provided: "This bill requires a statement of intent because section 2 [10-2-602] requires the department of military affairs to adopt rules establishing criteria for determining which veterans may be buried in the state veterans' cemetery.

The legislature contemplates that the rules should, at a minimum, address the following subjects:

(1) discharge status, i.e., dishonorable discharge, medical discharge, killed in line of duty, etc.;

(2) length of service; and

(3) such other factors as may be used as reasonable, objective criteria if burial space is severely limited in the state veterans' cemetery."

Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 228, L. 1985, provided: "It is the intent of this bill to allow the governor to enter into interstate mutual aid agreements with other states for the purposes of:

(1) providing state resources such as manpower, equipment, and material; and

(2) coordinating the provision of volunteer resources to assist other states in response and recovery activities relating to earthquakes, floods, and other disasters.

The governor shall enter these agreements and shall provide for their implementation, including the appointment of contact persons within this state and establishment of a contact procedure with participating states.

Although the governor is charged with implementation of this bill, he may delegate authority to the department of military affairs or other appropriate agency for day-to-day administration of the compact."

10-3-209. Political subdivision requests for assistance — application to fire districts, fire service areas, and fire companies in unincorporated places — immunity.

Title 34, chapter 3, ARM Emergency and disaster relief.

Attorney General's Opinions

Budget Amendment Process Inapplicable — Obligation to Pay Firefighting Expenses: Authority of the Governor to "incur" expenses under this section is distinct from the statutory appropriation found in 10-3-312. Although the budget amendment process is inapplicable to a request by the Department of State Lands (now Department of Natural Resources) to pay the costs associated with the suppression of forest fires, the Legislature may be bound by this section to appropriate money from the general fund to cover valid firefighting expenses. 42 A.G. Op. 123 (1988).

Funding When National Guard Called to Active Duty in Emergency: Expenses incurred in the mobilization of the Montana National Guard when the Guard is mobilized pursuant to a declaration of emergency under 10-3-311 are funded through 10-3-312. 39 A.G. Op. 33 (1981).

10-3-312. Maximum expenditure by governor — appropriation.

2017 Amendment Not Codified: Section 4, Ch. 115, L. 2017, was not codified because of its short duration. In (1) and (4) substituted "$4 million" for "$16 million". Amendment effective March 30, 2017, and terminates June 30, 2017.

2013 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 138 in (3) substituted "individuals and households" for "individual and family"; and substituted "42 U.S.C. 5174" for "42 U.S.C. 5178". Amendment effective April 3, 2013.

Chapter 368 inserted (4) regarding transfer of money to fire suppression account. Amendment effective May 1, 2013.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 429 in (1) near beginning of first sentence after "90-4-302" inserted "or an invasive species emergency declared under 80-7-1013"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2009.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 429, L. 2009, provided: "WHEREAS, invasive species can wreak damage on the economy, environment, recreational opportunities, and human health; and

WHEREAS, aquatic invasive species, including Eurasian watermilfoil, the quagga mussel, and the zebra mussel, pose new and imminent threats, which if left unchecked could cost millions of dollars not only in damage to Montana waterways, rivers, and lakes, to water storage, delivery, and irrigation systems, to hydroelectric power structures and systems, and to aquatic ecosystems, but also to the entire state economy; and

WHEREAS, the enormous impact caused by the zebra mussel is clearly demonstrated in the eastern United States where the species was first observed in Lake Ontario in 1988 and spread to Lake Michigan and the Finger Lakes Region in New York State by the following year; and

WHEREAS, the United States Geological Survey estimates that $5 billion has been spent thus far in the Great Lakes Basin alone for damages caused by and control efforts for the zebra mussel; and

WHEREAS, the zebra mussel was first discovered in Lake Mead in January 2007 and has now spread to Lakes Mojave and Havasu and the Colorado River, impacting the states of Arizona, Nevada, and California, as well as to Pueblo Reservoir in Colorado, San Justo Reservoir in California, and Electric Lake in Utah; and

WHEREAS, Eurasian watermilfoil, the zebra mussel, and the quagga mussel are easily carried on vessels used in infested water and then transported to another body of water if the vessel has not been properly cleaned; and

WHEREAS, Eurasian watermilfoil is already present in Montana and unless Montana takes action now to prevent the infestation of its waters with the zebra mussel and quagga mussel it is only a matter of time before their introduction in this state occurs; and

WHEREAS, the most cost-effective way of dealing with an aquatic invasive species is preventing an infestation from occurring."

Severability: Section 19, Ch. 429, L. 2009, was a severability clause.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 182 in (1) near beginning after "emergency" inserted "including an energy emergency as defined in 90-4-302"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 426 in (1) near middle of first sentence increased maximum emergency appropriation from $12 million to $16 million. Amendment effective July 1, 2003.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 569 in (1) near middle of first sentence after "17-7-502, and" inserted "subject to subsection (2)" and inserted second sentence allowing the statutory appropriation to address a state-declared emergency to be used by any designated state agency; in (3) inserted second sentence allowing the statutory appropriation to address a federally declared emergency to be used by any designated state agency; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 55 near end of (1) substituted "exceed $12 million" for "exceed $2 million"; deleted former (1)(b) that read: "(b) Whenever an emergency or disaster due to fire is declared by the governor, there is statutorily appropriated to the office of the governor, as provided in 17-7-502, and the governor is authorized to expend from the general fund, an amount not to exceed $10 million in any biennium. The amount appropriated in this subsection (b) may be combined with the amount appropriated in subsection (1)(a) for an emergency or disaster due to fire"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 15, 1999.

1997 Amendment Not Codified: Chapter 422 in (1)(a), near end, increased amount to $4 million from $2 million; and in (1)(b), after "fire" in two places, inserted "or flood". Amendment effective April 29, 1997, and terminated July 1, 1997, pursuant to sec. 68(3), Ch. 422, L. 1997.

1995 Amendments: Chapter 176 in (1)(a), at end, inserted "minus any amount appropriated pursuant to 10-3-310 in the same biennium"; and made minor changes in style.

Chapter 401 in (1)(b) increased amount from $3 million to $10 million; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 13, 1995.

1992 Special Session Amendment: Chapter 12, Sp. L. July 1992, inserted (1)(b) to statutorily appropriate up to $3 million per biennium to the Governor's Office for a declared emergency or disaster due to fire; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective August 6, 1992.

1991 Amendment: In (1) inserted second sentence regarding reinstatement of spending authority when money is recovered.

1989 Amendment: At end of (1) increased from $1 million to $2 million the amount authorized for expenditure from the general fund; and inserted (2) relating to appropriation of $500,000 if a disaster is declared by the U.S. President.

1985 Amendment: Substituted language referring to statutory appropriation of emergency money to the Governor's office for "Whenever an emergency or disaster is declared by the governor, he is authorized to expend from the general fund not to exceed $1 million in any one biennium".

1983 Amendment: Increased maximum authorized expenditure from $750,000 to $1 million.

Attorney General's Opinions

Governor's Declaration Required — Expenditure of Other Funds: A disaster or emergency must be declared by the Governor before expenses may be incurred under this section. If a disaster is declared by the Governor, the statutory appropriation provided for in this section need not be expended before any other funds may be used for expenses associated with the disaster. 42 A.G. Op. 123 (1988).

Funding When National Guard Called to Active Duty in Emergency: Expenses incurred in the mobilization of the Montana National Guard when the Guard is mobilized pursuant to a declaration of emergency under 10-3-311 are funded through 10-3-312. 39 A.G. Op. 33 (1981).

CHAPTER 4
STATE EMERGENCY TELEPHONE SYSTEM

Chapter Administrative Rules

Title 2, chapter 13, subchapter 2, ARM Statewide emergency telephone system.

Part 1
Emergency Telephone System Plans

Part Case Notes

Dispatch of Public Safety Agency: While a public safety agency with jurisdictional responsibilities must be notified by the public safety answering point of a request for service in the agency's jurisdictional area, it is the public safety answering point's responsibility to determine how to provide the notification and which emergency service provider to actually dispatch in each instance. Bull Lake Fire District v. Lincoln County, 2013 MT 342, 372 Mont. 469, 313 P.3d 174.

Agency Not Required to Provide Free Dispatch Services: This part provides the requirements of an emergency telephone system when set up by a public or private safety agency and includes provisions enabling agencies with common boundaries to make agreements that would provide emergency service. However, nothing in the law requires an agency to provide free dispatch service to another entity that shares a common boundary. Cut Bank v. Glacier County, 270 M 355, 891 P2d 1174, 52 St. Rep. 228 (1995).

No Authority for Department of Revenue to Collect 9-1-1 Fees for Prepaid Wireless Phone Service — No Authority to Adopt Administrative Rules: The Legislature has not authorized the collection of 9-1-1 fees for prepaid wireless services purchased from independent retail stores. Absent this legislative authority, the Department of Revenue is not allowed to promulgate rules under 10-4-203 to allow for the collection of fees on these sales. 55 A.G. Op. 2 (2014).

10-4-201. Fees imposed for 9-1-1 services.

Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendment: Chapter 367 in (1)(a) before "9-1-1 services" deleted "basic", substituted "75 cents" for "25 cents", before "subscriber in the state" deleted "service", and at end substituted "for the administration of 9-1-1 programs in accordance with 10-4-305" for "on the amount charged for telephone exchange access services, wireless telephone service, or other 9-1-1 accessible services"; deleted former (1)(b) that read: "(b) for enhanced 9-1-1 services, a fee of 25 cents a month per access line on each service subscriber in the state is imposed on the amount charged for telephone exchange access services, wireless telephone service, or other 9-1-1 accessible services"; in (1)(b) at beginning deleted "for wireless enhanced 9-1-1 services", substituted "25 cents" for "50 cents", in middle substituted "on each subscriber" for "or subscriber", and substituted "for the grants provided in accordance with 10-4-306" for "on the amount charged for telephone exchange access services, wireless telephone service, or other 9-1-1 accessible services"; in (2) substituted "an access line" for "exchange access line services"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2018.

Saving Clause: Section 29, Ch. 367, L. 2017, was a saving clause.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 304 inserted (1)(c) concerning fee for wireless enhanced 9-1-1 services; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2007.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 448 throughout section changed "fee" to "fees"; in (1)(a), at beginning, inserted "for basic 9-1-1 services" and at end inserted "services, wireless telephone service, or other 9-1-1 accessible"; inserted (1)(b) establishing fee for enhanced 9-1-1 services; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

Applicability: Section 17, Ch. 448, L. 1997, provided: "(1) Except as provided in subsections (2) and (3), [this act] applies on July 1, 1997.

(2) [Sections 7, 18, and this section] [10-4-125 (now repealed), effective date section, and this section] apply on passage and approval [approved April 30, 1997].

(3) [Section 14] [10-4-311, now repealed] applies to calendar quarters beginning on or after October 1, 1997."

10-4-203. Provider required to maintain record of collections.

Compiler's Comments

Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 635, L. 1985, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this act because it delegates rulemaking to the department of administration and the department of revenue. It is the intent of the legislature that the department of administration solicit the advice of emergency service providers and the advisory council created by section 3 [10-4-102, now repealed] in developing rules for requirements of systems and criteria for approving or disapproving plans.

Rules adopted by the department of revenue must provide for forms for returns and requests for refunds that are not burdensome to providers. The rules must also provide recordkeeping requirements for service providers and dates when returns must be made. The department shall also prescribe standards by which it will determine whether a refund is payable."

Part 3
Emergency Telephone System Account — Usage

10-4-301. Establishment of emergency telecommunications accounts.

Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 367 in (1)(c)(ii) at end inserted "or must be deposited in accordance with 10-4-307". Amendment effective May 9, 2017.

Chapter 430 inserted (2) providing for legislative fund transfers; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2017, and terminates June 30, 2019. Although subsection (2) purports to terminate June 30, 2019, secs. 25 and 31, Ch. 367, L. 2017, provided that this section is repealed effective July 1, 2018.

Saving Clause: Section 29, Ch. 367, L. 2017, was a saving clause.

Section 19, Ch. 430, L. 2017, was a severability clause.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 110 in (2) in second sentence decreased the amount to be deposited from 3.74% to 2.74%, after "deposited in" substituted "an account in the special revenue fund to be used for the administration of this chapter" for "the state general fund", and inserted third sentence regarding distribution of funds remaining at the end of a fiscal year. Amendment effective July 1, 2009.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 304 inserted (1)(c) concerning account for fees collected for wireless enhanced 9-1-1 services and allocation of account; in (5) inserted reference to 10-4-313; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2007.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 41 inserted (3) providing for retention of interest earnings in emergency telephone service accounts; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 14, 2001.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 41, L. 2001, provided: "WHEREAS, the Legislature finds public safety to be of paramount importance; and

WHEREAS, emergency telephone systems are a critical component of facilities and services use by private and public agencies in providing public safety services to Montana citizens; and

WHEREAS, the 49th Legislature enacted legislation providing for emergency telephone systems, and this legislation was amended in subsequent sessions to address changing technology; and

WHEREAS, the Legislature intends that all money collected under section 10-4-201, MCA, be used only for providing emergency telephone system services; and

WHEREAS, sound business practices suggest that 9-1-1 funds be invested until a city or county has sufficient revenue to purchase equipment and other necessary items; and

WHEREAS, sections 10-4-303 and 10-4-312, MCA, require that a city or county use income from investments of 9-1-1 funds only for providing emergency telephone services; and

WHEREAS, sections 10-4-302 and 10-4-311, MCA, require that the state withhold the transfer of 9-1-1 funds to a city or county until a plan is approved; and

WHEREAS, city and county governments have built their emergency public safety answering point budgets on the good faith expectation that interest on investments held in trust by the state until a plan was approved would continue to be distributed to city and county governments; and

WHEREAS, the 55th Legislature, in passing House Bill No. 2, House Bill No. 166, and House Bill No. 210, intended to fund 9-1-1 administrative costs from both the basic and enhanced 9-1-1 accounts using a general fund appropriation pursuant to House Bill No. 2, which was intended to correspond to amounts transferred to the general fund pursuant to House Bill No. 166, in the amount of 3.74% of the total fees imposed for telephone exchange access services; and

WHEREAS, the 56th Legislature, in passing House Bill No. 69, further clarified its intent that general fund appropriations corresponding to transfers of 9-1-1 collections to the general fund were to be the sole funding source of administrative costs."

Retroactive Applicability: Section 3, Ch. 41, L. 2001, provided: "[This act] applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to:

(1) January 1, 1987, for all fees collected and interest earned from the investment of the money collected for basic 9-1-1 services under 10-4-201; and

(2) July 1, 1997, for all fees collected and interest earned from the investment of the money collected for enhanced 9-1-1 services under 10-4-201."

1999 Amendment: Chapter 389 in (2) in second sentence decreased amount from 7.48% to 3.74%; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1999.

1997 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 42 in fourth sentence, after "statutorily appropriated", inserted "as provided in 17-7-502". Amendment effective March 12, 1997.

Chapter 422 inserted second sentence relating to deposit in the state general fund; in third sentence, at beginning before "money", inserted "remaining"; at end of fifth sentence inserted "as provided in 17-7-502, to the department of administration"; in last sentence substituted "appropriations made for that purpose" for "temporary appropriations, as described in 17-7-501(1) or (2), made for that purpose"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1997. The Code Commissioner did not codify the amendment in the third sentence because of placement of the second sentence in subsection (2).

Chapter 448 in (1) substituted "There are established" for "A 9-1-1 emergency telecommunications account is established"; inserted (1)(a) and (1)(b) establishing accounts for basic and enhanced 9-1-1 services; at end of first sentence of (2) substituted "in the appropriate account" for "in the account"; in (3) substituted "balance of the respective accounts" for "balance of the account"; in (4) substituted "distribution of funds in the 9-1-1 emergency telecommunications accounts described in subsection (1)" for "distribution of the 9-1-1 emergency telecommunications account" and inserted reference to 10-4-311; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

In preparing the composite of this section, the Code Commissioner has moved the sentence relating to the general fund to subsection (2) for purposes of logical arrangement.

Coordination Instruction: Section 67, Ch. 422, L. 1997, provided: "If [this act] is passed and approved in a form de-earmarking a percentage of the 9-1-1 emergency telecommunications tax to the general fund and if House Bill No. 210 is passed and approved increasing the 9-1-1 emergency telecommunication tax to 55 cents, then the percentage de-earmarked to the general fund in [this act] is 3.76%." House Bill No. 210 was enacted as Ch. 448, L. 1997. Section 10-4-201 was amended by Ch. 448, but because the telecommunication tax was increased to only 50 cents, the 7.48% allocation to the state general fund enacted by sec. 5, Ch. 422, remains unchanged.

Applicability: Section 17, Ch. 448, L. 1997, provided: "(1) Except as provided in subsections (2) and (3), [this act] applies on July 1, 1997.

(2) [Sections 7, 18, and this section] [10-4-125, effective date section, and this section] apply on passage and approval [approved April 30, 1997].

(3) [Section 14] [10-4-311] applies to calendar quarters beginning on or after October 1, 1997."

1989 Amendment: Near middle, after "the balance of the account", deleted "is statutorily appropriated as provided in 17-7-502 to the department to" and inserted "must"; and inserted fourth and fifth sentences stating that the distribution of the account is statutorily appropriated and that expenditures for plan administration must be from temporary appropriations, as described in 17-7-501(1) or (2). Amendment effective July 1, 1989.

10-4-302. Distribution of basic 9-1-1 account by department.

Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendment: Chapter 367 deleted former (1)(c) that read: "(c) conversion of pay station telephones required by 10-4-121"; in (4) in middle substituted "10-4-107(4)" for "10-4-102(3)"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 9, 2017.

Saving Clause: Section 29, Ch. 367, L. 2017, was a saving clause.

Severability: Section 30, Ch. 367, L. 2017, was a severability clause.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 111 in (4) in first sentence inserted reference to failure to provide information and in second sentence at end inserted reference to provision of requested information; deleted former (5) that read: "(5) The department shall distribute any balance in the basic 9-1-1 account on July 1, 1998, on a per capita basis to those 9-1-1 jurisdictions that have approved final plans filed with the department as required by 10-4-112"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2009.

1997 Amendments: Chapter 422 in (1), after "entire account", deleted "beginning on April 1, 1987"; deleted former (1)(a) and (1)(b) that read: "(a) administrative costs incurred during the preceding calendar quarter by the department of revenue in carrying out this chapter. The amount paid may not exceed 1% of the account on the date of distribution or actual expenses incurred, whichever is less.

(b) administrative costs incurred during the preceding calendar quarter by the department in carrying out its duties under this chapter. The department's annual recovery of costs may not exceed 7% of the amount collected by the account during the fiscal year or actual expenses incurred, whichever is less"; in (2), in three places, substituted "subsection (1)" for "subsection (1)(c)"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

Chapter 448 in (1), at end of first sentence, substituted "entire basic 9-1-1 account" for "entire account beginning on April 1, 1987"; in (1)(a) reduced the percentage limitation of payments from the account from "1%" to "0.5%"; in (1)(b) reduced percentage limitation on recovery of costs from "7%" to "3.5%"; in (1) changed "fee" to "fees"; inserted (5) requiring distribution of account balance; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

Applicability: Section 17, Ch. 448, L. 1997, provided: "(1) Except as provided in subsections (2) and (3), [this act] applies on July 1, 1997.

(2) [Sections 7, 18, and this section] [10-4-125, effective date section, and this section] apply on passage and approval [approved April 30, 1997].

(3) [Section 14] [10-4-311] applies to calendar quarters beginning on or after October 1, 1997."

1991 Amendment: Substituted second sentence of (1)(b) regarding Department's annual recovery of costs for former second sentence that read: "The amount paid to the department may not exceed 7% of the account on the date of distribution or actual expenses incurred, whichever is less"; in (3), in first sentence, substituted "allocated" for "distributed", after "cities" substituted "and counties" for "within a 9-1-1 jurisdiction that have an approved final plan and to counties within a 9-1-1 jurisdiction that have an approved final plan", in second sentence substituted "be allocated" for "receive", deleted former third sentence that read: "Cities and counties shall distribute amounts received to 9-1-1 jurisdictions within their jurisdiction", in third sentence, before "each city", inserted "the allocation for", and inserted fourth and fifth sentences describing Department distribution of amounts and requiring a report. Amendment effective July 1, 1991.

10-4-303. Limitation on use of basic 9-1-1 funds.

Compiler's Comments

1997 Amendment: Chapter 448 at end of first sentence substituted "improving a basic 9-1-1 emergency telephone system" for "improving an emergency telephone system using 9-1-1" and in second sentence substituted "investments may be used" for "investments shall be used". Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

Applicability: Section 17, Ch. 448, L. 1997, provided: "(1) Except as provided in subsections (2) and (3), [this act] applies on July 1, 1997.

(2) [Sections 7, 18, and this section] [10-4-125, effective date section, and this section] apply on passage and approval [approved April 30, 1997].

CHAPTER 1
GENERAL PROVISIONS

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 414, L. 2003, provided: "WHEREAS, the U.S. Supreme Court in Bush v. Gore, 531 U.S. 98 (2000), found that the lack of uniform procedures for determining voter intent in Florida during the 2000 presidential election led to a violation of the U.S. Constitution's Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment; and

WHEREAS, at the request of the 57th Legislature, the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee devoted much of the 2001-2002 interim to a review of Montana election laws with respect to voting systems and counting processes in light of Bush v. Gore; and

WHEREAS, the interim study found that Montana's statutory provisions relating to ballots, voting systems, and vote counting processes needed to be updated, clarified, and in some instances revised to better define uniform standards and procedures to provide equal protection for votes cast by Montana voters; and

WHEREAS, the Subcommittee on Voting Systems of the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee agreed that statutory changes should be made with an eye on future technology but should also standardize current practices to the greatest extent possible.

THEREFORE, this legislation will enable the Secretary of State to adopt a statewide benchmark performance measure that voting systems must meet before they can be approved for use in the state; allow local election administrators to continue to choose which of the approved voting systems should be used locally; require the Secretary of State to adopt uniform statewide rules regarding ballot form, votes and vote counts, and other operational procedures specific to each voting system and to provide training to local election administrators; and require all counting boards to use the uniform counting procedures specified."

General Provisions

13-1-101. Definitions.

Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendment — Composite Section: Chapter 63 in definition of expenditure in (b)(ii) after "payments by a candidate" deleted "for a filing fee or". Amendment effective October 1, 2017.

Chapter 242 in definition of election administrator in (a) near beginning inserted exception clause and inserted (b) regarding use of the term to include an individual designated by a county governing body to be responsible for all election administration duties even if a school election is administered by a school district clerk; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 3, 2017.

Chapter 368 inserted definition of election judge; deleted definition that read: ""Transfer form" means a form prescribed by the secretary of state that may be filled out by an elector to transfer the elector's registration when the elector's residence address has changed within the county"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2018.

Transition — Special Purpose District Officers — Terms of Office — Retroactive Applicability: Section 18, Ch. 242, L. 2017, provided: "An officer of a special purpose district, as defined in 13-1-101, who was elected or appointed to a term of office that would otherwise have expired prior to the school election immediately following the expiration of the officer's term shall serve until the election or appointment of a successor under the laws effective on and after November 4, 2015, that provide for the special purpose district election to be held on the same day as the regular school election in May. This section applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to the terms of office for special purpose district officers elected before November 4, 2015."

2015 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 49 in definition of election after "general" deleted "regular"; in definition of federal election substituted "an election in even-numbered years" for "a general or primary election"; in definition of general election substituted current definition for former definition that read: ""General election" or "regular election" means an election held for the election of public officers throughout the state at times specified by law, including elections for officers of political subdivisions when the time of the election is set on the same date for all similar political subdivisions in the state. For ballot issues required by Article III, section 6, or Article XIV, section 8, of the Montana constitution to be submitted by the legislature to the electors at a general election, "general election" means an election held at the time provided in 13-1-104(1). For ballot issues required by Article XIV, section 9, of the Montana constitution to be submitted as a constitutional initiative at a regular election, regular election means an election held at the time provided in 13-1-104(1)"; in definition of political subdivision substituted "special purpose district" for "special district" and at end deleted "for officers or on a ballot issue"; in definition of primary substituted "on a date specified in 13-1-107 to nominate candidates for offices filled at a general election" for "throughout the state to nominate candidates for public office at times specified by law, including nominations of candidates for offices of political subdivisions when the time for nominations is set on the same date for all similar subdivisions in the state"; inserted definition of regular school election; in definition of school election substituted "20-1-101" for "20-20-101"; in definition of special election substituted current definition for former definition that read: ""Special election" means an election other than a statutorily scheduled primary or general election held at any time for any purpose provided by law. It may be held in conjunction with a statutorily scheduled election"; inserted definition of special purpose district; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

Chapter 259 inserted definitions of ballot issue or issue, ballot issue committee, coordinated, de minimis act, election communication, electioneering communication, incidental committee, independent committee, independent expenditure, political party committee, political party organization, and support or oppose; in definition of contribution substituted current definition for former text that read: ""Contribution" means:

(i) an advance, gift, loan, conveyance, deposit, payment, or distribution of money or anything of value to influence an election;

(ii) a transfer of funds between political committees;

(iii) the payment by a person other than a candidate or political committee of compensation for the personal services of another person that are rendered to a candidate or political committee.

(b) "Contribution" does not mean:

(i) services provided without compensation by individuals volunteering a portion or all of their time on behalf of a candidate or political committee or meals and lodging provided by individuals in their private residences for a candidate or other individual;

(ii) the cost of any bona fide news story, commentary, or editorial distributed through the facilities of any broadcasting station, newspaper, magazine, or other periodical publication of general circulation;

(iii) the cost of any communication by any membership organization or corporation to its members or stockholders or employees; or

(iv) filing fees paid by the candidate"; in definition of expenditure substituted current (a)(i) and (a)(ii) for "made for the purpose of influencing the results of an election" and in (b)(iii) following "commentary" inserted "blog"; deleted former definition of issue or ballot issue that read: "(a) "Issue" or "ballot issue" means a proposal submitted to the people at an election for their approval or rejection, including but not limited to initiatives, referenda, proposed constitutional amendments, recall questions, school levy questions, bond issue questions, or a ballot question.

(b) For the purposes of chapters 35 and 37, an issue becomes a "ballot issue" upon certification by the proper official that the legal procedure necessary for its qualification and placement upon the ballot has been completed, except that a statewide issue becomes a "ballot issue" upon preparation and transmission by the secretary of state of the form of the petition or referral to the person who submitted the proposed issue"; in definition of person following first "committee" inserted "including a political committee"; in definition of political committee substituted current definition for former text that read: ""Political committee" means a combination of two or more individuals or a person other than an individual who makes a contribution or expenditure:

(a) to support or oppose a candidate or a committee organized to support or oppose a candidate or a petition for nomination; or

(b) to support or oppose a ballot issue or a committee organized to support or oppose a ballot issue; or

(c) as an earmarked contribution"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2015.

Saving Clause: Section 20, Ch. 259, L. 2015, was a saving clause.

2013 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 336 inserted definition of signature envelope; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2014.

Chapter 347 inserted definitions of school election, school election filing officer, and school recount board; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 30, 2013.

2009 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 89 inserted definition of random-sample audit; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

Chapter 297 inserted definitions of mail ballot election, place of deposit, polling place election, and voted ballot; in definition of active elector at end substituted "whose name has not been placed on the inactive list due to failure to respond to confirmation notices pursuant to 13-2-220 or 13-19-313" for "who voted in the previous federal general election and whose name is on the active list"; in definition of candidate in (b)(iii) substituted "or" for "and"; in definition of election administrator near end after "elections" inserted "not administered by the county"; in definition of inactive elector near middle substituted "failed to respond to confirmation notices" for "failed to vote in the preceding federal general election" and at end inserted "or 13-19-313"; in definition of inactive list at end inserted "or 13-19-313"; in definition of provisional ballot substituted "identity or eligibility" for "identity and eligibility"; in definition of provisionally registered elector after "whose" inserted "identity or"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2007 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 273 in definition of ballot substituted "counted manually or a paper ballot counted by a machine" for "used with a paper-based system" and deleted former (b) that read: "(b) a nonpaper ballot, such as a ballot used with a nonpaper-based system, such as a lever machine, a direct recording electronic machine, or other technology"; in definition of voting system near end after "paper" deleted "or nonpaper"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Chapter 481 in definition of issue or ballot issue in (b) near middle after "upon" substituted "preparation and transmission" for "approval" and at end after "referral" inserted "to the person who submitted the proposed issue"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 11, 2007.

Severability: Section 29, Ch. 481, L. 2007, was a severability clause.

2003 Amendments — Composite Section — Coordination: Chapter 414 inserted definitions of ballot and valid vote; substituted definition of voting system or system for definition of voting machine or device that read: ""Voting machine or device" means any equipment used to record, tabulate, or in any manner process the vote of an elector"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

Section 93(1), Ch. 414, L. 2003, a coordination section, deleted the bracketed language in the definition of ballot after "optical scan system" that read: "a punchcard voting system".

Chapter 475 in definition of active elector near beginning after "means" substituted "an elector who voted in the previous federal general election and" for "a qualified elector"; in definition of active list near middle after "maintained" deleted "by an election administrator" and at end substituted "13-2-220" for "13-2-219"; in definition of application for voter registration near beginning after "means" substituted "a voter registration form prescribed by the secretary of state that is completed and signed by an elector" for "a completed voter registration card" and at end after "administrator, and" substituted "contains voter registration information subject to verification as provided by law" for "subject to confirmation, as provided in 13-2-207"; in definition of elector near middle after "qualified" deleted "and registered"; in definition of inactive elector near beginning after "individual" inserted "who failed to vote in the preceding federal general election and" and at end inserted "pursuant to 13-2-220"; in definition of inactive list near middle after "maintained" deleted "by an election administrator" and at end substituted "13-2-220" for "13-2-219"; inserted definitions of legally registered elector, provisional ballot, provisionally registered elector, statewide voter registration list, and transfer form; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2004.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 401 in definition of contribution in (b)(iii) and in definition of expenditure in (b)(iv) at end after "or stockholders or employees" deleted "as long as the organization is not a primary political committee"; in definition of issue in second sentence near beginning after "For the purposes of chapters" substituted "35 and 37" for "35, 36, or 37"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Case Notes

Justice of the Peace Resignation Upon Candidacy for Nonjudicial Office: A tribal office is not included in the definition of "elective public office" for purposes of the requirement that a judge must resign from office upon becoming a candidate for a nonjudicial office. Judicial Standards Comm'n v. Not Afraid, 2010 MT 285, 358 Mont. 532, 245 P.3d 1116.

Campaign Finance Laws — Due Process and Free Speech Violations: The federal appeals court held Montana's campaign regulations imposing reporting and disclosure requirements for in-kind contributions or expenditures impermissibly vague as applied to a church's provision of certain services that did not cause the church economic detriment and that did not have any definable value. Canyon Ferry Road Baptist Church of East Helena, Inc. v. Unsworth, 556 F3d 1021 (9th Cir. 2009).

Vacancy: The word vacancy as applied to a public office has no technical meaning, and it is not to be taken in a strict technical sense in every case. It may be said that an office is vacant when it is empty and without an incumbent who has a right to exercise its functions and take its fees or emoluments even though the vacancy is not a corporal one. "An office without an incumbent is vacant." LaBorde v. McGrath, 116 M 283, 149 P2d 913 (1944).

General Election: Under section 23-101, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), a general election was one held for the election of officers throughout the state. State ex rel. Rowe v. Kehoe, 49 M 582, 144 P 162 (1914).

Special Election: Under section 23-101, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), a special election was one held to supply a vacancy in a public office or to submit to the electors a proposition to raise money for any public improvement. State ex rel. Rowe v. Kehoe, 49 M 582, 144 P 162 (1914).

Attorney General's Opinions

County Commissioners — Term of Office When Appointed: When there was no primary or general election of county officials in 1976, a County Commissioner appointed to office in 1975 to serve until the next general election was to hold office until the 1977 election. 36 A.G. Op. 66 (1976).

Holidays — State General Election Day: State primary election days, including the day of the primary election for choosing delegates to the constitutional convention, are not state holidays. State general election days, including the day of the general election for choosing delegates to the constitutional convention, are state holidays. 34 A.G. Op. 20 (1971).

13-1-102. Elections by secret ballot.

Case Notes

Evidence: Under former law, when it appeared in an election contest that a voter's ballot had been endorsed by the judges of election, as required by law, it was necessary to show that it could not thereby be identified, in order to let in, as secondary evidence, testimony as to how he voted. Lane v. Bailey, 29 M 548, 75 P 191 (1904).

13-1-103. Determination of winner.

Compiler's Comments

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 before "votes" inserted "valid". Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

Case Notes

Voting for Deceased Candidate: The casting of a ballot at an election of public officers is an affirmative, not a negative, act. It is an act done with intention of voting for someone. Hence, if it is the purpose of voters to defeat a certain candidate, that purpose can be accomplished only by voting for some person in opposition to him, and not by voting for a person who died some weeks before election with the expectation that the vote cast for him would be counted as opposed to the person sought to be defeated. One who has died is no longer a person for whom, under Art. IX, sec. 2, 1889 Mont. Const. (now Art. IV, sec. 2, 1972 Mont. Const.), a voter may cast his ballot. State ex rel. Wolff v. Geurkink, 111 M 417, 109 P2d 1094 (1941).

13-1-104. Times for holding general elections.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 substituted current language concerning election dates for former section (see 2015 Session Law for former text). Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 475 in (1)(a) at beginning inserted exception clause and near middle after "general election" deleted "unless an earlier date is provided in a law authorizing a special election on an initiative or referendum pursuant to Article III, section 6"; inserted (1)(b) providing that a special election may be held on an initiative or referendum; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2004.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 514 in (3) substituted "first Tuesday after the first Monday of May" for "first Tuesday of April"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1999.

Effective Date — Applicability: Section 11(1), Ch. 514, L. 1999, provided that this section is effective July 1, 1999, and applies to school fiscal years beginning on or after July 1, 2000.

1987 Amendment: Chapter 216 in (3), after "subdivision", inserted "other than a municipality"; and inserted (4) setting general election date for municipalities required to hold annual elections.

Contingent 1987 Amendment: Chapter 644 in (3) substituted "regular school election day" for "school election day, the first Tuesday of April of each year".

Section 14(1), Ch. 644, L. 1987, provided that the amendment to this section was effective on passage and approval of legislation or adoption of party rules establishing the fourth Tuesday of March as the presidential primary election date or caucus date in any two of the states of Idaho, Washington, or Oregon prior to August 1, 1987. Contingency did not occur.

Applicability: Section 4, Ch. 216, L. 1987, provided: "Sections 2 and 3 apply to municipal elections held after the effective date of this act." Effective March 25, 1987.

1983 Amendment: In (1), after "November" inserted language relating to elections on ballot issues through "pursuant to Article III, section 6, and".

1981 Amendment: Inserted "and not required to hold annual elections" in (2); substituted "on school election day, the first Tuesday of April of each year, and is subject to the election procedures provided for in 13-1-401" for "with the general election provided for in subsections (1) and (2). If a primary election is necessary, it shall be held at the same time as the primary provided for the regular general election for that year" in (3).

Attorney General's Opinions

Submission of Constitutional Initiative at Statewide Primary Election Allowable: Citing numerous cases affirming the rationale that a primary election cannot be distinguished from any other regular or general election prescribed by law and distinguishing a primary election from a special election, which is an election called for a special purpose and not one fixed by law to occur at regular intervals, the Attorney General held that a constitutional amendment proposed by initiative pursuant to this section may be submitted to the voters at a regular statewide primary election. 44 A.G. Op. 20 (1991). See also 19 A.G. Op. 412 (1942).

When Judicial Appointee to Run for Election: An individual appointed by the Governor to the office of District Judge need not run in the general election in the year in which Senate confirmation takes place if, at the time of confirmation, the filing date for judicial candidates has passed. 41 A.G. Op. 52 (1986).

Time for Election of Newly Created District Court Judgeships: Subsection (1) of this section sets forth the schedule for general elections to be held in even-numbered years and lists those offices for which such an election is to be held, including the office of District Court Judge. Subsection (2) of this section provides the schedule for holding general elections in odd-numbered years, and its list of officers to be elected does not include District Court Judges but does include "any other officers specified by law for election in odd-numbered years". Chapter 293, L. 1983, increased the number of judgeships in several judicial districts and provided that the new judgeships could be initially filled at either the 1983 or 1984 general election. The provision of Ch. 293, L. 1983, allowing election of judges in an odd-numbered year is not in conflict with this section because, while subsection (1) would appear to require elections in even-numbered years, Ch. 293, L. 1983, contains specific authority for District Court Judges to be elected in odd-numbered years and thus the clause of subsection (2) "any other officers specified by law for election in odd-numbered years" is applicable. Further, 13-1-107(2), which sets forth the time for holding a primary election in an odd-numbered year, is the law applicable to any odd-numbered year primary election held under Ch. 293, L. 1983. 40 A.G. Op. 13 (1983).

Water or Sewer District Officers: Officers of water or sewer districts whose terms were due to expire in 1980 are entitled to remain in office until their successors are properly qualified following the election to be held in November 1981. 38 A.G. Op. 74 (1980).

Conservation District Officers: Officers of conservation districts shall be elected at the general election held in November of even-numbered years. 38 A.G. Op. 74 (1980).

Hospital, Fire, Irrigation, or Drainage District Officers: Officers of hospital, fire, irrigation, or drainage districts whose terms were due to expire in the spring of 1980 are entitled to remain in office until their successors are properly qualified following an election held in November 1980. 38 A.G. Op. 74 (1980).

Local Government Charter Requirements for General Election: The positions on the Anaconda-Deer Lodge Commission are subject to election at the primary and general elections to be held in 1978 and 1980 even though the charter creating the positions was implemented by the community in April 1977. 37 A.G. Op. 124 (1978).

County Commissioners — Term of Office When Appointed: When there was no primary or general election of county officials in 1976, a County Commissioner appointed to office in 1975 to serve until the next general election was to hold office until the 1977 election. 36 A.G. Op. 66 (1976).

Holidays — State General Election Day: State primary election days, including the day of the primary election for choosing delegates to the constitutional convention, are not state holidays. State general election days, including the day of the general election for choosing delegates to the constitutional convention, are state holidays. 34 A.G. Op. 20 (1971).

13-1-106. Time of opening and closing of polls for all elections — exceptions.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (3) substituted "is held on the same day as" for "held under 13-1-104(3) and"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 242 in (2) before "noon" inserted "at least" and after "time" inserted "that precinct in". Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 360 in (1) at beginning inserted exception clause; in (2) substituted "400" for "200"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

1985 Amendment: Inserted (2) providing in certain cases for polls to open and close at times set for school election.

1983 Amendment: In (1) changed opening time from 8 a.m. to 7 a.m. and changed excepted polling places from those with less than 100 registered electors to those with less than 200 registered electors.

13-1-107. Times for holding primary elections — cost of municipal election.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1) substituted "held in an even-numbered year" for "provided for in 13-1-104(1)"; in (2) substituted "held in an odd-numbered year" for "provided for in 13-1-104(2)"; in (3) substituted current text concerning cost for "If the general election for a municipality required to hold annual elections is held in November, as provided in 13-1-104(4), a primary election, if required, shall be held on the Tuesday following the second Monday in September. In an even-numbered year, the cost of this election must be paid by the municipality"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

1987 Amendment: Inserted (3) setting date of primary election for municipalities required to hold annual elections.

Applicability: Section 4, Ch. 216, L. 1987, provided: "Sections 2 and 3 apply to municipal elections held after the effective date of this act." Effective March 25, 1987.

Attorney General's Opinions

Time for Election of Newly Created District Court Judgeships: Subsection (1) of 13-1-104 sets forth the schedule for general elections to be held in even-numbered years and lists those offices for which such an election is to be held, including the office of District Court Judge. Subsection (2) of 13-1-104 provides the schedule for holding general elections in odd-numbered years, and its list of officers to be elected does not include District Court Judges but does include "any other officers specified by law for election in odd-numbered years". Chapter 293, L. 1983, increased the number of judgeships in several judicial districts and provided that the new judgeships could be initially filled at either the 1983 or 1984 general election. The provision of Ch. 293, L. 1983, allowing election of judges in an odd-numbered year is not in conflict with 13-1-104 because, while subsection (1) would appear to require elections in even-numbered years, Ch. 293, L. 1983, contains specific authority for District Court Judges to be elected in odd-numbered years and thus the clause of subsection (2) "any other officers specified by law for election in odd-numbered years" is applicable. Further, subsection (2) of this section, which sets forth the time for holding a primary election in an odd-numbered year, is the law applicable to any odd-numbered year primary election held under Ch. 293, L. 1983. 40 A.G. Op. 13 (1983).

Filling Vacant Office: When the office of County Commissioner has become vacant with no opportunity to nominate candidates in the primary election, the selection of candidates for the general election will be made by each political party according to 13-10-327; and, pursuant to 13-12-208 (now repealed), write-in candidates may also seek the office. The appointee to fill the immediate vacancy will hold that office until the next general election. 37 A.G. Op. 147 (1978).

13-1-108. Notice of political subdivision elections.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1) in first sentence substituted language regarding election administrator's notice requirements and exception for "Notice of any special election must be broadcast or published at least three times in the 4 weeks immediately preceding the election", in second sentence inserted "The notice must be published" and substituted "by broadcasting the notice" for "may be broadcast", in third sentence inserted "The notice must be given", and in last sentence substituted "this subsection" for "this section"; inserted (2) regarding a newspaper with weekly publication; inserted (3) regarding notice for election on creation, dissolution, or boundary alteration of a special purpose district; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 242 near beginning after "immediately preceding the" substituted "election" for "close of registration on radio or television as provided in 2-3-105 through 2-3-107 or" and inserted "or may be broadcast on radio or television as provided in 2-3-105 through 2-3-107". Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 297 in first sentence near beginning after "must be" inserted "broadcast or" and at end inserted "using the method the election administrator believes is best suited to reach the largest number of potential electors"; at end of second sentence inserted "or broadcast of the notice"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 273 in first sentence substituted "three times in the 4 weeks immediately preceding the close of registration" for "once a week for the 3 successive weeks before the election" and inserted last sentence relating to the third publication; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

13-1-109. Election records open to public.

Attorney General's Opinions

Voter Registration Forms and Precinct Registers: The original signed voter registration form is available for public inspection unless the elector's social security number appears on it. Precinct registers are public records available for inspection after election returns are canvassed. The ballots and ballot stubs sealed pursuant to 13-1-303 are not available for public inspection as provided in 13-1-109. 38 A.G. Op. 65 (1980).

13-1-111. Qualifications of voter.

Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 273 at end of (1)(c) inserted exception clause; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Case Notes

Part of Section Unconstitutional — Voting Rights of Montana Residents of Yellowstone Park Upheld: The Supreme Court specifically adopted the substance of a District Court summary judgment in declaring subsection (1)(c) of this section unconstitutional insofar as it acts to deny residents of the Montana portion of Yellowstone park from voting in state and local elections. Olson v. Dept. of Revenue, 223 M 464, 726 P2d 1162, 43 St. Rep. 1916 (1986).

Incarcerated Felons Excluded From Suffrage: The provisions of Montana's Constitution excluding incarcerated felons from suffrage are constitutionally permissible under the Equal Protection Clause, both in the federal and state constitutional versions. Further, 13-1-111, defining the qualifications of electors, also passes constitutional muster. Emery v. St., 177 M 73, 580 P2d 445 (1978).

Effect of Federal Conviction for Offense Not a Felony Under State Law: A Montana voter cannot be denied the right to vote because of conviction of an offense in Federal Court that would not be a felony by Montana statutory definition. Melton v. Oleson, 165 M 424, 530 P2d 466 (1974), overruling State ex rel. Anderson v. Fousek, 91 M 448, 8 P2d 791 (1932).

Residency Requirements:

Durational residency requirements of 3 months in county and 1 year in state as conditions precedent to voting violate the Equal Protection Clause of the 14th amendment. The unreasonableness of the classification was established by the fact that the registration books in Tennessee were not closed until 30 days before the election, and this was ample time to complete whatever administrative tasks were necessary to ensure the purity of the ballot box. Dunn v. Blumstein, 405 US 330 (1971), distinguished in Marston v. Lewis, 410 US 679 (1973).

As it did in the Voting Rights Act Amendments of 1970, 42 U.S.C. § 1973aa-1, Congress can prohibit states from disqualifying voters in elections for presidential and vice-presidential electors because they have not met state residency requirements, and can set residency requirements and provide for absentee balloting in presidential and vice-presidential elections. Oregon v. Mitchell, 400 US 112 (1970).

Racial Discrimination Prohibited: Congress is empowered, as it did in the Voting Rights Act Amendments of 1970, 42 U.S.C. § 1973aa-1, to prohibit use of literacy tests or other devices used to discriminate against voters on account of their race in all state and national elections. Oregon v. Mitchell, 400 US 112 (1970).

Attorney General's Opinions

School Trustee Nominations: An elector nominating a candidate for a school trustee position under 20-3-305(2) must be registered to vote at the time the nominating petition is filed. 43 A.G. Op. 24 (1989).

Voter Registration — Proof of Residence Not Required: A County Clerk and Recorder may not request proof of residence of those intending to register to vote. 42 A.G. Op. 67 (1988).

Voter Qualifications — Irrigation District Election: In order to vote in an irrigation district election under Title 85, ch. 7, part 17, an individual must be: (1) a landowner in the irrigation district; (2) a citizen of the United States; (3) 18 years of age or older; and (4) a resident of Montana and the county in which he offers to vote for at least 30 days. 42 A.G. Op. 47 (1987).

City Employees — Eligibility to Hold City Office: Under the state's constitution, any qualified elector is eligible to hold any public office, subject to additional qualifications as provided by the Legislature. A municipality may not enact an ordinance that prohibits city employees from holding office on the City Council. 41 A.G. Op. 81 (1986).

Servicepersons — Registration to Vote — Tax Liability: The fact that a member of the military service has registered to vote in Montana is evidence, though not conclusive proof, that he is a Montana resident and is thus not exempt, under the federal Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940, from property and income taxation by Montana. Montana's election law requires one to be a resident of Montana before voting in the state's elections, so a serviceperson who has registered to vote in Montana (thereby claiming to be a resident) may not claim tax exemption under the federal Act without offering convincing evidence that he is in fact not a Montana resident after all. However, to claim he is not in fact a resident after having registered to vote in Montana would subject him to prosecution for the misdemeanor of fraudulent registration. 41 A.G. Op. 2 (1985).

Residency — Elector Requirement as Qualification for County Office: A practicing attorney who has declared his intention to make a county his permanent home, is actively seeking a permanent residence in that county, and is in the process of terminating his personal business affairs at his former residence has become a resident of the county and is eligible for appointment as a full-time County Attorney once he has resided in the county for 30 days if he becomes a qualified registered elector and meets other qualifications for the office. 38 A.G. Op. 22 (1979).

Prisoner Voting Rights: No person may vote in the state of Montana while serving a sentence in a penal institution resulting from conviction of a felony. 37 A.G. Op. 125 (1978).

Electors — Qualifications: Durational residence requirements for elector qualification contained in Art. IX, sec. 2, 1889 Mont. Const., and this section, prior to 1973 amendment, are unconstitutional. 34 A.G. Op. 40 (1972).

2003 Amendment: Chapter 271 inserted (3)(c) providing that a member of a reserve component of the United States armed forces who is stationed outside of the state but who has no intent of changing residency retains resident status; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 9, 2003.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 63, Ch. 271, L. 2003, provided: "[This act] applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to occurrences after December 31, 2002."

1999 Amendment: Chapter 51 in (2) near middle before "prison" deleted "public"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 15, 1999.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 74 near beginning of introductory clause, after "voting", inserted "or seeking election to the legislature"; and made minor changes in style.

Case Notes

Interpretation of Residency in City Ordinance: A Virginia City ordinance defined a resident as a person who resided within the town for at least 30 days prior to an election. Plaintiffs sought invalidation of a mail ballot election on the grounds that not all voters had resided within the city in the month prior to the election. The Supreme Court applied this section in holding that plaintiffs' interpretation would be burdensome and would effectively disenfranchise many voters in a town that was largely composed of seasonal residents. The court determined that a sounder interpretation was that the individual must reside within the city for a minimum of 30 days to establish residency. Given the fact that no evidence was offered that any elector had voted elsewhere or did not intend to return to Virginia City and in light of plaintiffs' failure to timely challenge any elector's right to vote or the registration of any elector, plaintiffs' challenge of residency was properly disallowed. Drummond v. Virginia City, 253 M 428, 833 P2d 1067, 49 St. Rep. 510 (1992).

Residence of Prisoner: A felon convicted and imprisoned in Montana who is not a resident of this state at the time of conviction does not gain residency for voting purposes during his jail term, and a Montana resident will not lose his voting residence because of incarceration. Emery v. St., 177 M 73, 580 P2d 445 (1978).

Inapplicable to Licensing of Automobiles: Section prescribing the conditions determining the right to vote with respect to residence of the voter had no bearing upon the situs of one's property (an automobile) or the ownership thereof for purpose of taxation or licensing. Valley County v. Thomas, 109 M 345, 97 P2d 345 (1939).

Acts and Intent of Voter: The residence of a voter is to be determined from his acts and intent; but this fact, like any other fact involved in a civil action or proceeding, may be established by circumstantial evidence, and any declarations of the voter touching the subject, if a part of the res gestae, or any declarations in disparagement of his right to vote, if made at or before the election, may be received in evidence. Sommers v. Gould, 53 M 538, 165 P 599 (1917).

Presumption: Predecessor to subsection (7) was held to be in reality a rule of evidence. Carwile v. Jones, 38 M 590, 101 P 153 (1909).

Attorney General's Opinions

Voter Qualifications — Irrigation District Election: In order to vote in an irrigation district election under Title 85, ch. 7, part 17, an individual must be: (1) a landowner in the irrigation district; (2) a citizen of the United States; (3) 18 years of age or older; and (4) a resident of Montana and the county in which he offers to vote for at least 30 days. 42 A.G. Op. 47 (1987).

Servicepersons — Registration to Vote — Tax Liability: The fact that a member of the military service has registered to vote in Montana is evidence, though not conclusive proof, that he is a Montana resident and is thus not exempt, under the federal Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940, from property and income taxation by Montana. Montana's election law requires one to be a resident of Montana before voting in the state's elections, so a serviceperson who has registered to vote in Montana (thereby claiming to be a resident) may not claim tax exemption under the federal Act without offering convincing evidence that he is in fact not a Montana resident after all. However, to claim he is not in fact a resident after having registered to vote in Montana would subject him to prosecution for the misdemeanor of fraudulent registration. 41 A.G. Op. 2 (1985).

Facts Sufficient to Establish Residency for Purposes of Qualification for County Office: A practicing attorney who has declared his intention to make a county his permanent home, is actively seeking a permanent residence in that county, and is in the process of terminating his personal business affairs at his former residence has become a resident of the county and is eligible for appointment as a full-time County Attorney once he has resided in the county for 30 days if he becomes a qualified registered elector and meets other qualifications for the office. 38 A.G. Op. 22 (1979).

Residency as Grounds for Challenge — Standing: An elector in a school election may be challenged on election day by any registered elector of the district and may be disqualified from voting by the election judges if he is not a resident of the school district in which the election is held. 35 A.G. Op. 56 (1974).

Residence of Minors and Others for Voting Purposes: Emancipated minors and persons 19 years of age or over may register to vote in the community in which they live if they intend to make that community their residence. Mere presence at a college or university is not sufficient to establish residence in a community but must be coupled with an actual intent to make that community one's residence. A person who is attending an institution of learning may retain his original residence for voting purposes if he intends that place to be his residence. Unemancipated minors are residents of the place where their parents reside and may register to vote in that place if they will be 18 years of age at the time of the election. 34 A.G. Op. 13 (1971).

Statement of Intent: The statement of intent that accompanied SB 65 (Ch. 571, L. 1979) provided in part: "In subsection (1)(a) of section 12, the authority given to issue written directions and instructions is intended to give legal standing to the type of directives and instructions the secretary of state has issued in the past in regard to elections and is not intended to significantly increase the number of directives and instructions. The main purpose of a directive or instruction should be to assist election administrators in their duties and assure uniform procedures are used in all counties whenever possible.

In subsection (1)(c) of section 12, the secretary of state is authorized to issue advisory opinions. It is the intent of the Legislature that advisory opinions should be made primarily for administrative problems that do not apply to all counties in the state or to problems that do not regularly occur. An opinion should be issued only when the person requesting the opinion and the secretary of state believe the problem is administrative in nature and does not require a legal opinion from a county attorney or the attorney general."

If a county election administrator specifies polling places or hours that differ from those set for the school election, the county shall bear any additional costs incurred as a result of the different polling places or hours."

Section 14(1), Ch. 644, L. 1987, provided that the amendment to this section was effective on passage and approval of legislation or adoption of party rules establishing the fourth Tuesday of March as the presidential primary election date or caucus date in any two of the states of Idaho, Washington, or Oregon prior to August 1, 1987. Contingency did not occur.

1983 Amendment: In (1) substituted language referring to payment of costs by counties and other subdivisions for "(1) Unless specifically provided otherwise, all costs of the primary and general elections regularly scheduled for even-numbered years shall be paid by the counties.

(2) Costs of the primary and general elections regularly scheduled for odd-numbered years shall be paid by the counties and other political subdivisions for which the elections are held. Each political subdivision shall bear its proportionate share of the costs as determined by the county governing body."; and inserted (7) explaining proportionate costs.

1981 Amendment: In (3) following "regularly scheduled" substituted "school election" for "election" and substituted "election administrator and the school district election administrator" for "governing body".

Attorney General's Opinions

Counties — Printing Contract: The reproduction of the list of registered voters required by this section is "printing" as defined by 1-1-203 and must be done by the county printing contractor. 36 A.G. Op. 82 (1976).

Voters — Taxpayer Qualifications: In an opinion written before the adoption of the 1972 Montana Constitution and before the 1973 and subsequent amendments of this section, the Attorney General held that taxpayer qualifications for elections as provided for in Art. IX, sec. 2, 1889 Mont. Const., were invalid, that taxpayer qualifications for petitioning were presumed valid, and that it was no longer mandatory for the county registrar to stamp "taxpayer" beside the name of an elector as required, at the time of the opinion, by this section. 34 A.G. Op. 47 (1972).

Close of Registration

13-2-301. Close of regular registration — notice — changes.

Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendment: Chapter 242 in (1)(b) at beginning deleted "except as provided in subsection (5)"; deleted former (5) that read: "(5) The method of a notice about the close of regular registration for a school election must be as specified in 20-20-204"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 3, 2017.

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1)(b) at beginning inserted exception clause; and inserted (5) regarding method of notice for close of regular registration. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

2013 Amendment: Chapter 336 deleted former (4) that read: "(4) An individual who submits a completed registration form to the election administrator before the deadlines provided in this section is allowed to correct a mistake on the completed registration form until 5 p.m. on the 10th day following the close of regular registration, and the qualified elector is then eligible to vote in the election"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2014.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 297 in (1)(b) in first sentence at beginning substituted "publish" for "broadcast", after "will close" substituted "and the availability of the late registration option provided for in 13-2-304" for "on radio or television as provided in 2-3-105 through 2-3-107 or publish the notice", and at end after "registration" inserted remainder of sentence providing for broadcast of notice and in second sentence at end inserted "or broadcast of the notice"; in (4) at end deleted "at the polling place for that elector's precinct"; in (5) at beginning deleted "Subject to the provisions of 13-2-304"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2005 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 286 in (1)(a) after "close" inserted "regular"; in (1)(b) at beginning substituted "broadcast" for "publish", after "day" inserted "regular", and near middle after "2-3-107 or" inserted "publish the notice"; inserted (3) concerning proper application postmarked on or before day regular registration is closed; in (4) after "provided in" substituted "this section" for "subsection (1)(a)", after "close of" inserted "regular", and at end substituted "election at the polling place for that elector's precinct" for "next election"; inserted (5) concerning elector who misses deadlines; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2006.

Chapter 586 in (1)(b) near middle substituted "three times in the 4 weeks preceding" for "once a week for 3 weeks before" and inserted last sentence regarding third publication. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 7 in (1)(a) after "election" deleted "except as provided in 13-2-212(3)"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1991 Amendment: At end of (1)(a) inserted exception clause. Amendment effective April 1, 1991.

1985 Amendment: Inserted (3) allowing correction of mistakes on completed registration forms.

Case Notes

Durational Residency Requirements: Durational residency requirements of 3 months in county and 1 year in state as conditions precedent to voting violate the Equal Protection Clause of the 14th amendment. The unreasonableness of the classification was established by the fact that the registration books in Tennessee were not closed until 30 days before the election, and this was ample time to complete whatever administrative tasks were necessary to ensure the purity of the ballot box. Dunn v. Blumstein, 405 US 330 (1971), distinguished in Marston v. Lewis, 410 US 679 (1973).

Objection Waived: Under 13-2-303 (now repealed), the objection that a measure created a state debt, levy, or liability, and that therefore it should have been placed upon a separate ballot, is waived if not raised before the election. State ex rel. Graham v. Bd. of Examiners, 125 M 419, 239 P2d 283 (1952).

Date for Holding Election: Under Ch. 122, L. 1915 (now repealed), a period of not less than 60 days was required to lapse between time an election was called and time it was held. State ex rel. Eagye v. Bawden, 51 M 357, 152 P 761 (1915).

Attorney General's Opinions

Applicability of General Election Laws to County Water and Sewer Districts: The specific provisions governing water and sewer district elections in Title 7, ch. 13, part 22, prevail over the requirements of the general election laws when the two conflict; therefore, the closure of registration and notice of closure requirements of 13-2-301 do not apply insofar as the time periods conflict. Reasonable time limitations can be adopted by the Board of Directors, giving electors at least 20 days' notice prior to closing registration. 37 A.G. Op. 45 (1977).

13-2-304. Late registration — late changes.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1) deleted reference to subsection (3); in (1)(c) inserted "and subsection (1)(d)"; inserted (1)(d) regarding late registration for a school election; in (2) after "county election office" inserted "or received by the school district if the district is administering the election" and after "system" inserted "or by the school district if the district is administering the election"; deleted former (3) that read: "(3) The provisions of subsection (1) do not apply with respect to an elector's registration to vote in a school election held pursuant to Title 20 [unless the county election administrator is conducting the school election and an election other than a school election on the same day]"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

2013 Amendment — Code Commissioner Correction: Chapter 336 in (2) substituted "system" for "database"; in (3) after "Title 20" inserted language concerning elections on same date. Amendment effective January 1, 2014, and void on occurrence of contingency. The code commissioner has not made the amendment to substitute "system" for "database" contingent on approval by the electorate for consistency with other noncontingent amendments made by Ch. 336.

Coordination — Contingent Voidness: Section 64, Ch. 336, L. 2013, provided that if Senate Bill No. 405 is passed and approved, the amendments to this section made by sec. 12, Ch. 336, L. 2013, are void. Senate Bill No. 405 was passed by the legislature and was rejected by the electorate in November 2014.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 242 in (2) near beginning after "has already been" substituted "issued a" for "sent an absentee" and after "voter registration information only" substituted remainder of sentence for "with respect to the next election". Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 297 in (1)(c) at end substituted "if the elector obtains the ballot from and returns it to the location designated by the county election administrator" for "if the elector votes at the county election administrator's office". Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 273 inserted (1)(b) relating to closure of late registration; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Effective Date: Section 21(2), Ch. 286, L. 2005, provided: "(2) [Sections 1 and 3 through 6] [13-2-304, 13-2-110, 13-2-115, 13-2-301, and 13-2-514] are effective July 1, 2006."

Part 4
Cancellation of Registration

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Revision of Voter Registration List by School Trustees Prohibited: Montana law does not permit the exercise of discretion by anyone other than the election administrator to revise the number of names on a voter registration list, pursuant to Title 13, ch. 2, part 4. Therefore, school trustees are not permitted under 20-9-428 to revise the number of voters on the certified list of registered electors when determining the percentage of voter turnout at a school bond election. 42 A.G. Op. 19 (1987).

Electors — Cancellation of Registration: The phrase "within forty-five (45) days prior to the closing of registration" in 13-2-403 (now repealed) (as it read prior to 1977 amendment) meant "at any time not less than forty-five (45) days prior to the close of registration". 36 A.G. Op. 43 (1975).

2009 Amendment: Chapter 297 inserted (7)(b) concerning inactive list; in (7)(c) at beginning inserted "then"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 586 in (1) substituted "elector submits a written request for cancellation" for "at the written request of the registered elector"; in (2) near middle inserted "to the election administrator" and at end inserted "or through a newspaper obituary"; deleted former (6) that read: "(6) if the elector is successfully challenged and not allowed to vote at an election upon determination of an election judge"; inserted (8) regarding failure of elector to meet voter qualification; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 475 in (7) after "received from" inserted "the secretary of state or from" and before "county" substituted "another" for "that". Amendment effective January 1, 2004.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 96 in (8) after "two" substituted "consecutive" for "subsequent". Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 208 in (8) inserted "general". Amendment effective March 30, 1999.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 246 inserted (8) requiring registration to be canceled if elector fails to respond to mailings or fails to vote; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 11, 1997.

1995 Amendments: Chapter 418 in (2) substituted "department of public health" for "department of health and environmental sciences"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1995.

Chapter 546 in (2) substituted "department of public health and human services" for "department of health and environmental sciences". Amendment effective July 1, 1995.

Transition: Section 499, Ch. 418, L. 1995, provided: "The provisions of 2-15-131 through 2-15-137 apply to [this act]."

Saving Clauses: Section 503, Ch. 418, L. 1995, was a saving clause.

Section 571, Ch. 546, L. 1995, was a saving clause.

1981 Amendment: In (6), substituted "upon determination of an election judge" for "as provided in 13-13-308".

Case Notes

Incarcerated Felons Excluded From Suffrage: The provisions of the Montana Constitution excluding incarcerated felons from suffrage are constitutionally permissible under the Equal Protection Clause, both in the federal and state constitutional versions. Emery v. St., 177 M 73, 580 P2d 445 (1978).

Effect of Federal Conviction for Offense Not a Felony Under State Law: A Montana voter cannot be denied the right to vote because of conviction of an offense in federal court that would not be a felony by Montana statutory definition. Melton v. Oleson, 165 M 424, 530 P2d 466 (1974), overruling State ex rel. Anderson v. Fousek, 91 M 448, 8 P2d 791 (1932).

Part 5
Transfer of Registration

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Election on Annexation of Portions of Yellowstone Park: Eligible residents of the portion of Yellowstone National Park proposed for annexation into Park County under Ch. 447, L. 1977, must be accorded the opportunity to vote on the question of annexation. Each registrant must establish that the Park is where he resides, and to this end, the registrar should require that registrants agree to cancel any prior registrations in the State of Montana or elsewhere. 37 A.G. Op. 161 (1978).

13-2-511. Change of residence or name.

Compiler's Comments

2011 Amendment: Chapter 242 substituted current language for "An elector shall notify the election administrator of a change in residence within the county or a change in name by using a transfer form provided by the election administrator or by completing the changed information on a registration or mail registration form. The form must be signed and affirmed or verified as required on the form. If a registration or mail registration form is used, it must be clearly marked "for transfer of address" or "for change of name" in a space provided on the form for that purpose." Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

13-2-512. Right to vote when precinct or name changed — change of status.

Compiler's Comments

2011 Amendment: Chapter 242 in (1) near middle after "registration form may vote" inserted "at the polling place or by absentee or mail ballot"; and in (3) after "before being allowed to" substituted "vote in a polling place election or by absentee or mail ballot" for "sign the precinct register and vote". Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 446 deleted former (4) that read: "(4) If an inactive elector appears to vote or votes by absentee ballot in a federal election, that elector must be allowed to vote and must be removed from the inactive list and placed on the active list." Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 246 in (1), near end after "change", inserted "or at a central location designated by the election administrator" and after "as provided in" deleted "13-2-207, 13-2-401, or"; in (2), near end after "as provided in", deleted "13-2-207, 13-2-401, or"; inserted (4) requiring that inactive elector be allowed to vote and changed from inactive to active list; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 11, 1997.

13-2-513. Procedure for correcting or updating registration.

Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendment: Chapter 368 after "shall make the necessary corrections" inserted "or updates" and substituted "receives a corrected or updated registration" for "receives a transfer form or corrected registration". Amendment effective January 1, 2018.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 475 at beginning inserted "Subject to rules adopted under 13-2-108" and at end after "registration form" deleted "if he is satisfied the form is valid" and deleted former second sentence that read: "The original registration form may be fastened to the back of the new form, in which case the original and current forms must be retained, or the original registration form may be marked "canceled" and filed in a canceled file"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2004.

13-2-514. Change of residence to another county.

Compiler's Comments

2005 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 286 in (1) at beginning inserted exception clause and at end deleted "unless the change occurs less than 45 days before the election"; inserted (2)(b) concerning updating registration information; in (3) near middle substituted "whose information is changed pursuant to this section" for "who votes under the provisions of subsection (2)" and near end after "list" deleted "after the election"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2006.

Chapter 586 in (1) (temporary version) near end and in (2) (both versions) near middle substituted "30 days" for "45 days". Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 475 deleted former (3) that read: "(3) The elector must state his correct name and residence address and date of residence change when offering to vote or when applying for an absentee ballot. The election administrator shall note the information on the elector's registration form if an absentee ballot application is received. The election judges shall note the change of address and date of residence change in the precinct register if the elector votes in person"; in (3) near beginning after "registration" inserted "information", after "subsection (2)" substituted "must be updated in the statewide voter registration list" for "of this section shall be canceled", and at end inserted "pursuant to rules adopted under 13-2-108"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2004.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 inserted (5) providing that the exterior of voting systems or their booths and every part of the polling place must be in plain view of the judges; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

1987 Amendment: In (2) added sentence relating to accessibility designation.

1981 Amendment: Added subsection (4) referring to publicly owned buildings used as polling places.

Case Notes

Changing Designation: The Board of County Canvassers refused to canvass election returns from a precinct on the ground that it appeared upon the face of the returns that the election had not been held at the place designated by the Board of County Commissioners. On application for Writ of Mandate to compel them to act nothing was shown affirmatively by pleadings or otherwise to indicate that the election judges at the precinct had not pursued section 23-407, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), giving them authority to change the place of election upon 2 days' notice if for any reason it cannot be held at the place appointed. Therefore, it will be presumed that official duty was regularly performed by the election judges and that they did change the place of election, and the Writ will issue. State ex rel. Moore v. Compiler's Comments

2009 Amendment: Chapter 297 deleted former (2)(a) that read: "(a) Standards for polling places approved pursuant to subsection (1) prior to October 1, 2005, must be consistent with the standards for accessibility established by the American national standards institute and the uniform federal accessibility standards"; in (2) after "approved" inserted "pursuant to subsection (1)"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 228 in (2)(a) and (2)(b) at beginning inserted "Standards for"; inserted (3) concerning adoption of rules; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 367 at beginning of (1)(b) inserted language concerning polling places approved prior to October 1, 2005; inserted (2) concerning accessibility standards for polling places approved on or after October 1, 2005; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 472 substituted reference to disabilities for reference to handicapped.

1987 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 200, L. 1987, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because it grants the secretary of state authority to adopt rules to assure accessibility at the polling place for handicapped and elderly voters. Such rules must be adopted under the Montana Administrative Procedure Act and must be consistent with the provisions of this act.

It is the intent of the legislature that the secretary of state adopt rules to establish standards that a polling place must meet in order to be designated accessible under this act. Wherever possible, these standards should be consistent with the standards established by the American National Standards Institute and the Uniform Federal Accessibility Standards.

In addition, it is intended that the secretary of state establish polling place classifications and survey procedures to determine whether polling places are accessible to handicapped and elderly voters. The secretary of state should also define the basis for an emergency exemption under section 8, which allows an election administrator to relocate an established polling place within 10 days prior to an election.

Finally, it is contemplated that the secretary of state establish procedures to allow an elector to vote on election day by alternative means if he is prevented from voting at his assigned polling place because it is inaccessible."

2007 Amendment: Chapter 228 deleted former (1)(c) and (1)(d) that read: "(c) technically inaccessible but usable; or

(d) rural"; deleted former (2) through (6) that read: "(2) An accessible polling place is one that meets the standards for accessibility established by the secretary of state under 13-3-205.

(3) An inaccessible polling place is one that does not meet the standards for accessibility and cannot be made accessible through safe, practical, and cost-effective methods.

(4) A technically inaccessible but usable polling place is one that does not meet all the standards for accessibility but has been surveyed, evaluated, and certified as being adequate for use as a polling place. The certification is cause for the secretary of state to grant the polling place an exemption from the standards for accessibility. However, in a future election, the secretary of state may issue an objection to the criteria used for determining that the facility is usable as a polling place.

(5) A rural polling place is one that serves less than 200 registered electors and is:

(a) granted an exemption from the standards for accessibility established under 13-3-205; and

(b) subject to review and redesignation 45 days prior to an election.

(6) A rural designation may not be construed as cause for denying electors with disabilities or elderly electors at a polling place the right to choose an alternative means for casting a ballot on election day as provided in 13-3-213"; and made minor changes in style. CHAPTER 4
ELECTION JUDGES

Chapter Compiler's Comments

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 414, L. 2003, provided: "WHEREAS, the U.S. Supreme Court in Bush v. Gore, 531 U.S. 98 (2000), found that the lack of uniform procedures for determining voter intent in Florida during the 2000 presidential election led to a violation of the U.S. Constitution's Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment; and

WHEREAS, at the request of the 57th Legislature, the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee devoted much of the 2001-2002 interim to a review of Montana election laws with respect to voting systems and counting processes in light of Bush v. Gore; and

WHEREAS, the interim study found that Montana's statutory provisions relating to ballots, voting systems, and vote counting processes needed to be updated, clarified, and in some instances revised to better define uniform standards and procedures to provide equal protection for votes cast by Montana voters; and

WHEREAS, the Subcommittee on Voting Systems of the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee agreed that statutory changes should be made with an eye on future technology but should also standardize current practices to the greatest extent possible.

THEREFORE, this legislation will enable the Secretary of State to adopt a statewide benchmark performance measure that voting systems must meet before they can be approved for use in the state; allow local election administrators to continue to choose which of the approved voting systems should be used locally; require the Secretary of State to adopt uniform statewide rules regarding ballot form, votes and vote counts, and other operational procedures specific to each voting system and to provide training to local election administrators; and require all counting boards to use the uniform counting procedures specified."

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 deleted former (2) and (3) that read: "(2) A board of election judges, designated as a counting board, may be appointed in any precinct if recommended by the election administrator.

(3) A board of election judges, designated as a counting board for absentee ballots, may be appointed to count all absentee ballots for all precincts if recommended by the election administrator"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

1983 Amendment: At beginning of (2), changed "A second board" to "A board"; and inserted (3) referring to appointment of counting board for absentee ballots.

13-4-102. Manner of choosing election judges.

Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendment: Chapter 365 in (1) after "registered electors" deleted "for each precinct"; and in (3) substituted "county" for "precinct". Amendment effective October 1, 2017.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 242 in (3) in third sentence and in (4) in second sentence inserted "meeting the requirements of this section". Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 297 in (4) in second sentence substituted "may select enough people meeting the qualifications of 13-4-107" for "may randomly select, either by manual drawing or by computer, sufficient qualified registered electors in the county"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 in (1) at beginning inserted "Subject to 13-4-107"; in (3) in second sentence near beginning substituted "the number of election judges needed to obtain a simple majority" for "a majority"; in (5) at end substituted "provided in 13-4-103" for "assigned by the election administrator for 2 years"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 232 in (4), in second sentence after "insufficient", deleted "any qualified registered elector from the county may be appointed" and inserted remainder of subsection providing that if one or more eligible political parties fails to submit a list, the qualified registered electors selected to fill vacancies may be selected by a random method, either by manual drawing or by computer; and inserted (5) requiring notification of potential judges and requiring them to attend a training class and to serve for 2 years.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 297 in (1) in first sentence substituted "the state or federal minimum wage, whichever is greater" for "the prevailing federal minimum wage"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 47 in (1) in first sentence after "paid at" inserted "least". Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 44 in (1) inserted last sentence excluding election judges from unemployment insurance coverage if remuneration received is less than $1,000 in a calendar year. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 44, L. 2001, provided: "WHEREAS, section 21, Chapter 195, Laws of 1995, contained a contingent termination provision based upon the amendment of 26 U.S.C. 3304 to no longer require that election judges receive unemployment insurance coverage, but the authority for states to exclude election officials and election workers from unemployment insurance coverage was contained in 26 U.S.C. 3309(b)(3)(F)."

1995 Amendment: Chapter 195 deleted last sentence in (1) that read: "Election judges are exempt from unemployment insurance coverage for services performed pursuant to this chapter"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 1996.

Applicability: Section 19, Ch. 195, L. 1995, provided: "[This act] applies to hearings or appeals requested on or after [the effective date of sections 2 through 10 and 12 through 19]." Sections effective March 23, 1995.

Contingent Termination: Section 21, Ch. 195, L. 1995, provided: "If 26 U.S.C. 3304 is amended to no longer require that election judges receive unemployment insurance coverage, then [section 1 of this act] [13-4-106] terminates on the date on which the U.S.C. amendment is effective." The effect of the termination would be to reinsert the following sentence at the end of (1): "Election judges are exempt from unemployment insurance coverage for services performed pursuant to this chapter." Section 26 U.S.C. 3309(b)(3)(F) contains the authority for states to exclude election officials and election workers from unemployment insurance coverage, so the contingent voidness of certain language was rendered ineffectual. Chapter 44, L. 2001, amended this section by inserting the last sentence of subsection (1).

1991 Amendment: At beginning of (1) inserted exception clause and inserted third sentence concerning exempting election judges from unemployment insurance coverage; and in (2), before "reimbursed", inserted language allowing chief election judge to be paid at higher rate than other election judges.

13-4-107. Qualifications of election judges.

Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendment: Chapter 365 in (1) after "county" deleted "and of the precinct" and at end deleted "except as provided in 13-4-102(4)"; inserted (3) precluding a person from serving as an election judge if a family member's name appears on any ballot being voted on within the venue. Amendment effective October 1, 2017.

for "machines or devices and paper ballots"; in (2) at end inserted "even if they possess a current certificate of instruction"; deleted former (4) that read: "(4) The secretary of state shall prepare and distribute training materials for election judges. The materials shall include instructions on the use of all machines or devices approved for use in this state, as well as paper ballots. Enough copies of the materials to supply all election judges in the county and provide a small extra supply shall be sent to each election administrator. The secretary of state shall hold at least one workshop every 2 years to instruct election administrators and their staffs in use of the materials. Workshops may be held in various locations around the state. Costs of the materials and workshops shall be paid by the secretary of state"; in (4) in first sentence inserted "under this section" and in second sentence at end inserted "obtained under 13-1-203(3) or this section"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

13-4-207. Judges to remain at polls — emergency provisions — part-time service.

Constitutionality of Freeholder Requirement — False Swearing-In Declaration Not a Violation: The freeholder requirement of 7-4-4401, prior to its amendment in 1979, was unconstitutional since it had no relation to a person's qualifications and ability to serve as City Councilman, resulting in an invidious discrimination violative of equal protection. Thus, appellant's false swearing as to freeholder status in his filed declaration of nomination did not constitute a violation of the election laws. Sadler v. Calculation of Term Limits — "Current Term" Defined: Pursuant to 13-10-201, the phrase "current term" used in Art. IV, sec. 8, Mont. Const., means the term served after regular election to a full term of office. Under this definition, a candidate may file for office if, at the time the candidate begins to serve in, rather than file for, that office, the candidate will have had an 8-year break in service over a 16-year period. 54 A.G. Op. 4 (2012).

Timetables for Filing Declarations of Nomination and Changing Precinct Boundaries — Study Commission Recommendations: The timetable for filing declarations of nomination found in 13-10-201(6) and the timetable for changing precinct boundaries found in 13-3-102(1) apply to candidates for County Commissioner positions created by the adoption of a local government study commission proposal. 41 A.G. Judges — Vacancy Before Primary Election: In an opinion written before revision of the election laws in 1979, the Attorney General held that statutes prescribing time limitations, within which declarations for nomination and certification of nominees by the Secretary of State must be made, do not apply to a case where a vacancy occurs in the office of a regularly elected District Judge if there is sufficient time before the primary to allow declarations to be filed and the ballots printed. 33 A.G. Case Notes

Time for Filing Acceptance by Write-In Candidate: Under section 23-910, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), which required write-in candidate to file within 10 days after "election", the term "election" meant the day of election and not the day on which the canvass of the ballots was completed; hence a candidate for House of Representatives who filed acceptance 18 days after election was not entitled to a Writ of Mandate to compel the County Clerk to include his name on the general election official ballot. Failure to File Acceptance — Effect of Subsequent Resignation: When a successful write-in candidate at a nominating election failed to file his acceptance within 10 days after election day, his subsequent resignation did not result in a vacancy which the county central committee of his party could fill. Administrative Rules

ARM 44.3.2403 Determining a valid write-in vote in manually counting and recounting paper ballots.

Case Notes

Ballots With Only Last Name Listed Properly Rejected: Paulsen lost an election for Sheriff when 37 ballots were disallowed by election judges, principally ballots with only a last name listed. The District Court rejected Paulsen's challenge because the ballots did not contain a name consistent with one of the 30 names submitted by Paulsen in his declaration of intent to be a write-in candidate. Paulsen argued that because no other person named Paulsen or Paulson filed a declaration of intent, all written-in votes with those names should have been counted for him. However, election laws clearly specify what names voters may write in when the candidate being voted for has filed a declaration of intent, and if one of those names is not used, then the vote may not be counted. Even though there is a strong tradition in Montana jurisprudence to effectuate the honest choice of the electors, marking of ballots must not be expressly forbidden by statute and must substantially comply with the law. The 37 rejected ballots were properly disallowed, and the District Court correctly upheld the election officials' decision. Paulsen v. Huestis, 2000 MT 280, 302 M 157, 13 P3d 931, 57 St. Rep. 1170 (2000). See also Marsh v. Overland, 274 M 21, 905 P2d 1088 (1995).

Plaintiff Only Write-In Candidate — No Requirement That All Write-In Votes With His Surname Be Counted for Him: Marsh argued that all write-in votes for "Marsh" should have been recorded as votes for him rather than rejected by the county recount board because he was the only qualified write-in candidate. The Supreme Court held that a write-in vote had to be unambiguous to be counted and that the argument ignored the fact that there had been write-in votes for other Marshs, thereby making it impossible to determine if a vote for "Marsh" was a vote for him. Marsh v. Overland, 274 M 21, 905 P2d 1088, 52 St. Rep. 1099 (1995).

1985 Amendment: At end of (1) substituted "75 days" for "30 days".

Case Notes

Write-In Candidates: When a successful write-in candidate at a nominating election failed to file his acceptance within 10 days after election day, his subsequent resignation did not result in a vacancy which the county central committee of his party could fill. State ex rel. Wilkinson v. McGrath, 111 M 102, 106 P2d 186 (1940).

Defective Proceedings: An election will not be declared void by reason of nonprejudicial defects in the manner in which nomination was declined when question was raised after election. Stackpole v. Hallahan, 16 M 40, 40 P 80 (1895).

Attorney General's Opinions

Judicial Candidates — Right to Withdraw: In an opinion written before 1979 amendment, the Attorney General held that a candidate for nomination to a judicial office may withdraw after the deadline for filing a declaration for nomination and before the primary nominating election by filing a statement of withdrawal with the Secretary of State's office. On such withdrawal, the former candidate's name is removed from the judicial primary ballot at the direction of the Secretary of State. 33 A.G. Op. 20 (1970).

Case Notes

Votes for Deceased Candidate — Election of Write-In Candidate: A candidate for reelection to a county office died 24 days before the election. His death was known generally to electors but his name was placed on the ballot. A majority voted for him supposing to retain his widow who had been appointed to fill the vacancy until the next general election. The Supreme Court ruled that a write-in candidate receiving the highest vote cast for any living person was entitled to a Writ of Mandate to compel the County Canvassing Board to reconvene and cause certificate of election to be issued to him. State ex rel. Wolff v. Geurkink, 111 M 417, 109 P2d 1094 (1941).

Attorney General's Opinions

Filling Vacant Office: Prior to the 1979 amendment of 7-4-2106, the Attorney General held that if the office of County Commissioner has become vacant with no opportunity to nominate candidates in the primary election, the selection of candidates for the general election will be made by each political party according to 13-10-327; and, pursuant to 13-12-208 (now repealed), write-in candidates may also seek the office. The appointee to fill the immediate vacancy will hold that office until the next general election. 37 A.G. Op. 147 (1978).

Vacancies — How Filled: The office of a Public Service Commissioner who dies after the primary election date must be placed on the general election ballot. The elected successor will take office when elected and qualified and will serve out the unexpired term. Political party nominations for the general election may be made in accordance with the customs of each political party. Nominations for independent candidates or candidates of parties not eligible for the direct primary must be made in accordance with Title 13, ch. 10, part 5. 35 A.G. Op. 95 (1974).

2009 Amendment: Chapter 56 made section gender neutral; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

Case Notes

Constitutional Convention: Legislature was not empowered to provide for nomination and election of delegates to constitutional convention under Art. XIX, sec. 8, 1889 Mont. Const., solely by nonpartisan means, since this would be a substantial change from manner of election and nomination provided for under this chapter. Forty-Second Legislative Assembly v. Lennon, 156 M 416, 481 P2d 330 (1971), distinguished in Mahoney v. Murray, 159 M 176, 496 P2d 1120 (1972).

Error in Certificate:

Under former law, the inadvertent failure to include the name of a convention nominee for a certain office in the certificate of nominations rendered the certificate insufficient. State ex rel. Galen v. Hays, 31 M 227, 78 P 301 (1904).

Under former law, an error in the party name on the certificate of nomination rendered it void. State ex rel. Scharnikow v. Hogan, 24 M 397, 62 P 683 (1900).

Nominee of Electors Not Party Candidate: It is by means of the certificate of nomination that the County Clerk is informed how to prepare the official ballot for the electors. The Secretary of State cannot certify a candidate nominated by electors as the candidate of a political party, for clearly he is not such a candidate and has no place in a group of candidates certified as nominated by a regular political party convention or organization, under the name of the party making such nomination. State ex rel. Woody v. Rotwitt, 18 M 502, 46 P 370 (1896).

Attorney General's Opinions

Independent Candidate: In an opinion written before the general revision of the election laws in 1979, the Attorney General held that a candidate unsuccessfully seeking a party's nomination in the primary election may afterwards be nominated by certificate to appear on the general election ballot as an independent candidate. 33 A.G. Op. 26 (1970).

13-10-502. Signature requirements for petition.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 537 in (3) near middle after "last election for the office" substituted "the officer with whom nominations for the office sought are filed" for "the secretary of state". Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

13-10-503. Filing deadlines.

Compiler's Comments

2013 Amendment: Chapter 336 in (1) and (2) before "the required filing fee" substituted "and" for "accompanied by"; in (1) deleted former third sentence that read: "If there are insufficient signatures on the petition, additional signatures may be submitted before the deadline for filing"; in (2) substituted "filed before the scheduled primary election or the filing deadline for the special or general election if a primary election is not scheduled" for "filed by the applicable deadline established in 13-10-201(6)(a) or (6)(b)"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2014.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 292 in (2) at end substituted "the applicable deadline established in 13-10-201(6)(a) or (6)(b)" for "the deadline established in 13-10-201(6)". Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2007 Amendment — Coordination: Section 2, Ch. 458, L. 2007, a coordination section, in (1) inserted fourth sentence requiring county election administrator upon verification and certification of signatures to file petition for nomination; in (2) inserted "for nomination, accompanied by the required filing fee" and substituted reference to deadline established by 13-10-201(6) for "before the scheduled primary election or the filing deadline for the special or general election if a primary election is not scheduled"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

The amendments to this section made by sec. 12, Ch. 273, L. 2007, and by sec. 1, Ch. 458, L. 2007, were rendered void by sec. 2, Ch. 458, L. 2007, a coordination instruction.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 390 near beginning of (1), after "nomination", inserted "and the affidavits of circulation required by 13-27-302"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

1991 Amendment: In (2) substituted "filed before the scheduled primary election or the filing deadline" for "filed on or before the filing deadline for the primary election".

1983 Amendment: In second sentence of (1), after "Petitions" deleted "to be filed with the secretary of state"; changed "must first be submitted" to "must be submitted"; inserted last sentence of (1) dealing with insufficient signatures.

Case Notes

Election Loss in Primary — Lack of Standing to Challenge Constitutionality of Filing Deadline for Independent Candidates: A former County Attorney who lost a primary election as a party candidate and who attempted to file a late petition for nomination as an independent candidate and his supporter are not the right parties to raise the issue of constitutionality of filing deadlines for independent candidates. The candidate has not been denied access to the general election ballot by law but by the will of the electors in the party he sought to represent. Plaintiffs have each exercised full candidacy and electoral rights as partisans. One cannot attack the constitutionality of laws that now work in one's disfavor, having taken advantage of the same laws when they worked in one's favor. State ex rel. Racicot v. District Court, 244 M 521, 798 P2d 1004, 47 St. Rep. 1785 (1990).

Time of Filing: Prior law requiring certificates of nomination to be filed with the Secretary of State not more than 60 or less than 30 days before election was mandatory, and a certificate of original nominations made at a party convention could not be filed less than 30 days before election. State ex rel. Galen v. Hays, 31 M 227, 78 P 301 (1904).

13-10-504. Independent or minor party candidates for president or vice president.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 537 in (1) near end after "secretary of state" substituted "76 days" for "90 days"; and in (3) at end substituted "no later than 76 days before the general election" for "when the petition for nomination is filed". Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 193 at end of first sentence in (3) inserted "or 5,000 electors, whichever is less"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 1999.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 390 in (2), after "petition", inserted "and the affidavits of circulation required by 13-27-302"; inserted (4) authorizing qualified independent presidential candidate to amend petition and designate or choose named vice presidential candidate until filing date provided in 13-25-101; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

13-10-505. Applicability.

Compiler's Comments

1985 Amendment: Near end of section inserted "for nominations to fill a vacancy".

13-10-507. Independent candidates — association with political parties not allowed.

Compiler's Comments

2013 Amendment: Chapter 336 in (2) after "run for office" inserted "in Montana" and after "held" substituted "a public office in Montana or a precinct committee representative office in Montana" for "an office". Amendment effective January 1, 2014.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 56 made section gender neutral. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

Attorney General's Opinions

U.S. Senate Seat as Statewide Office — Senate Candidate Required to Qualify Party for Subsequent Primary Elections: On the question of whether a political party must have a candidate participate in the 1990 U.S. senatorial race in order to remain qualified for ballot status in the 1992 election, the Attorney General noted that subsection (1) of this section (prior to 1991 amendment) requires that a candidate for a statewide office receive a 5% vote in the last general election in order for the party to be eligible to nominate candidates in the subsequent primary election. A reasonable interpretation of "statewide office" is an office for which a statewide election is held, including the office of U.S. Senator. Thus, because the only election decided by a statewide vote in 1990 is for a U.S. Senate seat, a political party must have a candidate receive the requisite number of votes in the 1990 election in order for the party to automatically qualify to nominate candidates by primary election in 1992. 43 A.G. Chapter Compiler's Comments

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 414, L. 2003, provided: "WHEREAS, the U.S. Supreme Court in Bush v. Gore, 531 U.S. 98 (2000), found that the lack of uniform procedures for determining voter intent in Florida during the 2000 presidential election led to a violation of the U.S. Constitution's Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment; and

WHEREAS, at the request of the 57th Legislature, the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee devoted much of the 2001-2002 interim to a review of Montana election laws with respect to voting systems and counting processes in light of Bush v. Gore; and

WHEREAS, the interim study found that Montana's statutory provisions relating to ballots, voting systems, and vote counting processes needed to be updated, clarified, and in some instances revised to better define uniform standards and procedures to provide equal protection for votes cast by Montana voters; and

WHEREAS, the Subcommittee on Voting Systems of the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee agreed that statutory changes should be made with an eye on future technology but should also standardize current practices to the greatest extent possible.

THEREFORE, this legislation will enable the Secretary of State to adopt a statewide benchmark performance measure that voting systems must meet before they can be approved for use in the state; allow local election administrators to continue to choose which of the approved voting systems should be used locally; require the Secretary of State to adopt uniform statewide rules regarding ballot form, votes and vote counts, and other operational procedures specific to each voting system and to provide training to local election administrators; and require all counting boards to use the uniform counting procedures specified."

13-12-101. Copies of election laws to be furnished.

Compiler's Comments

1993 Amendment: Chapter 113 deleted former (2) that read: "(2) The secretary of state shall, at the expense of the state, furnish the election administrator with copies of the election laws relating to penalties, campaign practices, campaign finances, and contested elections. The public official with whom a candidate files a declaration, petition, or acceptance of nomination shall transmit one copy to the candidate. A copy shall also be furnished to any other person required to file a statement. Upon his own information or at the written request of any elector, the secretary of state shall provide a copy to any other individual who is a candidate or who is required to make a statement required by this title"; and made minor changes in style.

1983 Amendment: Near beginning of (1), after "shall" substituted "furnish to each election administrator copies of this title sufficient to provide" for "publish copies of the election laws and laws which relate to elections. He shall transmit sufficient copies to each election administrator to furnish"; and at end of (1), inserted "for the administrator".

Dual Candidacy Authorized: In an opinion written before the general revision of the election laws in 1979, the Attorney General held that a candidate for state representative may also be placed on the ballot as a candidate for precinct committeeman. 36 A.G. Op. 80 (1976).

13-12-204. Method of correction of ballot.

Compiler's Comments

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 in introductory clause near end substituted "prepared" for "printed"; in (1) substituted "correct the ballot in a manner consistent with rules adopted under 13-12-202" for "order labels printed containing the name of the new candidate and any other information required to go on the ballot. If labels are printed, the election administrator shall affix the labels in the proper place on each ballot or deliver the labels to the chief election judges to be affixed in the proper place on each ballot before it is given to the elector"; and in (2) substituted "redone" for "reprinted". Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 85 in introductory clause, after "13-10-327", inserted reference to 13-10-328 and advancement of candidate for Lieutenant Governor to Governor; in (1), after "new", substituted "candidate" for "nominee" and at beginning of second sentence inserted "If labels are printed"; inserted (2) and (3) authorizing Election Administrator to either reprint entire ballot or have separate ballot prepared for particular office; and made minor changes in style.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 273 in (2)(a) at beginning of first sentence deleted "Except as provided in subsection (3)"; deleted former (3) that read: "(3) In a precinct where a nonpaper-based voting system is used, the election administrator need not rotate candidates' names as provided in subsection (2) on the paper ballots required under 13-17-305 unless more than 5% of the electors voting in the precinct in the last preceding general election voted using paper ballots. If the candidates' names are not rotated, the election administrator shall determine by lot the arrangement of the names on the paper ballot required under 13-17-305"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 in (1) at end inserted "and rotated as provided in this section"; in (2)(e) substituted "preparing" for "printing"; in (3) near beginning of first sentence substituted "a nonpaper-based voting system is" for "voting devices are" and at end deleted "the election administrator shall rotate candidates' names on the paper ballots" and at end of second sentence inserted "required under 13-17-305"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

1985 Amendment: In (2)(a) at beginning, inserted "Except as provided in subsection (3)"; and inserted (3) referring to rotation of names on paper ballots in precincts where voting devices are used.

Attorney General's Opinions

Requirement for Mandatory Name Rotation Not Mandatory When Challenged After Election — Results Not Voidable: Following an election, a candidate whose name appeared at the top of the ballot less frequently, due to an oversight by the election administrator, objected to the method of name placement. In view of the history of Montana law and in light of decisions from courts in other states, the Attorney General held that subsection (2) of this section is not mandatory when challenged after an election because an error in the rotation of names on the ballot does not obstruct a free and intelligent casting of the vote and is not essential to the validity of the election. Therefore, failure of the election administrator to rotate the names of the candidates so that each name appeared at the top of the ballot on substantially an equal number of ballots did not render the results of the election void. 43 A.G. Op. 59 (1990).

Ballots — Rotation of Candidates' Names: The names of all candidates for public office may be rotated on election ballots within legislative districts within the county. A certified list of voters registered in each precinct is not required to implement the rotation of candidates' names on the election ballot. 35 A.G. Op. 75 (1974).

Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

Case Notes

Sticker With Premarked "X" Not Legal Ballot: District Court erred in finding ballots valid when electors marked ballot with a printed sticker containing name of write-in candidate and premarked "X", without electors marking an "X" before the name on the printed sticker. Since the statute calls for the voter to make his mark, an affirmative act is called for to signify his selection. The provisions of Montana's election laws as to the marking of the ballot and use of stickers are mandatory and not directory. State ex rel. Browne v. District Court, 167 M 477, 539 P2d 1182 (1975).

Use of Uniform Ballot Required: Under section 23-1102, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), a uniform ballot had been adopted, to be printed and distributed at public expense, and no ballots other than those so provided can be cast or counted. Harrington v. Crichton, 53 M 388, 164 P 537 (1917).

2011 Amendment: Chapter 242 inserted (3) allowing warning notices to contain other information prescribed by the secretary of state; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

13-13-114. Voter identification and marking precinct register book before elector votes — provisional voting.

Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendment: Chapter 368 in (1)(c) near end before "new registration form" deleted "transfer form or"; and in (1)(d) after "An election judge shall write" deleted ""transfer form" or". Amendment effective January 1, 2018.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 242 in (2) near middle after "register" and before "the elector" inserted language concerning provisional registration. Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 367 deleted former (3) that read: "(3) If the elector is not able to sign the elector's name to the precinct register, a fingerprint or other identifying mark may be used"; in middle of (3) substituted "the elector is disabled and a fingerprint, an identifying mark, or a signature by a person authorized to sign for the elector pursuant to 13-1-116 is not provided" for "unable to write, fails to provide a fingerprint or other identifying mark"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 475 in (1)(a) in first sentence after "ballot or vote" substituted "the elector shall present to an election judge a current photo identification showing the elector's name" for "he shall sign his name on the place designated in the precinct register. Before signing the register, the elector shall state his name and current address" and at beginning of second sentence substituted "the elector does not present photo identification" for "the name or address is not as listed in the precinct register" and inserted enumeration of types of identification; inserted (1)(b) pertaining to an elector signing the precinct register and being provided with a ballot; in (1)(c) at beginning before "the elector" inserted clause pertaining to the election judge determining if the information supplied by an elector is sufficient to verify identity and eligibility to vote, after "the elector" deleted "must", inserted "may sign the precinct register", and at end substituted "elector's voter registration information, and vote" for "information"; in (1)(d) deleted second sentence that read: "No elector may sign the precinct register unless his name and address are the same as shown in the register or the proper corrections have been made"; inserted (2) pertaining to an elector casting a provisional ballot if there is insufficient information to verify identity and eligibility to vote; in (4) at end substituted "may cast a provisional ballot as provided in 13-13-601" for "may not vote"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2004.

1991 Amendment: Deleted former (2) concerning election judges requiring affidavit from two electors verifying identity of elector unable to sign precinct register and providing for filing of affidavit; inserted (2) concerning use of fingerprint or other identifying mark if elector unable to sign precinct register; and in (3), after "fails to", substituted "provide a fingerprint or other identifying mark" for "procure two electors who will take the oath required".

Case Notes

Failure to Sign: Failure of the election judges of a precinct to require the electors to sign the registry books before voting at a primary election was the fault of the judges and not of the electors, and therefore their votes were legal and properly counted. Thompson v. Chapin, 64 M 376, 209 P 1060 (1922).

13-13-115. Recording number of voters and ballots.

Compiler's Comments

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 substituted sentence providing that each precinct's election administrator must use a method to record the number of voters and number of ballots cast that conforms to the method prescribed by the secretary of state for former text that read: "(1) In precincts using paper ballots, the name of each elector who votes shall be entered in a pollbook and numbered in the order voting so that the number corresponds with the number on the stubs of the ballots given the elector or an election judge may use a numbering device to stamp the number of the ballot stub next to the name of the elector in a precinct register/pollbook.

(2) In precincts where machines or devices are used, a pollbook need be used only for paper ballots. The election administrator shall provide such precincts with some method of recording the number of individuals voting." Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

1991 Amendment: At end of (1), after "elector", inserted language concerning election judge using numbering device to stamp ballot stub number next to elector's name.

13-13-116. Paper ballots to be marked — one ballot to elector.

Compiler's Comments

2011 Amendment: Chapter 242 in (1) near middle of first sentence after "ensure that the ballot is" substituted "individually stamped" for "marked" and deleted former second sentence that read: "The election judges shall also ensure that the ballot is marked with the name of the county, the number of the precinct, and any other information the election administrator believes necessary to distinguish the ballots from those used in any other election"; and in (2) at end substituted "for which the elector is eligible" for "being used at the election". Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 in (1) in first sentence substituted "a paper ballot" for "ballots", after "judges shall" substituted "ensure that the ballot is marked with" for "stamp", after "without part of the" substituted "mark" for "stamp", and at end inserted "if any" and in second sentence substituted "ensure that the ballot is marked with" for "stamp"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 390 in last sentence of (1), after "precinct", deleted "the date of the election"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

1987 Amendment: In (1), at end of first sentence, deleted "back near the top of the" before "ballot".

Case Notes

Removal of Stamp With Stub — Effect: Under section 23-1209, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), when ballots had been delivered to electors by the judges of election with the official stamp apparently in the place in which the law requires it to be, although in reality it was on the stub instead of on the ballot proper, the act of the judges in removing the stamp with the stub (thus leaving the ballot without the stamp) did not render the ballot void. Harrington v. Crichton, 53 M 388, 164 P 537 (1917).

13-13-117. Method of voting.

Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 273 in (1)(a) at beginning deleted "Upon receipt of a paper ballot or, if a nonpaper ballot is used" and after "13-13-115" inserted "and receiving a ballot"; in (1)(b) at beginning of first sentence substituted "An election judge or voting system shall" for "If a paper ballot was cast, an election judge shall" and near end substituted "without allowing anyone to examine" for "without opening or examining" and at beginning of second sentence deleted

"Only an election judge may put a ballot in a ballot box, and"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 in (1)(a) after "Upon receipt of a" inserted "paper", inserted "or, if a nonpaper ballot is used, after marking the precinct register pursuant to 13-13-115", and substituted "a voting station" for "one of the booths"; deleted former (3) that read: "(3) The elector may vote for a write-in candidate by marking the ballot in a manner consistent with the instructions provided by the election administrator pursuant to 13-13-112. Except as provided in 13-15-202, a ballot marked for a write-in candidate in accordance with the appropriate instructions must be counted as if the name of the write-in candidate had been printed on the ballot"; inserted (1)(b) relating to replacement of a spoiled ballot; in (2)(a) substituted "After the elector has completed voting, the elector shall ensure the proper disposition of the elector's ballot in accordance with instructions provided pursuant to 13-13-112" for "The judge receiving the ballots shall remove the stubs in sight of the elector and deposit each ballot in the ballot box and each stub in a box for detached stubs"; in (2)(b) in first sentence inserted "If a paper ballot was cast, an election" and in second sentence after "put a ballot" deleted "any paper resembling a ballot, or anything other than a ballot" and at end inserted "and nothing other than a ballot may be put in a ballot box"; deleted former (6) that read: "(6) An elector who spoils the elector's ballot must, on returning the spoiled ballot, receive another in place of it"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 134 in (2) substituted language requiring preparation of ballot in manner prescribed in instructions provided in 13-13-112 for former language that read: "(2) He shall prepare his ballot by marking an "x" in the square before the name of the individual or individuals for whom he intends to vote"; deleted former (3) through (6) that read: "(3) If the ballot contains a ballot issue, he shall mark an "x" in the applicable square indicating his vote either for or against the issue.

(4) The elector may write the name of an individual for whom he wishes to vote in the blank space or affix a preprinted label in the blank space and may vote for that individual by marking an "x" before the name. When the ballot is marked in this manner, it must be counted the same as though the name were printed upon the ballot and marked by the elector, except as provided in 13-15-202.

(5) An elector voting a ballot that will be counted by an optical scan ballot tabulating device shall mark his ballot in the manner prescribed on his ballot. However, his ballot must not be invalidated if he marks the voting positions with an "x".

(6) After preparing his ballot, the elector must fold it so the face of the ballot will be concealed and the official stamp may be seen and hand it to the election judges"; inserted (3) authorizing elector to vote for write-in candidate by marking ballot in manner consistent with instructions in 13-13-112 and requiring ballot marked in accordance with instructions to be counted as if candidate's name were printed on ballot; in (6) substituted "must" for "may"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 134, L. 2001, provided: "WHEREAS, most counties use some form of voting or tabulating machines; and

WHEREAS, it is confusing to the elector to be required to mark one ballot one way and mark another ballot another way."

1989 Amendment: At end of (4) inserted "except as provided in 13-15-202". Amendment effective March 30, 1989.

1987 Amendment: In (4), after "label in the blank space", deleted "or over any other name"; and inserted (5) referring to ballots counted by optical scan ballot tabulating device.

Case Notes

Ballots With Only Last Name Listed Properly Rejected: Paulsen lost an election for Sheriff when 37 ballots were disallowed by election judges, principally ballots with only a last name listed. The District Court rejected Paulsen's challenge because the ballots did not contain a name consistent with one of the 30 names submitted by Paulsen in his declaration of intent to be a write-in candidate. Paulsen argued that because no other person named Paulsen or Paulson filed a declaration of intent, all written-in votes with those names should have been counted for him. However, election laws clearly specify what names voters may write in when the candidate being voted for has filed a declaration of intent, and if one of those names is not used, then the vote may not be counted. Even though there is a strong tradition in Montana jurisprudence to effectuate the honest choice of the electors, marking of ballots must not be expressly forbidden by statute and must substantially comply with the law. The 37 rejected ballots were properly disallowed, and the District Court correctly upheld the election officials' decision. Paulsen v. Huestis, 2000

MT 280, 302 M 157, 13 P3d 931, 57 St. Rep. 1170 (2000). See also Marsh v. Overland, 274 M 21, 905 P2d 1088 (1995).

Voter's Intention Not Clear From Ballot: In this case, involving a contest of election, the Supreme Court held that so many questions arose from the contested ballot itself as to the voter's intentions and from attempts to find a consistency in his method of voting that his ballot must be rejected. Rennie v. Nistler, 226 M 412, 735 P2d 1124, 44 St. Rep. 764 (1987).

Sticker With Premarked "X" Not Legal Ballot: District Court erred in finding ballots valid when electors marked ballot with a printed sticker containing name of write-in candidate and premarked "X", without electors marking an "X" before the name on the printed sticker. Since the statute calls for the voter to make his mark, an affirmative act is called for to signify his selection. The provisions of Montana's election laws as to the marking of the ballot and use of stickers are mandatory and not directory. State ex rel. Browne v. District Court, 167 M 477, 539 P2d 1182 (1975).

Voting an Affirmative Act — Vote for Dead Person Not Effective to Oppose Another: The casting of a ballot at an election of public officers is an affirmative, not a negative, act. It is an act done with intention of voting for someone. Hence, if it is the purpose of voters to defeat a certain candidate, that purpose can be accomplished only by voting for some person in opposition to him, and not by voting for a person who died some weeks before election with the expectation that the vote cast for him would be counted as opposed to the person sought to be defeated. One who has died is no longer a person for whom, under Art. IX, sec. 2, 1889 Mont. Const. (now Art. IV, sec. 2, 1972 Mont. Const.), a voter may cast his ballot. State ex rel. Wolff v. Geurkink, 111 M 417, 109 P2d 1094 (1941).

Marking of Ballot:

The statutory provision that a ballot should be marked by an "X" in the square is directory and not mandatory. (See 2001 amendment.) In the absence of a further provision that unless so marked the ballot shall not be counted, a ballot upon which the elector marked all squares with a check mark instead of an "X" should have been counted for contestant, since there was nothing to indicate an attempt to mark the ballot for identification purposes. Peterson v. Billings, 109 M 390, 96 P2d 922 (1939).

Any mark within the square before the candidate's name which can be said to be a crossing of two lines will answer the requirements of the statute that the elector must place an "X" in such square, and in the absence of anything to indicate a purpose on his part to identify his ballot by the use of a third line within the square, a defect in the mark is not sufficient to vitiate the ballot. Carwile v. Jones, 38 M 590, 101 P 153 (1909), explained in Peterson v. Billings, 109 M 390, 96 P2d 922 (1939), distinguished in State ex rel. Browne v. District Court, 167 M 477, 539 P2d 1182 (1975).

In an election contest, the Court properly refused to count for a candidate ballots marked as follows: (1) where the cross was placed after the candidate's name and entirely without his party column; (2) where perpendicular lines were drawn through the names in one party column, but no cross was placed before the candidate's name; and (3) where his name was written in one party column, but no cross marked in the square before the name. In none of these instances was there substantial, nor any, compliance with the provisions of predecessor section. Carwile v. Jones, 38 M 590, 101 P 153 (1909).

In an election contest, the Court properly refused to count a ballot for a candidate which was marked by crossing out all the names in other party columns but which failed to show an "X" before his name. While the intention of the voter is generally a very material consideration, he must express his intention substantially as indicated by the statute. (See 2001 amendment.) Carwile v. Jones, 38 M 590, 101 P 153 (1909).

Where the crossmark was placed after the candidate's name but within his party column, the ballot was void, since the elector did not substantially comply with the requirement that the mark be placed in the square before the name. Carwile v. Jones, 38 M 590, 101 P 153 (1909).

When Act of Voting Complete: Act of voting is not completed until the ballot is deposited in the ballot box. Goodell v. Judith Basin County, 70 M 222, 224 P 1110 (1924).

Error by Election Officer: A ballot properly marked, but from which the stub has not been detached by the ballot judge, should be counted; a voter is not to be disfranchised by the errors or wrongful acts of election officers. Carwile v. Jones, 38 M 590, 101 P 153 (1909).

13-13-118. Taking ballot to disabled elector.

Compiler's Comments

2013 Amendment: Chapter 336 in (3) deleted former second and third sentences that read: "The judge receiving the voted ballots shall distinctly announce that the judge has "a ballot offered by ..... Case Notes

Need Not Certify Reason for Assistance: A ballot bearing the endorsement: "Voted by H. and M. (judges of election) for illegibility of voter" was not void on the ground that the reason given for assisting the voter was not one recognized by law, since section 23-1213, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), did not require judges to certify the reason for assisting an elector, and the words "for illegibility of voter" were therefore surplusage. In the absence of a showing why they gave assistance, it will be presumed that they regularly performed their official duties. Carwile v. Jones, 38 M 590, 101 P 153 (1909).

Evidence: Under section 1364, Political Code of 1895, when it appeared in an election contest that a voter's ballot had been endorsed by the judges of election, as required by law, it was necessary to show that it could not thereby be identified in order to let in, as secondary evidence, testimony as to how he voted. 2011 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 101 inserted (2)(e)(ii) regarding polling place; inserted (2)(e)(iv) regarding places of deposit for mail ballot elections; inserted (3) regarding return of ballot; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

Chapter 242 in (2)(d) substituted "affirmation" for "affidavit". Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 273 in lead-in of (2) after "absentee" deleted "only by paper ballot and"; in (2)(e) at end substituted "administrator or, pursuant to 13-13-229, to the special absentee election board" for "administrator of the special absentee election board established pursuant to 13-13-225"; deleted former (2)(b) that read: "(b) An elector's absentee ballot must be handled as provided in 13-13-241"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 286 in (2)(e) at end inserted "established pursuant to 13-13-225"; in (3)(a) near beginning of first and second sentences inserted "provisionally registered" and in second sentence substituted "may enclose" for "shall enclose"; at beginning of (3)(b) deleted "If the elector fails to provide the information required under subsection (3)(a) or the information provided is insufficient to verify the elector's identity and eligibility", before "ballot" inserted "absentee", and at end substituted "provided in 13-13-241" for "a provisional ballot"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

2003 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 414 in (2) in introductory clause substituted "vote absentee only by paper ballot and by" for "vote the absentee ballot by"; in (2)(c), (2)(d), and (2)(e) after "return" deleted "and verification"; and in (2)(e) at end substituted "all appropriate enclosures by regular mail, postage prepaid, or by delivering it to the election administrator of the special absentee election board" for "the secrecy envelope containing the ballot or ballots enclosed, as provided in 13-13-221". Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

Chapter 475 in (1) at beginning substituted "A legally registered elector or provisionally" for "A qualified"; and inserted (3) providing the type of identification an elector may use when returning an absentee ballot and providing that insufficient verification requires the ballot to be handled as a provisional ballot. Amendment effective January 1, 2004.

Style changes were slightly different in the chapters. In each case, the codifier chose appropriate text.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 151 in (1) after "part" deleted "if the elector:

(a) expects to be absent from the county or precinct and unable to vote in person at the time of holding the election;

(b) is physically incapacitated and unable to go to the polls on election day;

(c) suffers from chronic illness or general ill health; or

(d) is prevented from voting at the polls as a result of an illness or health emergency occurring between 5 p.m. on the Friday preceding the election and noon on election day. The health emergency must arise from unforeseen circumstances that require the elector to seek health care or medical assistance"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 1999.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 242 inserted (2) specifying procedures for voting by absentee ballot; and made minor changes in style.

1985 Amendment: Substituted entire section (see 1985 Session Law) for former text that read: "(1) A qualified registered elector who will be absent from the county or physically incapacitated and unable to go to the polls on the day of election may vote as provided in this part.

(2) Election judges who will be serving in a different precinct than the one in which they are registered may vote by absentee ballot."

2013 Amendment: Chapter 336 in (2)(b) at beginning deleted "An elector whose original ballot is destroyed, spoiled, lost, or not received by the elector may"; in (3) after "ballot" inserted "submitted to the election administrator" and substituted "must be made in person" for "submitted to the election administrator in person"; in (4) substituted "system" for "database"; in (6) substituted "mailed to or received by" for "mailed or otherwise returned to"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2014.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 101 in (1)(a) at end after "ballot" deleted "and vote in person at the election administrator's office"; deleted former (2) that read: "If an elector does not receive an absentee ballot or if the absentee ballot was destroyed, the elector may appear at the appropriate polling place on election day and vote in person after signing an affidavit, in the form prescribed by the secretary of state, swearing that the elector's ballot has not been received or was destroyed. The ballot must be handled as a provisional ballot under 13-15-107"; inserted (2), (3), (4), and (5) providing that an elector may request a replacement ballot including at the polling place and providing a procedure for voiding the original ballot; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

2009 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 217 in (1)(a) near beginning substituted "received but not voted an absentee" for "voted by absentee", near middle following "omissions" deleted "except that the name of a candidate who has died since the printing of the ballot and that appears on the ballot does not constitute an error or omission", following "elector may" inserted "receive a replacement or corrected ballot and", following "vote in person" substituted "at the election administrator's office" for "in any manner at the elector's polling place"; inserted (1)(b) regarding the death of a candidate; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 15, 2009.

Chapter 297 in (1)(a) near beginning substituted "has received an absentee ballot" for "has voted by absentee ballot" and at end substituted "may receive a corrected ballot and vote in person at the election administrator's office" for "may vote in person in any manner at the elector's polling place". Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 359 in (3) near beginning after "ballot and" inserted "the ballot has been mailed or otherwise returned to the election administrator but the elector" and at end substituted "must be counted" for "does not count". Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 475 in (2) deleted former second and third sentences that read: "Before the ballot is given the elector, the election judge shall write upon the back of the ballot the number of the ballot. The ballot may be cast out if it appears to the court to have been wrongfully or illegally voted" and inserted second sentence providing that the ballot must be handled as a provisional ballot. Amendment effective January 1, 2004.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 85 in (1), after "omissions", inserted exception clause providing that appearance of the name of candidate who died after printing of ballot does not constitute error or omission; and made minor changes in style.

1987 Amendment: In (1), after "omissions", deleted "or if the absentee ballot was destroyed"; and inserted (2) establishing procedure to allow elector to vote in person if his absentee ballot was not received or was destroyed.

1983 Amendment: Substituted "(1) If an elector has voted by absentee ballot but the absentee ballot contains printing errors or omissions or if the absentee ballot was destroyed, the elector may vote in person in any manner at his polling place" for former language, which read: "If an elector has voted by absentee ballot but on election day is present in the county and able to go to the polls or if he learns his absentee ballot has been rejected by the judges as provided in 13-13-241, the elector may vote in person at his polling place. If voting machines or devices are used, he may vote by machine or device."

Commissioner Correction: A reference to sec. 130, Ch. 571, L. 1979, has been deleted by the Code Commissioner, 1979. The deleted reference was to a section dealing with procedure after the polls close and would not be applicable to the situation when an elector votes in person.

1983 Amendment: In (4), following "across the face" substituted "such information and graphics and be of such color as may be prescribed by the secretary of state consistent with the regulations established by the federal election commission, U.S. postal service, or other federal agency" for "two parallel horizontal red bars, each 1/4-inch wide, extending from one side of the envelope to the other with an intervening space of 1/4-inch, with the words "Official Election Ballot Material—via Air Mail" between the bars. In the upper right-hand corner shall be printed "Free of U.S. Postage". In the upper left-hand corner shall be blanks sufficient for the recipient to place his return address. All printing on the face of the envelope shall be in red. The gummed flap of the envelope supplied for the return of the ballot shall be separated by wax paper or other appropriate protective insert. Voting instructions provided in subsection (6) shall include a procedure to be followed by absentee electors, such as notation of the facts on the back of the envelope, duly signed by the elector, in instances of adhesion of the balloting material."

Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 110, L. 1983, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because section 1 grants the Secretary of State the authority to adopt rules prescribing the information and graphics to be printed on both the envelope in which a ballot is mailed to an elector in the United States service and the return envelope. Rules are to be adopted under the Montana Administrative Procedure Act.

The Legislature intends that this grant of authority to adopt rules be used only to eliminate inconsistencies that now exist between the specifications established in 13-13-214(4) and existing requirements of federal law. The rules adopted must be consistent with regulations established by the federal election commission, U.S. postal service, or other federal agency. The rules must allow for mailing and return of the ballot free of U.S. postage if that is permitted by the U.S. postal service. The rules may not require information and graphics which are not specifically required by the regulations of a federal agency."

Case Notes

Improper Delivery: Absentee ballots delivered by County Clerk not to electors personally or by mail but to one engaged in procuring electors to apply therefor were void and could not be voted at ensuing election. State ex rel. Van Horn v. Lyon, 119 M 212, 173 P2d 891 (1946).

CHAPTER 14
NONPARTISAN ELECTIONS

Chapter Compiler's Comments

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 414, L. 2003, provided: "WHEREAS, the U.S. Supreme Court in Bush v. Gore, 531 U.S. 98 (2000), found that the lack of uniform procedures for determining voter intent in Florida during the 2000 presidential election led to a violation of the U.S. Constitution's Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment; and

WHEREAS, at the request of the 57th Legislature, the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee devoted much of the 2001-2002 interim to a review of Montana election laws with respect to voting systems and counting processes in light of Bush v. Gore; and

WHEREAS, the interim study found that Montana's statutory provisions relating to ballots, voting systems, and vote counting processes needed to be updated, clarified, and in some instances revised to better define uniform standards and procedures to provide equal protection for votes cast by Montana voters; and

WHEREAS, the Subcommittee on Voting Systems of the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee agreed that statutory changes should be made with an eye on future technology but should also standardize current practices to the greatest extent possible.

THEREFORE, this legislation will enable the Secretary of State to adopt a statewide benchmark performance measure that voting systems must meet before they can be approved for use in the state; allow local election administrators to continue to choose which of the approved voting systems should be used locally; require the Secretary of State to adopt uniform statewide rules regarding ballot form, votes and vote counts, and other operational procedures specific to each voting system and to provide training to local election administrators; and require all counting boards to use the uniform counting procedures specified."

2013 Amendment: Chapter 336 in (1) after "petition for nomination" inserted "or a declaration for nomination"; and in (2) after "Petitions for nomination" inserted "or declarations for nomination" and substituted "13-10-201(7)(a) or (7)(b)" for "13-10-201(6)(a) or (6)(b)". Amendment effective January 1, 2014.

2009 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 230 deleted former subsections (2) and (3) that read: "(2) The petition must contain the signatures of registered electors of the election district in which the office will be on the ballot. The number of signatures must be equal to 5% of the total vote cast for the successful candidate for that office at the last general election, but may not be less than five signatures.

(3) The number of signatures necessary for a petition for nomination for an office not previously on the ballot or for which the election district boundaries have changed since the last general election must be determined by the secretary of state"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

Chapter 292 in (2) substituted "filed within the applicable filing period provided in 13-10-201(6)(a) or (6)(b)" for "filed at the same time provided in 13-10-201 for other candidates and offices". Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 586 in (5) near end before "office" inserted "public". Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 475 inserted (5) providing that a candidate may not file for more than one office; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2004.

Prohibition on Judicial Endorsements — Narrowly Tailored — Summary Judgment for Defendants Proper: A judicial candidate brought an action alleging that Rule 4.1(A)(7) of the Code of Judicial Conduct violated the first amendment to the U.S. Constitution by prohibiting judicial candidates from seeking, accepting, or using endorsements from a political organization or a partisan or independent nonjudicial officeholder or candidate. The Ninth Circuit Court affirmed the District Court's order entering summary judgment for the defendants because the prohibition was narrowly tailored to achieve the compelling state interests of actual and perceived judicial impartiality and a structurally sound judiciary by striking an appropriate balance between those interests and a candidate's speech. French v. Jones, 876 F.3d 1228 (9th Cir. 2017), following Williams-Yulee v. Florida Bar, 575 US __, 135 S Ct 1656 (2015), and Wolfson v. Concannon, 811 F.3d 1176 (9th Cir. 2016).

Purpose and Construction of Prior Act: Purpose of sections 23-2001 through 23-2014, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), was to eliminate, so far as possible, the selection of judges from partisan politics. The word "candidate" as used in the act was not to receive a different construction from that given to the same word when used in the general primary law. The act was to be construed in pari materia with the primary and general election laws. State ex rel. McHale v. Ayers, 111 M 1, 105 P2d 686 (1940).

2009 Amendment: Chapter 56 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 at end substituted sentence requiring that provision be made, as provided in rules, for a ballot form for

"[ ] YES

[ ] NO

(Mark an "x" before the word "YES" if you wish the official to remain in office. Mark an "x" before the word "NO" if you do not wish the official to remain in office.)"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

Case Notes

Definition of Incumbent:

Use of "incumbent" is not limited, qualified, or restricted by the method by which one attained office. Keller v. Smith, 170 M 399, 553 P2d 1002 (1976).

An "incumbent" judge, for the purposes of the predecessor to this section, is one who is in office and who seeks to remain a District Court Judge. Yunker v. Murray, 170 M 427, 554 P2d 285 (1976).

Constitutionality: The predecessor of this section was not unconstitutional as being violative of the provisions of Art. VII, sec. 8, Mont. Const. Keller v. Smith, 170 M 399, 553 P2d 1002 (1976).

Attorney General's Opinions

Required Form of Ballots for Justice of the Peace: Under 3-10-201, in an election for Justice of the Peace, the ballot must be the same in form as the ballot used to elect District Court Judges. This includes the form of ballot used by an incumbent who is unopposed. 35 A.G. Op. 61 (1974).

13-14-213. Form of ballot on retention for other judicial offices.

CHAPTER 15
CANVASSING, RETURNS, AND CERTIFICATES

Chapter Compiler's Comments

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 414, L. 2003, provided: "WHEREAS, the U.S. Supreme Court in Bush v. Gore, 531 U.S. 98 (2000), found that the lack of uniform procedures for determining voter intent in Florida during the 2000 presidential election led to a violation of the U.S. Constitution's Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment; and

WHEREAS, at the request of the 57th Legislature, the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee devoted much of the 2001-2002 interim to a review of Montana election laws with respect to voting systems and counting processes in light of Bush v. Gore; and

WHEREAS, the interim study found that Montana's statutory provisions relating to ballots, voting systems, and vote counting processes needed to be updated, clarified, and in some instances revised to better define uniform standards and procedures to provide equal protection for votes cast by Montana voters; and

WHEREAS, the Subcommittee on Voting Systems of the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee agreed that statutory changes should be made with an eye on future technology but should also standardize current practices to the greatest extent possible.

THEREFORE, this legislation will enable the Secretary of State to adopt a statewide benchmark performance measure that voting systems must meet before they can be approved for use in the state; allow local election administrators to continue to choose which of the approved voting systems should be used locally; require the Secretary of State to adopt uniform statewide rules regarding ballot form, votes and vote counts, and other operational procedures specific to each voting system and to provide training to local election administrators; and require all counting boards to use the uniform counting procedures specified."

2011 Amendment: Chapter 242 in (3) after "judges shall immediately" substituted "display" for "post". Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 in (1) at beginning deleted former first sentence that read: "When the polls are closed, the election judges shall immediately count the votes" and at beginning of first sentence substituted "Any official vote count" for "The count"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

1987 Amendments: Chapter 100 in (2), in first clause after "counted", deleted "in each precinct"; and in (3) substituted "place of counting" for "polling place".

Chapter 298 in (2) substituted "by precinct" for "in each precinct"; and in (3) substituted "place of counting" for "polling place".

Case Notes

No Authority in School Board to Remove Unqualified Voters From List of Registered Voters: Under 20-9-428 a school board of trustees removed from the certified list of registered voters the names of several persons who the board determined were disqualified to vote. The court held that 20-9-428 must be read with other statutes governing elections, including 20-20-303, concerning how an elector's qualifications may be challenged; 13-13-301, et seq., concerning how qualifications are determined; and this section, concerning general canvassing requirements. The court determined the school board had no authority to remove names of unqualified voters. Bischoff v. School District, 230 M 336, 749 P2d 533, 45 St. Rep. 253 (1988).

Return Forms: Under sections 23-710 through 23-713, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), forms on which judges of election were to summarize the result of the vote were not a part of the election returns and were not required to be transmitted to the Clerk in sealed packages. Dubie v. Batani, 97 M 468, 37 P2d 662 (1934).

13-15-102. Defect in form of returns to be disregarded.

Case Notes

Voter's Intention Not Clear From Ballot: In this case, involving a contest of election, the Supreme Court held that so many questions arose from the contested ballot itself as to the voter's intentions and from attempts to find a consistency in his method of voting that his ballot must be rejected. Rennie v. Nistler, 226 M 412, 735 P2d 1124, 44 St. Rep. 764 (1987).

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 in (1)(a) substituted reference to 13-15-112 for reference to 13-4-101; substituted (4) providing: "The absentee ballot counting board shall take the oath and sign the affirmation specified in 13-15-207(4)" for former text that read: "(4) (a) In addition to the official oath taken and subscribed to by the election judges, the members of the counting board for absentee ballots shall complete and sign the following affirmation: "I, ..., will not discuss or disclose or allow anyone else to discuss or disclose to anyone the results of the early counting of votes while the polls are open.

(b) The chief election judge shall witness and sign the affirmation"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

1987 Amendment: In (2)(c) substituted "13-13-241" for "13-13-242".

13-15-105. Notices relating to absentee ballot counting board.

Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendment: Chapter 368 in (1) substituted current text requiring election administrator to broadcast on radio or television, or publish in a newspaper a notice indicating method, place, and time for counting absentee ballots for former text that read: "Whenever an absentee ballot counting board is appointed under 13-15-112, the election administrator shall:

(a) publish in the contracted newspaper of the county as provided in 18-7-411 a notice indicating the method that will be used for counting absentee ballots; and

(b) post in a conspicuous location at the office of the election administrator, by 5 p.m. of the day before an election, a notice that indicates the place and time that the counting board for absentee ballots will meet on election day"; and in (2) near middle substituted "procedures of the count" for "procedures of the counting board". Amendment effective January 1, 2018.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 2 in (1) in introductory clause substituted "13-15-112" for "15-15-112". Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 in (1) in introductory clause substituted reference to 13-15-112 for reference to 13-4-101; in (2) at beginning substituted "If the count will begin while the polls are open, the notice required under subsection (1) must" for "The notice must" and at end substituted "and is required to take the oath provided in 13-15-207(4)" for "and the counting board is released and must take the oath provided in 13-15-104"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

Chapter 297 in (1) near middle after "identification" inserted "or eligibility" and substituted "electronic means" for "electronic mail"; in (2)(a) near middle after "signature" inserted "or the elector's agent designated pursuant to 13-1-116" and at end inserted "or the agent's designation form"; in (2)(c) after "match" inserted "and the elector or the elector's agent fails to provide valid identification information by the deadline"; in (3) in first and second sentences after "elector's" inserted "identity or"; in (5) in introductory clause near beginning after "ballot" deleted "cast by an elector whose voter information is verified before 5 p.m. on the day after the election" and after "any other" substituted "provisional ballot if the elector's voter information is" for "ballot"; inserted (5)(a) and (5)(b) providing deadlines for verifying voter information; inserted (6) providing time for counting provisional ballots not resolved by end of election day; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 273 in (1) at end after "provisional ballot" substituted provisions on providing valid identification for "in person shall provide information to the election administrator as listed below:

(a) present in person at the office of the election administrator by 5 p.m. on the day after the election a photo identification or other identifying document as described in 13-13-114(1)(a);

(b) send by facsimile or electronic mail by 5 p.m. on the day after the election a copy or scanned document that meets the identification requirements of 13-13-114(1)(a);

(c) mail a nonreturnable copy or nonreturnable original document described in 13-13-114(1)(a) in a self-addressed return envelope provided by the election administrator. If the elector mails a document, the postmark on the envelope must be for the day of the election or the day following the election.

(d) if applicable, the information to respond to a challenge under 13-13-301"; deleted former (3) that read: "(3) The election administrator shall determine prior to an election whether an absentee voter has provided sufficient identification to allow a ballot to be counted. If the information is insufficient, the election administrator shall follow procedures described in 13-13-241 to allow an absentee elector who failed to provide proper identifying information in the outer return envelope to verify eligibility to vote. An absentee elector whose ballot is determined to be provisional has until 5 p.m. on the day after the election to provide valid identification information either in person, by facsimile, by electronic mail, or by mail postmarked on the day of the election or the day after the election"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

2005 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 286 in (1) near middle before "elector" inserted "provisionally registered"; in (1)(c) near beginning after "mail a" inserted "nonreturnable"; inserted (2) concerning provisional ballots; in (4) substituted second sentence concerning inability to determine eligibility and rejection of ballot for former text that read: "However, a provisional ballot may not be counted if the election administrator cannot verify the elector's eligibility under the rules"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

Chapter 586 inserted (1)(d) regarding information to respond to challenge under 13-13-301; in (4) inserted third sentence requiring documentation of grounds for certain challenges; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

Part 2
Vote Count Procedures

Plaintiff Only Write-In Candidate — No Requirement That All Write-In Votes With His Surname Be Counted for Him: Marsh argued that all write-in votes for "Marsh" should have been recorded as votes for him rather than rejected by the county recount board because he was the only qualified write-in candidate. The Supreme Court held that a write-in vote had to be unambiguous to be counted and that the argument ignored the fact that there had been write-in votes for other Marshs, thereby making it impossible to determine if a vote for "Marsh" was a vote for him. Marsh v. Overland, 274 M 21, 905 P2d 1088, 52 St. Rep. 1099 (1995).

Determining Elector's Intention:

The Supreme Court upheld the lower court's rejection of a ballot, holding that when the expression of the voter cannot be gleaned without speculation, the vote must be voided to ensure the objectivity of the election process. Spaeth v. Kendall, 245 M 352, 801 P2d 591, 47 St. Rep. 2177 (1990), followed in Marsh v. Overland, 274 M 21, 905 P2d 1088, 52 St. Rep. 1099 (1995).

A ballot bearing a rather indistinct "X" before contestant's name but sufficient to be discernible should have been counted for him where there was no erasure and the elector voted for no other candidate for that office. Under the rule that the elector's intention must plainly appear, where the voter marked two squares for the office of sheriff, one of which showed an extra line through the "X", the intention was not clear and the ballot should not have been counted. Peterson v. Billings, 109 M 390, 96 P2d 922 (1939), distinguished in State ex rel. Browne v. District Court, 167 M 477, 539 P2d 1182 (1975).

Under section 23-1704, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), and the rule that election laws must be liberally construed, a ballot showing the intersection of the "X" outside the square should have been counted for contestant, and one showing the intersection of the cross squarely on the line of the square was properly so counted for him. Peterson v. Billings, 109 M 390, 96 P2d 922 (1939), distinguished in State ex rel. Browne v. District Court, 167 M 477, 539 P2d 1182 (1975).

When, from the manner in which a ballot was marked, it was impossible to determine the elector's choice, the ballot was void under section 23-1210, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), and should not have been counted in an election contest. Carwile v. Jones, 38 M 590, 101 P 153 (1909).

2013 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 139 in (7)(b) substituted "13-21-226" for "13-21-207". Amendment effective January 1, 2014.

Chapter 336 throughout section in four places substituted "signature envelope" for "return envelope"; in (5) and (7) substituted "marked" for "voted"; in (8)(a)(ii) inserted "which must result in the immediate rejection of the ballot without notice to the elector"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2014.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 101 deleted former (2) that read: "An absentee ballot must be rejected and handled as provided in 13-15-108 if the envelope contains more than one voted ballot for each election"; inserted (6) providing that only valid absentee ballots may be counted; inserted (7) describing a valid ballot; inserted (8) describing an invalid ballot; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 56 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 273 in (1) near middle substituted "count of ballots, the counting board or, if appointed, the absentee counting board shall take ballots out of the box" for "count of paper ballots before or after the close of the polls, the counting board of election judges designated under 13-15-112 shall take ballots out of the box unopened"; deleted former (1)(b) that read: "(b) If an absentee ballot counting board has been appointed pursuant to 13-15-112, the absentee ballots must be delivered to the absentee ballot counting board and counted as provided in 13-15-104. If an absentee ballot counting board has not been appointed, the regular counting board shall, subject to 13-13-244, remove each absentee ballot secrecy envelope and open it to determine whether the ballot for each election is single"; in (3), (4), and (5) substituted "board" for "counting board"; deleted former (2) that read: "(2) For nonpaper ballots, the counting board shall prepare for the official count in a manner prescribed by the secretary of state pursuant to 13-17-211"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 286 in (1)(b) near beginning of third sentence and in (1)(f) near end of second sentence after "rejected" inserted "and handled as provided in 13-15-108". Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 substituted current text concerning counting of ballots for former text that read: "(1) To begin the count after the close of the polls, the election judges shall take ballots out of the box unopened to determine whether each ballot is single. The election judges shall remove each absentee ballot secrecy envelope and open it to determine whether the ballot for each election is single. A ballot must be rejected if in the envelope there is more than one ballot for each election.

(2) They shall count the ballots to ensure that the number of ballots corresponds with the number of names on the pollbook.

(3) If they cannot reconcile the total number of ballots with the pollbook, they shall submit a written report stating how many ballots were missing or in excess and any reason of which they are aware for the discrepancy. All judges shall sign the report.

(4) A ballot that is not endorsed by the official stamp is void and may not be counted unless the judges agree that the stamp is missing because of their error. The ballot must be marked "unstamped by error" on the back and must be initialed by all judges.

(5) If two or more ballots are folded together to look like a single ballot, they must be laid aside until the count is complete. The election judges shall compare the count with the pollbooks, and if a majority believes that the ballots folded together were voted by one elector, they must be rejected; otherwise they must be counted." Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 242 in (1) inserted second and third sentences regarding removal of secrecy envelope by election judges and rejection of ballot; and made minor changes in style.

Case Notes

Unstamped and Excess Ballots: Although discarding the ballots in excess of the number of names on the pollbooks would not have affected the outcome of a legislative primary election, the District Court properly ordered a new election when it could not be determined with mathematical certainty that petitioner had won the nomination because some ballots had not been endorsed with the official stamp and the number of such unstamped ballots cast for petitioner was unknown. In re Recount of Ravalli County Primary Election, Petition of Thoft, 178 M 272, 583 P2d 430 (1978).

Official Stamp on Ballot Stub — Stamp Removed With Stub: When ballots had been delivered to electors by the judges of election with the official stamp apparently in the place in which the law requires it to be, although in reality it was on the stub instead of on the ballot proper, the act of the judges in removing the stamp with the stub, thus leaving the ballot without the official designation, did not render the ballots void, and the same should have been counted. Harrington v. Crichton, 53 M 388, 164 P 537 (1917).

One Copy to Be Returned: Section 23-1709, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), contemplated that the Election Board in the precinct would return to the Clerk and Recorder but one tally sheet and one copy of the pollbook. State ex rel. Lynch v. Batani, 103 M 353, 62 P2d 565 (1936).

Return Forms: Under sections 23-710 through 23-713, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), forms on which judges of election were to summarize the result of the vote were not a part of the election returns and not required to be transmitted to the Clerk in sealed packages. 2013 Amendment: Chapter 336 in (2)(b)(ii) and (3)(d) substituted "official results records" for "pollbook"; in (3)(b) substituted "unmarked ballot" for "unvoted ballot"; and in (5) in introduction before "if" inserted "only". Amendment effective January 1, 2014.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 242 in (5)(a)(ii) substituted "13-10-211(8)" for "13-10-211(7)". Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 212 in (2)(a) near middle of second sentence inserted reference to subsection (5); inserted (5)(b) concerning requirement for marking of ballot voting area; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 273 in (2) after "votes" deleted "cast on a paper ballot"; in lead-in of (3)(a) at end substituted "counting votes" for "tabulating a vote cast on a nonpaper ballot"; deleted lead-in and (3)(b)(i) of former (3)(b) that read: "(b) When a voting system is tabulating a vote cast on a paper ballot:

(i) if the voting system recognizes and counts the vote, it is a valid vote"; in (3)(b) near middle substituted "registers an unvoted ballot or an overvote" for "registers an overvote or undervote"; in (3)(d) near middle after "totaled" deleted "pursuant to subsection (4) and this subsection (3)"; in (4)(a)(i) in first sentence before "ballot" deleted "paper"; in (9) deleted definition of undervote that read: ""undervote" means an elector's vote that has been interpreted by the voting system as a nonvote"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 586 in (2) near beginning inserted "or recount"; in (2)(a) in third sentence after "according to instructions" substituted text providing that vote be considered questionable and requiring entire ballot be set aside and handled as provided in subsection (4) for "the entire ballot must be set aside and counted as provided in subsection (4)"; in (3)(a) substituted introductory clause regarding voting system tabulation of nonpaper ballot for "Except as provided in subsection (3)(b)"; in (3)(a)(i) and (3)(a)(ii) near beginning after "if a vote" deleted "on a paper ballot or nonpaper ballot"; in (3)(b) substituted text regarding tabulation by voting system of vote cast on paper ballot for "If a paper ballot being counted by a voting system is rejected by the system or if the system records an overvote or undervote on a ballot, the ballot must be set aside and counted as provided in subsection (4)"; in (3)(c) substituted "or counting board has reason to believe" for "determines" and at end substituted reference to 13-15-209 for reference to 13-16-414; substituted (4) regarding review and evaluation by counting board for former (4) that read: "(4) (a) Each questionable vote on a paper ballot set aside under subsection (2)(a) or (3)(b) must be counted if the voter's intent can be clearly determined and agreed upon by a majority of the election judges on the counting board in accordance with rules adopted pursuant to subsection (7).

(b) After each questionable vote on a ballot set aside under subsection (2)(a) or (3)(b) has been determined to be a valid vote, an invalid vote, or an intentional nonvote, the valid votes must be counted manually or automatically tabulated by the voting system. If the votes are to be counted manually, the votes must be tallied as provided in subsection (2). If the votes are to be counted using a voting system, all valid votes must be transferred to a ballot that will be accepted by the voting system and tabulated as provided in subsection (3).

(c) Votes counted pursuant to this subsection (4) and the votes initially counted under subsections (2) and (3) must be totaled"; in (5) in introductory clause after "may be counted" deleted "only"; inserted (5)(b) regarding lack of declaration of nomination and election by write-in vote; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

Case Notes

No Clear Voter Intent on Overvoted Ballots — Improper Determination of Question of Validity of Disputed Ballots and Interjection of Political Consequences by District Court: In a three-candidate race for the House of Representatives, seven ballots had marks in the designated area for both Jore and Cross. The ballots were read as overvotes and rejected by the vote scanning machine. An election official affixed a white label over each mark for Cross and fed the ballots back through the scanner, with the result that Jore won by two votes. Windham, who lost by the two votes, requested a recount, which included the seven contested ballots, and the recount resulted in a tie between Jore and Windham. The Governor appointed Jore to the seat, and an elector in the district contested the certification of the recount. The District Court concluded that because the vote was a tie, the court could not substitute its judgment for the election board without having the legal effect of electing Windham, who received none of the votes on the contested ballots. The District Court then held that Supreme Court precedents prohibiting speculation about voter intent did not apply, that the seven ballots were valid, and that the voters intended to vote for Jore and declared Jore the winner. On appeal, the Supreme Court reversed. Rather than addressing the narrow legal question of the validity of the ballots, the District Court improperly inserted the political consequences of the result into the question. This speculation as to the outcome of the race had the effect of improperly giving the seven contested ballots greater weight that the other 4,200 ballots cast in the election. Five of the contested ballots failed to satisfy the objective standards developed by the Secretary of State for clearly determining voter intent and should have been declared invalid. The District Court's conclusion that the double-marked ballots were valid was also erroneous because voter instructions provided that a voter who spoiled a ballot must be provided with another, and if the spoiled ballots were counted, then voters who followed the law and requested new ballots would have received unequal treatment. Big Spring v. Jore, 2005 MT 64, 326 M 256, 109 P3d 219 (2005), following Rennie v. Nistler, 226 M 412, 735 P2d 1124 (1987), and distinguishing State ex rel. Bowling v. Compiler's Comments

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 substituted current text concerning vote counting procedures for former text that read: "(1) In any precinct where a counting board has been appointed in addition to the regular board of election judges, the counting board shall meet at a place designated by the election administrator.

(2) The election administrator may provide duplicate boxes for voted ballots and duplicate pollbooks at any precinct for which a counting board has been appointed and may arrange for the counting board to begin the count of the votes cast before the polls close. The counting board shall be sequestered in a separate room from where the ballots are being cast until after the polls close. Any individual observing the counting board procedures must be sequestered with the board until after the polls close. The counting board shall proceed by counting all ballots in the first box and then that box and pollbook shall be exchanged for the second box and duplicate pollbook. The board shall continue counting until the votes cast for all candidates and issues are counted. The election administrator may appoint an extra election judge to act as a marshal to be responsible for exchanging ballot boxes and pollbooks and enforcing sequestering of the board and observers.

(3) The election administrator may have the counting board for a precinct begin work as soon as the polls close instead of using the procedure outlined in subsection (2).

(4) In a county where voting devices are used, the election administrator may make provisions for the delivery of voted ballots to the counting center at any time prior to the closing of the polls. The ballots may be processed and counted as they are received, but the results of this early count may not be released to the public until after all the polls are closed.

(5) No election judge or other individual having access to the information may disclose any results of early counting while the polls are open." Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

Case Notes

Change in Membership of Board: Under former law, membership of a County Board of Canvassers was not necessarily comprised of the same officers but was subject to change depending upon circumstances. A Writ of Mandate, issued to compel a Board to reconvene and canvass the returns from an election precinct which they had excluded, was properly directed to the particular individuals comprising the Board, describing them by name, and as constituting the Board of County Canvassers of election returns for a certain county of the state. State ex rel. Leech v. Bd. of Canvassers of Choteau County, 13 M 23, 31 P 879 (1892).

1987 Amendment: Inserted (4) referring to petition for recount of votes.

Rejection of Returns:

Under former law, a County Board of Canvassers had no authority to inquire into the validity of a certificate of nomination of a nominee for office. Therefore, when the election returns were genuine and properly certified, prohibition would not lie to restrain the Board from canvassing such returns and counting the vote cast for such person. Pigott v. Bd. of Canvassers of Cascade County, 12 M 537, 31 P 536 (1892).

Under former law, the duties of a County Canvassing Board were ministerial, and such Board had no authority to exclude the returns of an election precinct, regularly made, upon the ground that the voting was shown by affidavits to be illegal. When the Board has done so it may be compelled by mandamus to canvass such returns. State ex rel. Leech v. Bd. of Canvassers of Choteau County, 13 M 23, 31 P 879 (1892). See also State ex rel. Breen v. Toole, 32 M 4, 79 P 403 (1905); Poe v. Sheridan County, 52 M 279, 157 P 185 (1916).

Under former law, neither the fact that returns in the pollbook were left blank nor the fact that the certificate thereto was not properly filled in was ground for rejecting returns. State ex rel. Leech v. Bd. of Canvassers of Choteau County, 13 M 23, 31 P 879 (1892).

Under former law, it was the duty of the Board of Canvassers to procure the check lists and surrendered lists before rejecting the vote of a precinct as returned by the pollbooks alone. State ex rel. Leech v. Bd. of Canvassers of Choteau County, 13 M 23, 31 P 879 (1892).

Case Notes

Voter's Intention Not Clear From Ballot: In this case, involving a contest of election, the Supreme Court held that so many questions arose from the contested ballot itself as to the voter's intentions and from attempts to find a consistency in his method of voting that his ballot must be rejected. Rennie v. Nistler, 226 M 412, 735 P2d 1124, 44 St. Rep. 764 (1987).

Case Notes

Deceased Candidate Receiving Majority: A candidate for reelection to a county office died 24 days before election. His death was known generally to electors, but his name was placed on the ballot and a majority voted for him, supposing to retain his widow who had been appointed to fill the vacancy until the next general election. A write-in candidate receiving the highest vote cast for any living person was entitled to a Writ of Mandate to compel the County Canvassing Board to reconvene and cause certificate of election to be issued to him. State ex rel. Wolff v. Geurkink, 111 M 417, 109 P2d 1094 (1941).

Effect of Tie Vote:

If there is a clause in the Constitution providing that an officer shall hold for a definite term and until his successor is elected and qualified and the people fail to elect his successor, there is no vacancy, and he is entitled to hold over until the people have chosen his successor in the usual way. However, the provisions of Art. VIII, sec. 8, 9, 1889 Mont. Const. (now Art. VII, sec. 7, 1972 Mont. Const.), fixing the terms of judicial officers were exclusive, and vacancies occurred by operation of law upon the expiration of the terms designated, even when the people failed to elect their successors. Therefore, if, by reason of a tie vote, there was a failure to elect the successor of a Clerk of a District Court upon the expiration of the incumbent's term, there was a vacancy which the County Commissioners were authorized to fill by appointment. State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 M 583, 104 P 860 (1909). See also State ex rel. Patterson v. Lentz, 50 M 322, 146 P 932 (1915).

Under Art. XVI, sec. 5, 1889 Mont. Const., which provided that County School Superintendents were to hold office for 2 years "and until their successors are elected and qualified", a tie vote did not result in a vacancy that could be filled by the County Commissioners under a former chapter. The incumbent was entitled to remain in office. State ex rel. Chenoweth v. Acton, 31 M 37, 77 P 299 (1904).

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 414, L. 2003, provided: "WHEREAS, the U.S. Supreme Court in Bush v. Gore, 531 U.S. 98 (2000), found that the lack of uniform procedures for determining voter intent in Florida during the 2000 presidential election led to a violation of the U.S. Constitution's Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment; and

WHEREAS, at the request of the 57th Legislature, the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee devoted much of the 2001-2002 interim to a review of Montana election laws with respect to voting systems and counting processes in light of Bush v. Gore; and

WHEREAS, the interim study found that Montana's statutory provisions relating to ballots, voting systems, and vote counting processes needed to be updated, clarified, and in some instances revised to better define uniform standards and procedures to provide equal protection for votes cast by Montana voters; and

WHEREAS, the Subcommittee on Voting Systems of the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee agreed that statutory changes should be made with an eye on future technology but should also standardize current practices to the greatest extent possible.

THEREFORE, this legislation will enable the Secretary of State to adopt a statewide benchmark performance measure that voting systems must meet before they can be approved for use in the state; allow local election administrators to continue to choose which of the approved voting systems should be used locally; require the Secretary of State to adopt uniform statewide rules regarding ballot form, votes and vote counts, and other operational procedures specific to each voting system and to provide training to local election administrators; and require all counting boards to use the uniform counting procedures specified."

Amendment effective January 1, 2014.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 56 made section gender neutral. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

Part 3
Recounts Under Court Order

Part Case Notes

Wrongful Canvass — Remedies: Former recount statutes did not afford a legal remedy for an alleged wrongful canvass by a County Canvassing Board and therefore did not defeat the right of a citizen to compel proper performance of the Board's duty by Writ of Mandate. State ex rel. Lynch v. Batani, 103 M 353, 62 P2d 565 (1936).

13-16-301. Application and court order for recount.

Compiler's Comments

2013 Amendment: Chapter 347 in (1)(a) substituted "appropriate county or school recount board" for "county recount board" and inserted "or the school district polling places"; in (1)(b) inserted "or school" and inserted "or the school district polling places"; and in (4) inserted "or school". Amendment effective April 30, 2013.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 56 made section gender neutral; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

Case Notes

Grounds Sufficient: Under sections 23-2301 through 23-2307, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), when an application for Writ of Supervisory Control alleged that the votes had not been correctly counted, such ground was sufficient to justify the court's finding that the votes "might not" have been correctly counted, as well as its issuance of a Writ directing respondents to order a recount. State ex rel. Thomas v. District Court, 116 M 510, 154 P2d 980 (1945).

Nature of Proceedings: Under sections 23-2301 through 23-2307, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), a proceeding to obtain a recount of votes was in no sense of the word an election contest; it was absolutely independent of the law relating to contesting of elections and either or both remedies were available. State ex rel. Peterson v. District Court, 107 M 482, 86 P2d 403 (1939).

Successive Recounts: Under sections 23-2301 through 23-2307, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), when an unsuccessful candidate for Sheriff obtained a recount and was declared elected, and his opponent also asked for and was granted a recount, on application for a Writ of Supervisory Control, the 5-day limitation commenced to run from the time the Board of Canvassers announced the result of the first recount, and since the application came within that time, the court had jurisdiction to grant the second recount. State ex rel. Peterson v. District Court, 107 M 482, 86 P2d 403 (1939).

Function and Jurisdiction of Court:

Under sections 23-2301 through 23-2307, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), the law relating to proceedings for election recounts specifically divided the functions of the court and the Canvassing Board. The court determined the grounds of and necessity for a recount and ordered it done. The Board was entrusted with the duty of making the recount, just as the election judges and clerks of election were entrusted with the duty of making the count and certifying thereto in the first place. State ex rel. Peterson v. District Court, 107 M 482, 86 P2d 403 (1939).

Under sections 23-2301 through 23-2307, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), the rule that District Courts may not advise Boards of County Canvassers on questions arising on a recount of ballots as to the legality or illegality of ballots cast, etc., applied also to the Supreme Court on application for extraordinary relief by way of writs, and it could not control the actions of such Boards indirectly by directions or suggestions to District Courts. If State ex rel. Riley v. District Court, 103 M 576, 64 P2d 115 (1937), be open to a contrary construction, it is to that extent overruled. State ex rel. Peterson v. District Court, 107 M 482, 86 P2d 403 (1939).

Under sections 23-2301 through 23-2307, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), the Court could proceed in any suitable manner or mode most conformable "to the spirit" of the Code in the absence of specific direction as to how proceedings should be conducted and was within its jurisdiction in directing canvassers' attention to sections of the Code covering points in dispute. State ex rel. Riley v. District Court, 103 M 576, 64 P2d 115 (1937).

Candidates for Legislature: Under Art. V, sec. 9, 1889 Mont. Const., courts could not try contests for seats in the Legislature or decide issues involved in such contests. However, mandamus lay to compel the court to perform the duty specially imposed upon it by recount statutes, i.e., to proceed on an application for a recount. In this case, the District Court found that the application for the recount was sufficient both in form and in substance. Therefore, the recount should have been ordered even though it might not have been binding on the Senate. State ex rel. Ainsworth v. District Court, 107 M 370, 86 P2d 5 (1938).

Applicability: Under sections 23-2301 through 23-2307, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), any unsuccessful candidate, including a candidate for the office of District Judge, could apply to the District Court for a recount. State ex rel. Riley v. District Court, 103 M 576, 64 P2d 115 (1937).

Application Timely: Under sections 23-2301 through 23-2307, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), when the Board of Canvassers was compelled by the Supreme Court by Writ of Mandate to reconvene and correct its findings with relation to two candidates for District Judge, the application filed within 5 days after the corrected canvass was timely. State ex rel. Riley v. District Court, 103 M 576, 64 P2d 115 (1937).

Qualifications for Office Irrelevant: Under sections 23-2301 through 23-2307, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), the District Court committed error in dismissing the application for a recount on the ground that applicant, convicted of a felony in federal court, had lost his citizenship and thus was ineligible to hold public office. The subject of applicant's qualifications for office is beyond the scope of a proceeding for recount. State ex rel. Stone v. District Court, 103 M 515, 63 P2d 147 (1936).

Case Notes

Jurisdiction Retained: The jurisdiction of the District Court before which an application for a recount of the votes is filed does not cease when it orders the Board of Canvassers to reconvene and recanvass the votes. Rather, the court retains jurisdiction of the proceeding until it has been advised of the completion of the canvass. State ex rel. Riley v. District Court, 103 M 576, 64 P2d 115 (1937).

Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 substituted introductory clause of (1) concerning recount for former introductory clause that read: "The county recount board in recounting the ballots shall count, at the same time, the votes cast in the precincts in which a recount is ordered for the several candidates in whose behalf a recount is ordered in the following manner"; in (1)(a) after "shall" substituted "provide to the recount board" for "produce" and near end before "ballots" inserted "paper"; in (1)(b) before "recount board" deleted "county" and at end inserted clause concerning counting as provided in 13-15-206(2); at beginning of (1)(c) substituted "the recount must be tallied" for "One of the members of the board shall read each ballot aloud. As the ballots are read, two clerks shall write the votes cast for each individual in each precinct, at full length"; and inserted (2) relating to preparation for a recount of ballots cast using a nonpaper-based voting system. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

Part of Section Not Codified: A portion of subsection (7) of section 23-4109, R.C.M. 1947, which is redundant with 13-16-418, MCA, was not codified in the MCA. This clause has not been repealed and is still valid law. Citation may be made to sec. 198, Ch. 368, L. 1969.

Subsection Not Codified: Subsection (3) of section 23-4116, R.C.M. 1947, which is redundant with 13-16-412(1), MCA, was not codified in the MCA. This subsection has not been repealed and is still valid law. Citation may be made to sec. 206, Ch. 368, L. 1969, as amended by sec. 49, Ch. 365, L. 1977.

Case Notes

Jurisdiction of Recount Board to Disallow Votes: Marsh argued that only election judges are vested with the authority to reject ballots and that a recount board is limited to simply recounting the ballots that the election judges have determined to be valid. The Supreme Court held that in reading all the statutes together, a recount board is required to count the votes cast and is further required to ascertain the correctness of all reports of votes cast. Therefore, in this case, the recount board could not perform its duties without determining if certain votes could be counted pursuant to the strictures contained in 13-15-202 (now repealed). Part 5
Tie Votes

Part Case Notes

Effect of Constitutional Provisions: If there is a clause in the Constitution providing that an officer shall hold for a definite term and until his successor is elected and qualified and the people fail to elect his successor, there is no vacancy, and he is entitled to hold over until the people have chosen his successor in the usual way. However, the provisions of Art. VIII, sec. 8, 9, 1889 Mont. Const. (now Art. VII, sec. 7, 1972 Mont. Const.), fixing the terms of judicial officers were exclusive, and vacancies occurred by operation of law upon the expiration of the terms designated, even when the people failed to elect their successors; hence, if, by reason of a tie vote, there was a failure to elect the successor of a Clerk of a District Court upon the expiration of the incumbent's term, there was a vacancy which the County Commissioners were authorized to fill by appointment. State ex rel. Jones v. Foster, 39 M 583, 104 P 860 (1909). See also State ex rel. Patterson v. Lentz, 50 M 322, 146 P 932 (1915).

Former Law Invalid as Applied to County School Superintendent: Under Art. XVI, sec. 5, 1889 Mont. Const., which provided that County School Superintendents were to hold office for 2 years "and until their successors are elected and qualified", a tie vote did not result in a vacancy that could be filled by the County Commissioners under a former chapter. The incumbent was entitled to remain in office. State ex rel. Chenoweth v. Acton, 31 M 37, 77 P 299 (1904).

13-16-506. Tie vote in election for other county officers.

Attorney General's Opinions

Appointee to County Attorney's Office — Term of Office: The term of an individual appointed to fill a vacancy in the office of County Attorney, due to a tie vote, extends until the next general election. 42 A.G. Op. 48 (1987).

VOTING SYSTEMS

Chapter Compiler's Comments

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 414, L. 2003, provided: "WHEREAS, the U.S. Supreme Court in Bush v. Gore, 531 U.S. 98 (2000), found that the lack of uniform procedures for determining voter intent in Florida during the 2000 presidential election led to a violation of the U.S. Constitution's Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment; and

WHEREAS, at the request of the 57th Legislature, the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee devoted much of the 2001-2002 interim to a review of Montana election laws with respect to voting systems and counting processes in light of Bush v. Gore; and

WHEREAS, the interim study found that Montana's statutory provisions relating to ballots, voting systems, and vote counting processes needed to be updated, clarified, and in some instances revised to better define uniform standards and procedures to provide equal protection for votes cast by Montana voters; and

WHEREAS, the Subcommittee on Voting Systems of the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee agreed that statutory changes should be made with an eye on future technology but should also standardize current practices to the greatest extent possible.

THEREFORE, this legislation will enable the Secretary of State to adopt a statewide benchmark performance measure that voting systems must meet before they can be approved for use in the state; allow local election administrators to continue to choose which of the approved voting systems should be used locally; require the Secretary of State to adopt uniform statewide rules regarding ballot form, votes and vote counts, and other operational procedures specific to each voting system and to provide training to local election administrators; and require all counting boards to use the uniform counting procedures specified."

Chapter Case Notes

Constitutionality: Prior voting machine law was not invalid for being in violation of Art. IX, sec. 1, 1889 Mont. Const. (now Art. IV, sec. 1, 1972 Mont. Const.). That section provided that all elections shall be "by ballot". The term "ballot" was employed in that section not to designate a piece of paper but rather to designate a method to ensure the secrecy and integrity of the popular vote. State ex rel. Fenner v. Keating, 53 M 371, 163 P 1156 (1917).

2003 Amendment: Chapter 414 substituted current text concerning requirements for voting systems for former text that read: "A voting machine or device may not be approved unless:

(1) an elector can vote in secrecy;

(2) an elector is prevented from voting for any candidate or upon any ballot issue more than once and is also prevented from voting on any office or ballot issue for which he is not entitled to vote;

(3) an elector can secretly select the party for which he wishes to vote in a primary election and the machine or device will count only votes for the candidates of that party by the elector in the primary election;

(4) an elector can vote a split ticket in a general election if he desires;

(5) every valid vote cast is registered and recorded;

(6) the machine or device is constructed so that it cannot be tampered with for a fraudulent purpose and is also constructed so that during the progress of the voting no individual can see or know the number of votes registered for any candidate or on any ballot issue;

(7) it allows write-in voting; and

(8) a guarantee to provide training and assistance to election officials is included in each contract for purchase of the machine or device." Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

Case Notes

Requirement of Tamper-Proof Machine: Section 23-1602, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), did not require a voting machine that would be tamper-proof against all tampering or manipulation, but one that, when honestly operated, would enable an elector to secretly cast his vote as he wished to cast it and have it counted as cast, and that could not be tampered with or manipulated in such a way that, though properly operated by the elector, it would seem to receive and record his vote without doing so. Statement of Intent: The statement of intent that accompanied SB 65 (Ch. 571, L. 1979) provided in part: "1. In subsection (1) of section 200 the secretary of state is authorized to adopt rules in accordance with the Montana Administrative Procedure Act relating to the examination and approval for use of voting machines and devices. The rapidly changing technology used to develop these machines and devices makes it impossible to anticipate and address every problem that may occur in determining if a machine or device is desirable for use in Montana. It is the intent of the Legislature that the secretary of state adopt rules specifying criteria for approval that must be met by new types of machines or devices. The secretary of state may find it necessary to adopt additional rules relating to hearings on allowing the use of machines or devices in Montana if a number of companies request approval of their equipment.

2. In subsection (2) of section 200 the secretary of state is required to prescribe rules for the use of the machines and devices approved for use in Montana. The development of new types of machines and devices makes it impossible to provide detailed procedures for local election officials to follow in using machines and devices by statute. The secretary of state should provide, by rule, the same type of procedural guidance given by statutory law for elections conducted by paper ballots in those cases when the procedures need to be different than those used for paper ballot elections. Rules prescribed under this authority shall include specific procedures needed to insure that the machine or device is working properly and has not been tampered with, special procedures needed to count or record the votes cast, and special procedures to be used during a recount."

MAIL BALLOT ELECTIONS

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 414, L. 2003, provided: "WHEREAS, the U.S. Supreme Court in Bush v. Gore, 531 U.S. 98 (2000), found that the lack of uniform procedures for determining voter intent in Florida during the 2000 presidential election led to a violation of the U.S. Constitution's Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment; and

WHEREAS, at the request of the 57th Legislature, the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee devoted much of the 2001-2002 interim to a review of Montana election laws with respect to voting systems and counting processes in light of Bush v. Gore; and

WHEREAS, the interim study found that Montana's statutory provisions relating to ballots, voting systems, and vote counting processes needed to be updated, clarified, and in some instances revised to better define uniform standards and procedures to provide equal protection for votes cast by Montana voters; and

WHEREAS, the Subcommittee on Voting Systems of the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee agreed that statutory changes should be made with an eye on future technology but should also standardize current practices to the greatest extent possible.

THEREFORE, this legislation will enable the Secretary of State to adopt a statewide benchmark performance measure that voting systems must meet before they can be approved for use in the state; allow local election administrators to continue to choose which of the approved voting systems should be used locally; require the Secretary of State to adopt uniform statewide rules regarding ballot form, votes and vote counts, and other operational procedures specific to each voting system and to provide training to local election administrators; and require all counting boards to use the uniform counting procedures specified."

Return of Mail Ballot by Person Other Than Elector — Election Valid: Official county voter records showed that 19 ballots in a mail ballot election, including ballots of two of the plaintiffs, were returned by persons other than the elector, which plaintiffs claimed violated 13-19-106 and 13-19-306 through 13-19-308, warranting invalidation of the election. Absent any hint of voter fraud, the fact that ballots were delivered by family members or election employees did not constitute a substantial deviation from mail ballot election guidelines sufficient to void the election results. 2009 Amendment: Chapter 297 in (3)(b) at end inserted "when implemented by the election administrator"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 196, L. 1985, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because section 6 [13-19-105] grants the secretary of state authority to adopt rules for the conduct of mail ballot elections. It is intended that the authority to adopt rules extends only to the areas specifically provided for in section 6 [13-19-105].

Rules are to be adopted under the Montana Administrative Procedure Act. The rules must be consistent with the provisions of the act.

It is intended that use of the mail ballot option will be entirely optional and within the discretion of the applicable jurisdiction and election administrator.

It is intended that nothing in this act be interpreted as requiring either the election administrator or the applicable jurisdiction to select or use the mail ballot option.

It is intended that use of the mail ballot option is authorized only for the specific elections enumerated in this act. It is further intended that the elections for which the mail ballot option may be used will be only those elections for which special circumstances make the use of the mail ballot option potentially the most desirable of the available options."

1991 Amendment: At end of (1) inserted exception from stub requirement for mail ballots.

Case Notes

Process for Establishing County Building Code Jurisdictional Area Based on Franchise Limitation Unconstitutional: The 2001 Legislature enacted Senate Bill No. 242 (SB 242), which established a process for designating a county building code jurisdictional area and eliminating municipal jurisdictional areas by an election procedure limited to record owners of real property instead of the general constituency. When questioned regarding the constitutionality of the process, the Supreme Court noted that because voting rights cases involve a fundamental political right, strict scrutiny required the state to demonstrate a compelling governmental interest in restricting the voting franchise. The court concluded that: (1) the application and enforcement of building codes is an issue of public safety that affects all persons living in the area, not just record owners of real property; (2) governmental entities that oversee building codes are not special-purpose units whose functions and actions exclusively or disproportionately affect record owners of real property over other constituents in the area that do not own real property; and (3) elections to determine who may impose and enforce building codes in a given area are general interest elections rather than special interest elections. The state failed to show a compelling interest in limiting the voting franchise to only record owners of real property, and because the valid provisions of SB 242 were not severable from the invalid provisions, the court held that SB 242 was invalid in its entirety. (However, see Ch. 443, L. 2003, wherein the Legislature amended the voting procedure to address the franchise limitation.) Finke v. State ex rel. McGrath, 2003 MT 48, 314 M 314, 65 P3d 576 (2003). Return of Mail Ballot by Person Other Than Elector — Election Valid: Official county voter records showed that 19 ballots in a mail ballot election, including ballots of two of the plaintiffs, were returned by persons other than the elector, which plaintiffs claimed violated 13-19-306 through 13-19-308 and this section, warranting invalidation of the election. Absent any hint of voter fraud, the fact that ballots were delivered by family members or election employees did not constitute a substantial deviation from mail ballot election guidelines sufficient to void the election results. Drummond v. Virginia City, 253 M 428, 833 P2d 1067, 49 St. Rep. 510 (1992).

Attorney General's Opinions

Who May Vote in Elections Concerning Municipal Jurisdictional Areas: Prior to 2001, state law provided authority for municipal governments, with the consent of the counties in which they were located, to exercise building code enforcement jurisdiction in an area within 4.5 miles of the city known as the municipal jurisdictional area or donut area. The 2001 Legislature sought to eliminate that extraterritorial municipal jurisdiction by providing for county elections on various provisions allowing for either county or municipal building code enforcement. The question arose as to who should vote in the elections. The Attorney General held that real property owners, as defined in 50-60-101, in the jurisdictional area in question were the proper electorate. Under this section, a ballot list must be compiled that includes every record owner of real property in the county or municipal jurisdictional area who fits the definition of owner and whose ownership interest appears of record, and county election officials should use the property records in existence on the date 30 days prior to the election day to determine who is eligible to vote. 49 A.G. Case Notes

Return of Mail Ballot by Person Other Than Elector — Election Valid: Official county voter records showed that 19 ballots in a mail ballot election, including ballots of two of the plaintiffs, were returned by persons other than the elector, which plaintiffs claimed violated 13-19-106 and 13-19-306 through 13-19-308, warranting invalidation of the election. Absent any hint of voter fraud, the fact that ballots were delivered by family members or election employees did not constitute a substantial deviation from mail ballot election guidelines sufficient to void the election results. 2011 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 101 substituted introductory language regarding notice for former (1) through (3) that read: "(1) As soon as possible after receipt of an elector's return/verification envelope, the election administrator shall give notice to the elector by the most expedient method available if the election administrator:

(a) is unable to verify the elector's or agent's signature under 13-19-310;

(b) has discovered a procedural mistake made by the elector that would invalidate the elector's ballot under 13-19-311; or

(c) finds that the elector has failed to attest to the accuracy of the elector's address or notify the election administrator of the elector's correct mailing address as provided in 13-19-106.

(2) The election administrator shall inform the elector that, prior to 8 p.m. on election day, the elector may:

(a) by mail or in person, verify the elector's or agent's signature, after proof of identification, by affirming that the signature is in fact the elector's, by completing a new registration card containing the elector's current signature, or by providing a new agent designation form;

(b) by mail, facsimile, telephone, or electronic means, provide the address information required under 13-19-106 or correct any minor mistake if the correction would render the ballot valid; or

(c) if necessary, request and receive a replacement ballot and vote it at the election administrator's office.

(3) The ballot of an elector who fails to provide information pursuant to subsection (2) must be handled as a provisional ballot pursuant to 13-15-107"; in (1) in first sentence substituted "attempt to contact the elector by the most expedient means available to determine" for "investigate" and inserted "if the elector cannot be contacted otherwise"; in (2) substituted "the election administrator shall place the elector" for "the elector must be placed"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

Chapter 242 in (1) near middle substituted "signature envelope" for "return/verification envelope". Amendment effective January 1, 2012. The amendment by Ch. 101 rendered the amendment by Ch. 242 void.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 297 in (1) in introductory clause after "elector" substituted "by the most expedient method available" for "either by telephone or by first-class mail"; in (1)(a) after "elector's" inserted "or agent's"; inserted (1)(c) providing for notice to elector of failure to attest to or correct address; in (2) in introductory clause substituted "prior to 8 p.m. on election day, the elector may" for "the elector may appear in person at the election administrator's office prior to 8 p.m. on election day and verify the signature or correct the mistake"; in (2)(a) at beginning substituted "by mail or in person, verify the elector's or agent's signature" for "verify the elector's signature" and at end inserted "or by providing a new agent designation form"; in (2)(b) at beginning inserted "by mail, facsimile, telephone, or electronic means, provide the address information required under 13-19-106 or"; in (2)(c) at end substituted "vote it at the election administrator's office" for "vote it at that time"; inserted (3) providing that failure to provide information results in ballot being treated as provisional; in (4)(a) after "returned" inserted "as undeliverable"; in (4)(b) after "list" inserted "provided for in 13-2-220"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 475 in (4) in first sentence after "shall" inserted "investigate the reason for the return and" and after "notice" deleted "provided for in 13-2-207"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2004.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 246 inserted (4) requiring election administrator to mail confirmation notice by forwardable, first-class mail and requiring elector to be placed on inactive list if notice is returned; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 11, 1997.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 80 in (1) at end of third sentence deleted "except that the rules may provide for different times for the acceptance of facsimile ballots after the closing of the polls"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 16, 1999.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 42 in (1), at end, and in (2), at end, deleted reference to 13-13-279. Amendment effective March 12, 1997.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 111, L. 1991, provided: "WHEREAS, there is increasing interest on the part of both state and federal agencies in the use of facsimile transmissions for the purpose of voting in state and federal elections, particularly for the casting of absentee ballots by men and women of the Armed Forces serving in Operation Desert Shield; and

WHEREAS, the federal Uniformed and Overseas Citizens Absentee Voting Act authorizes but does not require the use of facsimile ballots in federal elections; and

WHEREAS, state election laws currently present severe obstacles to the use of facsimile voter registration and the sending and receiving of absentee election ballots by facsimile; and

WHEREAS, the adoption of state laws allowing registration of absentee voters and the sending and receiving of absentee ballots by facsimile may increase the likelihood that absentee voters would exercise their right to vote; and

WHEREAS, adoption of rules by the Secretary of State that provide for absentee voter registration and the casting of absentee ballots by facsimile would provide maximum flexibility for state and local election officials to work with one another and appropriate federal officials to see that voting by facsimile becomes a reality in this state."

Effective Date: Section 4(1), Ch. 111, L. 1991, provided: "[Sections 1 [13-13-276], 2(2) [13-13-278(1), renumbered 13-21-104(1)], 2(3) [13-13-278(2), renumbered 13-21-104(2)], 3 [13-13-279, now repealed], 5 [not codified], and this section] are effective on passage and approval." Title 44, chapter 3, subchapter 25, ARM Montana Absent Uniformed Services and Overseas Voter Act.

13-21-206. Counting of federal write-in absentee ballots.

2017 Amendment: Chapter 368 deleted former (1)(b) that read: "(b) the ballot is not received before regular absentee ballots have been printed pursuant to 13-13-205"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2018.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 157 deleted former (1)(a) that read: "(a) a valid application was made by the elector pursuant to 13-21-210"; inserted (1)(a) concerning registration and identification information; inserted (1)(b) concerning receipt of ballot before printing of regular absentee ballot; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 586 in (1)(a) substituted "made by the elector" for "received"; in (1)(c) near beginning substituted "sent" for "received" and inserted "and is received by 3 p.m. the Monday following the election"; deleted former (3) that read: "(3) A regular absentee ballot received from a United States elector after the polls close may not be counted"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 557 in (1) after "ballot" substituted "received by an election administrator may be counted only if" for "must be counted if"; in (1)(a) substituted "a valid application was received pursuant to 13-21-210" for "the election administrator received the elector's application for a regular absentee ballot not less than 30 days before the election"; deleted former (1)(c) that read: "(c) it has not been submitted from any location within the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, or Guam"; inserted (3) providing that a regular absentee ballot received from a United States elector after the polls close may not be counted; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 164 in (1)(a) substituted "the election administrator received the elector's application for a regular absentee ballot not less than 30 days before the election" for "the condition in 13-13-271(3) has been met"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 24, 1999.

13-21-212. Mailing ballots to covered voter.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 55 near beginning substituted "covered voter" for "United States elector [covered voter]" and near middle substituted "covered voter" for "elector [covered voter]"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2015.

2013 Amendment: Chapter 336 substituted "signature envelope" for "return envelope". Amendment effective January 1, 2014.

Code Commissioner Correction: The code commissioner inserted the bracketed references to covered voter to reflect the change to defined terms contained in Ch. 139, L. 2013, which substituted the definition of covered voter for the definition of United States elector.

Uniform Faithful Presidential Electors Act

Part Official Comments

Prefatory Note
Introduction

From the very beginning, the formalities of presidential (and vice-presidential) selection under the United States Constitution have revolved around what has come to be known as the "electoral college." Despite this formal constancy, the realities of the selection process have changed dramatically over the years, to the point that the electoral college actually functions in a way that could hardly have been imagined by those who promulgated the constitutional provisions. The dissonance between formality and reality has opened room for what are called "faithless electors," members of the electoral college who vote for candidates for president or vice president (or both) other than those for whom the popular electoral majority (or plurality) assumed it was casting its votes. Faithless electors hold the potential for serious damage to our democratic processes, making advisable a uniform law to minimize the dangers posed.

The Formal Constitutional Process

Under the Constitution, each state is entitled to a number of electors equal to its total representation in the two houses of Congress. Originally the District of Columbia had no electoral votes, but the Twenty-Third Amendment now assigns to the District a number of electors equal to that of the least populous state. Electors are chosen "is such manner as [each state] . . . legislature [or Congress in the case of the District] may direct" and every four years they meet in separate state (and DC) meetings on a date chosen by Congress. That date is constitutionally required to be uniform throughout the country. See U.S. Const., Art. II, § 1, cls. 2 & 3, Am. XXIII. Under current law, the date that Congress has designated for those meetings comes about forty days after what is uniformly thought of as "election day," formally the day, also designated by Congress, on which those electors are chosen. See 3 U.S.C. §§ 7 & 1 ("the first Monday after the second Wednesday in December" and "the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November" respectively). At those disparate state meetings the electors choose the nation's president and vice president.

State-Centered Decisions about the "Manner" of Elector Selection

The District and every state has opted for popular election as its "manner" of choosing electors. Maine and Nebraska select two of their electors by the statewide popular vote count, and their remaining electors through the tally in each of the state's congressional districts. See, e.g., Neb. Rev. Stat. § 32-1038. The remaining forty-eight states and the District use what is called "winner-take-all," with the choice among complete slates of electors that have qualified under state law turning on the popular vote count in the state as a whole. See, e.g., Colo. Rev. Stat. § 1-5-403.

This does not, however, exhaust the possibilities for the "manner" of elector choice. In the early presidential elections, for instance, some state legislatures chose their electors directly. And in recent years there has been a movement to have a state's electors determined by the nationwide popular vote count, rather than the statewide count. To date six states (Maryland, Massachusetts, Hawaii, Illinois, New Jersey and Washington) have signed on to that nationwide popular vote plan, though even in those six states, the plan would not become effective until states with a majority of the total number of electors throughout the country (270) sign on. See John R. Koza et. al., Every Vote Equal: A State-Based Plan for Electing the President by National Popular Vote (2d ed. National Popular Vote Press 2008).

State Law and the Election-Day Ballot

In virtually all states, however, the part played by electors is not transparent under state law, including the way states structure the ballot. In many states, for instance, the ballot makes no mention at all of electors, instructing the voter instead to vote for one or another set of paired candidates for president and vice president. Even in states that include some reference to electors on the ballot (or in a few, even list the elector candidates, see, e.g., Ariz. Rev. Stat. § 16-507), the names of presidential and vice-presidential candidates—and their political parties—are given considerably greater prominence. State law then dictates that the electors associated with the popular vote winners become the state's electors entitled to vote at those later elector meetings. See, e.g., Ala Code § 17-14-32; Ariz. Rev. Stat. § 16-507.

Some Early Assumptions about the Process

When the office of elector was created in the original Constitution, it surely was assumed that in their state-by-state meetings electors would vote not based on some decision in an earlier vote, but rather after genuine debate and deliberation at the meetings about who in the nation would be best suited for the presidency. A majority of the country-wide total of "appointed" electors was required to prevail in the electoral college, but with the vote taken in unconnected meetings, it would not have been surprising if no candidate commanded the required nationwide majority. Thus a backup procedure was provided in which the House of Representatives would choose the president and the Senate the vice president if the electoral college balloting was indecisive. See U.S. Const., Art. II, § 1, cl. 3.

The Unanticipated Role of Political Parties and the Twelfth Amendment

The entry of political parties into the process utterly confounded assumptions underlying this scheme. Parties are nowhere mentioned in the Constitution, and indeed were thought by many of the most important constitutional draftsmen to be potentially mischievous "factions," which might have to be tolerated but which were to play no real role in presidential selection. See, e.g., Federalist 10 (Madison). Starting quite early, however, political parties moved to center stage in the presidential selection process, nominating presidential and vice-presidential candidates and also slates of electors who, it soon came to be taken for granted, would vote for the parties' executive office candidates were they "chosen" as the states' electors.

This political party loyalty was on stark display in the 1800 election. Two parties had quickly emerged, the Federalists and a competitor associated with Thomas Jefferson which went under various names, but which we can call the "Jeffersonians." Under the original constitutional scheme, each elector cast two votes for president, and once the presidency had been determined, the candidate with the next highest number of electoral votes became vice president. There was no separation of the two votes, and the vice president did not even require a majority in the electoral college. See U.S. Const., Art. II, § 1, cl. 3. But in the 1800 election, all the electors nominated by the Jeffersonians cast both their votes "faithfully" for the party's presidential "candidate," Thomas Jefferson, and also for the party's vice-presidential candidate, Aaron Burr. The result was a tie, throwing the selection into the backup procedure in the House—albeit through the unanticipated mechanism of political party coordination.

A majority of state delegations was (and is) required for House selection, see U.S. Const., Art. II, § 1, cl. 3, and it took thirty-six House votes before Jefferson emerged victorious. This unsettling drama prompted passage of the Twelfth Amendment, separating the votes for president and vice president, requiring electoral college majorities for both offices, and designating the Senate to conduct any required backup procedure for selecting the vice president.

Despite the fact that the 1800 election had shown how important political parties had become in the process, the Twelfth Amendment continued to ignore their role. The Supreme Court has suggested that states are constitutionally required to hold open the possibility of presidential and vice-presidential candidates not associated with any political party. See Storer v. Brown, 415 U.S. 724, 745-46 (1974). In fact, however, most of the candidates today—for the nation's executive offices and for the office of elector—are nominees of political parties. Indeed, since Washington's presidency, all prevailing candidates have been readily associated with a political party. And the role of parties in the process has set the stage for elector faithlessness.

The Problem of "Faithless" Electors

Over the years almost all electors have in fact voted for their parties' candidates, but for a variety of reasons, an occasional elector has not. These latter "faithless" electors have never changed the outcome of a presidential election, but that is in good part because with the winner-take-all approach of almost all states, the electoral college outcome is seldom very close. Still, close counts are certainly possible—evidenced by the 2000 election—and there is ample reason to believe that presidential campaigns make plans to court faithless votes if the nationwide electoral college count promises to be close. After the 1976 election, for instance, Robert Dole, the Republican vice-presidential candidate, testified about Republican plans to court faithlessness had the outcome been closer. And in the run-up to the 1968 election, several electors made contingency plans for their own faithlessness. See Robert Bennett, Taming the Electoral College 231 n.31 (Stanford University Press 2006); see also id. at 231-32 n.32. Should the apparent outcome of an election appear to turn on whether faithless votes are counted as cast or as previously committed, however, an extraordinarily rancorous dispute would be in prospect.

State Responses

It is thus not surprising that approximately half of the states have taken some action to discourage or forbid faithless electoral votes. Some employ pledges of faithfulness, administered in some cases by political parties and in other cases as part of the ballot qualification process. See, e.g., Ala. Code § 17-14-31; Fla. Stat. Title IX, § 103.021. In 1952, the Supreme Court upheld a political party-administered pledge against a constitutional challenge. See Ray v. Blair, 343 U.S. 214 (1952). Others forbid faithlessness, some with civil, or even criminal penalties. See, e.g., Cal. Elec. Code § 6906 (no apparent penalty); N.M. Stat. Ann. § 1-15-9(B) (fourth degree felony). And some provide that faithless voting constitutes resignation from the office of elector. See, e.g., Mich. Comp. Laws Ann. § 168.47. Some of these measures raise questions of whether any faithless votes might nonetheless be counted, while others raise the different question of whether a disqualified vote was nonetheless that of an "appointed" elector for purposes of determining whether the required "majority of whole number of electors appointed" was obtained. U.S. Const. Art. II, § 1, cl.2; Am. XII.

The Approach of the Uniform Law

The Conference has decided that a uniform law is advisable, in order to foreclose the possibility of faithlessness, and simultaneously to help assure that all states attempting to appoint a complete complement of electors will succeed. The uniform law proposes a state-administered pledge of faithfulness (sections 4 and 6(c)) [13-25-304 and 13-25-306(3)], with any attempt by an elector to submit a vote in violation of that pledge effectively constituting resignation from the office of elector (section 7(c)) [13-25-307(4)]. The draft Act provides a mechanism for filling a vacancy created for that reason or any other, with the substituted elector taking a similar pledge (sections 6(b) & (c)) [13-25-306(2) and (3)]. After a full set of faithful elector votes is obtained, the uniform law further provides that the official notification of the identity of the state's electors that is required under federal law (through a document called a "certificate of ascertainment," see 3 U.S.C. § 6) be officially amended by the Governor, so that the state's official list of electors contains the names of only faithful electors (section 8) [13-25-308].

The Twentieth Amendment deals with the problem of death of a president-elect after the elector meetings and before inauguration day, as well as with the possibility that the selection process will not have produced a decisive choice for president by the time for inauguration. In both situations, the Amendment turns to the vice-president-elect to fill in, unless, of course, the vice-president elect has also not been chosen. The Amendment authorizes the Congress to pass legislation to designate an acting president where neither a president-elect nor a vice-president-elect has been chosen. For these purposes, a candidate presumably becomes president-elect (and vice-president elect) after the electoral college voting, if that voting has produced a definitive result.

The Constitution is silent on a variety of other problems caused by deaths or, indeed, other sorts of arguably disqualifying developments. This is particularly notable in the period after election day but before the electors have met and voted. Some state statutes deal with problems in that earlier period, but they differ in their guidance for the electors. Compare Tenn. Code Ann. § 2-15-104 (elector discretion), with Mont. Code Ann. § 13-25-101 (political party substitution). This Act does not deal with the with the possibilities of death, disability or disqualification of a presidential or vice-presidential candidate before the electoral college meetings.

Conclusion

The goal of this Act is admittedly to address a problem that may be unlikely to arise. If it does arise, however, the potential is great for harm to our democracy caused by faithless electors whose votes, if counted, would prove decisive. The solution of the Act is to prevent the problem from arising by binding electors to the pledge they made as a condition of being chosen as an elector. Uniform adoption of the Act will assure that the solution is consistent among the states, foreclosing attempts to "peel off" electors and helping states to secure their full complements of electoral votes. Widespread adoption will also strengthen the Act against any claim that the remedy is unconstitutional.

Official Comments

As mentioned in the prefatory note, the Supreme Court has suggested that states are required to hold open the possibility of presidential candidates unaffiliated with any political party. See Storer v. Brown, 415 U.S. 724, 745-46 (1974). Most states do not, however, deal explicitly with that possibility. For states that want to make the possibility explicit, a bracketed definition of "unaffiliated presidential candidate" is provided in Section 2 [13-25-302], and then bracketed substantive provision for such candidates is included in Sections 3, 4 and 6 [13-25-303, 13-25-304, and 13-25-306].

No definition of a "faithful" presidential elector is provided in Section 2 [13-25-302], but the idea is captured by the pledge requirements of Sections 4 and 6(c) [13-25-304 and 13-25-306(3)], and then the provision of Section 6 [13-25-306] that attempted violations of the pledge causes the violating elector to vacate the office of elector, creating a vacant position to be filled under Section 6 [13-25-306].

13-25-303. Designation of electors.

Official Comments

Section 3 [13-25-303] uses the device of elected alternates as a convenient vehicle for facilitating the filling of elector vacancies, which is then dealt with under Section 6 [13-25-306]. But alternates are not essential for the filling of vacancies, nor does the designation of alternates for each elector position absolutely guarantee that the alternates will suffice for the filling of all vacancies that conceivably might arise. Thus most states do not at the present time provide for the initial selection of alternate electors, relying instead on persons who happen to be available should there be a vacancy that has to be filled. For examples of states that do employ designated alternates, see Haw. Rev. Stat. Ann. §§ 14-21, 14-23; Minn. Stat. Ann. §§ 208.03, 208.05. Note, however, that Minnesota does not designate an alternate for each elector position. In any event, if a state preferred not to employ the device of alternates, adjustment of this section and of Section 6 [13-25-306] would be necessary.

It may be that a state would provide for the possibility of slates of electors not committed to any political party or to particular presidential or vice-presidential candidates. The Mississippi statute explicitly adverts to the possibility of an unpledged elector. See Miss. Code Ann. § 23-15-785 (4). Adjustment of Section 3 [13-25-303] is required for any such states, as is adjustment of Sections 4 and 6 [13-25-304 and 13-25-306]. The legislative note to Section 3 [13-25-303] provides language that could be used if an adjustment were undertaken.

Official Comments

To accommodate a nominee unable physically to sign a pledge,"execution" of the pledge may be accomplished in the nominee's presence by another individual directed by the elector to sign the pledge.

13-25-305. Certification of electors.

Official Comments

3 U.S.C. § 6 instructs "the executive of each state" to inform relevant federal officials as well as prevailing elector candidates about the identity of the state's electors. The document containing this information is called a "certificate of ascertainment," and it is also to include the names and number of popular votes obtained by all elector candidates in the state. This is to be done "as soon as practicable" after the decisions have been made, but this is surely not intended to prevent later substitution of electors, and many states already make provision for such substitutions. See, e.g., Nev. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 298.040. The possibility of later substitution is central to the Uniform Act's approach to the problem of elector faithlessness, and for that reason Section 5 [13-25-305] of the Act instructs the state executive to make explicit in the certificate of ascertainment that later substitution is possible and that where it has proved necessary a later amended certificate of ascertainment will be provided with a revised list of the state's electors. Section 8 [13-25-308] then provides for submission of any amended certificate of ascertainment that proves necessary. Under the Constitution electoral votes are counted at a joint meeting of the House and Senate, U.S. Const., Am. XII, and at times in the past at those sessions, faithless elector votes have been counted as cast. See Robert Bennett, Taming the Electoral College 38-39, 96 (Stanford University Press 2006). Those appear to have been situations where the certificate of ascertainment named the eventually faithless electors as those of the state, and provision in this act for an amended certificate should assure that the votes that are counted are only those of the electors on the amended list, all of whom would have cast faithful votes.

Most state statutes specify that the Governor is to carry out this duty assigned to "the executive of each state." See, e.g., 10 Ill. Comp. Stat. 5/21-3. States could presumably opt for a different executive officer, both in Section 5 and Section 8 [13-25-305 and 13-25-308].

13-25-306. Presiding officer — elector vacancy.

Official Comments

A number of states name the Secretary of State to preside at the meeting of electors, but states might opt for a different official. See, e.g., Tex. Elec. Code Ann. § 192.006. For that reason, Section 6 [13-25-306] brackets the designation of the Secretary of State as the presiding officer.

13-25-307. Elector voting.

Official Comments

To accommodate an elector unable to physically mark a ballot or sign and print his or her name, those steps can be done in the elector's presence by another individual directed by the elector to mark a ballot or sign and print the elector's name.

For the reasons discussed in the Legislative Note for Section 6 [13-25-306], references to the Secretary of State are bracketed in Section 7 [13-25-307].

13-25-308. Elector replacement — associated certificates.

Official Comments

For the reasons discussed in the Legislative Notes for Sections 5 and 6 [13-25-305 and 13-25-306], references to the Governor and the Secretary of State are bracketed in Section 8 [13-25-308].

2009 Amendment: Chapter 292 in (2) substituted "85 days" for "75 days"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

BALLOT ISSUES

Chapter Case Notes

Constitutional Referendum Void — Separate Vote Requirement — Substantive Changes Not Closely Related: The separate vote requirement for constitutional initiatives prohibits a proposal that makes two or more changes to the Montana Constitution that are substantive and not closely related. Furthermore, if a proposed constitutional amendment adds new matter to the Constitution, that proposition is at least one change in and of itself. Modifying an existing constitutional provision is considered at least one change, whether that effect is express or implicit. Although the text of CI-116, also known as "Marsy's Law", was contained in a new section, the constitutional initiative implicitly modified Art. II, secs. 2(3), 9, 10, 17, 20, 21, and 24. Because these changes were substantive and not closely related, CI-116 violated the separate-vote requirement, and it was void in its entirety. Mont. Ass'n of Counties v. St., 2017 MT 267, 389 Mont. 183, 404 P.3d 733.

Single-Subject Requirement — Inapplicable to Constitutional Initiatives: The single-subject requirement of Art. V, sec. 11(3), Mont. Const., does not apply to constitutional amendments proposed by initiative. Mont. Ass'n of Counties v. St., 2017 MT 267, 389 Mont. 183, 404 P.3d 733.

Referendum — Issues Addressed Prior to Election Ballot — Justiciable Controversy: Legislative Referendum 123 (LR-123) was enacted by the Legislature in 2011 and was set to appear on the November 2012 general election ballot. The plaintiffs challenged the constitutionality of the referendum before it appeared on the ballot, and the Secretary of State claimed the challenge was not ripe and justiciable. The Supreme Court determined the constitutional issues could be raised and that a present case or controversy existed. In determining that the case could go forward, the Supreme Court reasoned that ripeness has both a constitutional dimension based on the case or controversy requirement and a prudential dimension that weighs the fitness of the issues for judicial decision and the hardship to the parties of withholding a decision. The issues were definite and concrete, and given the time and money involved, there was no prudential reason for allowing the election on LR-123 to proceed prior to addressing the constitutional issues. MEA-MFT v. McCulloch, 2012 MT 211, 366 Mont. 266, 291 P.3d 1075.

Preelection Challenge to Legislative Referendum — Constitutional Amendments by Statutory Referendum — Justiciable Where Proposed Law Facially Defective: The Legislature passed a bill to put a referendum on the ballot to change elections for Supreme Court justices from statewide to regional. Prior to the election, citizens from each of the seven proposed regions filed an action against the Secretary of State, seeking a declaratory judgment that the proposed referendum was unconstitutional as well as an injunction to bar the Secretary of State from putting the measure on the ballot. The District Court granted the plaintiffs summary judgment and the state appealed. The Supreme Court agreed with the District Court that the matter was justiciable even though the voters had not yet passed the referendum. Nevertheless, the Supreme Court concluded that preelection consideration of the appeal was appropriate because the proposed law was facially unconstitutional. The measure sought to amend the Montana Constitution by means of a statutory referendum, in clear violation of constitutional provisions. Therefore, the Supreme Court agreed the matter was justiciable and affirmed the District Court's granting of summary judgment. Reichert v. St., 2012 MT 111, 365 Mont. 92, 278 P.3d 455.

Nonjusticiable Ballot Measure Controversy Dismissed: Proponents for a 2006 ballot measure petitioned the Supreme Court to reverse the District Court's invalidation of the legal sufficiency of the ballot measure to allow the measure to be placed on the ballot. However, the Supreme Court previously held in Montanans for Justice: Vote No on CI-98 v. St., 2006 MT 277, 334 M 237, 146 P3d 759 (2006), that the ballot measure was invalid and that no votes for the measure would be counted. Lacking jurisdiction over nonjusticiable matters, the Supreme Court may raise questions of justiciability sua sponte, but moot questions and advisory opinions are among matters that exceed the court's jurisdiction. A question becomes moot when effective relief can no longer be granted, and a justiciable controversy is one upon which the judgment of the court may effectively operate. In this case, even if the Supreme Court determined that the District Court erred when it overruled the Attorney General's determination of legal sufficiency, votes for the initiative could not be counted because the Secretary of State's certification of the ballot measure was invalidated in Montanans for Justice. Additionally, the decision in Montanans for Justice ensured that any judgment in the present case would have no effect on the rights of the parties, so this appeal was reduced to a request for an advisory opinion that exceeded the court's jurisdiction. Thus, this nonjusticiable appeal was dismissed. Not in Montana: Citizens Against CI-97 v. St., 2006 MT 278, 334 M 265, 147 P3d 174 (2006).

Challenge to Ballot Issue Timely — Laches Inapplicable: Proponents of a ballot issue contended that the opponents negligently delayed asserting their rights to challenge the issue and that the opponents' claim was therefore barred by laches. Laches applies when a claimant has unreasonably delayed or has been negligent in asserting the claim, to the prejudice of the party against whom relief is sought. The argument failed on two grounds. First, the proponents failed to raise laches in their answer to the complaint, and laches cannot be raised for the first time on appeal, so the defense was procedurally barred. Second, the opponents brought their claim within the narrow 30-day window after the ballot issues were certified, so it could not be reasonably argued that the opponents waited until the claim was stale before asserting it. Thus, the claim was not barred by laches. Montanans for Justice: Vote No on CI-98 v. St., 2006 MT 277, 334 M 237, 146 P3d 759 (2006).

Expedited Hearing on Validity of Ballot Measure Not Violative of Procedural Due Process: Opponents to a ballot measure timely filed a challenge, and the District Court expedited the hearing and denied the proponents additional time for discovery. On appeal, the proponents asserted that their due process rights were violated by the District Court's actions. The Supreme Court disagreed. The requirements for a procedural due process claim are notice and opportunity for a hearing appropriate to the nature of the case. The proponents could not claim lack of notice because: (1) the opponents' complaint was sufficiently specific to put the proponents on notice that the opponents contested the validity of addresses listed by paid signature gatherers; (2) the proponents acknowledged that the Secretary of State notified them during the signature gathering process that complaints had been received related to address falsification; and (3) denial of additional time for discovery regarding address falsification did not prejudice the proponents because the signature gatherers were contacted, hired, and paid by the proponents, so any information regarding the true addresses was within the exclusive knowledge of the proponents. The due process claim of lack of a meaningful hearing was also denied by the Supreme Court. The record showed that the proponents failed to use the time allocated for discovery or to avail themselves of available procedural remedies. The proponents did not answer the opponents' complaint, request any discovery, move for a continuance, take any depositions, file a pretrial brief, attend depositions conducted by the opponents, file proposed findings of fact or conclusions of law, or object to the District Court's proposed expedited schedule. Thus, any deprivation of a meaningful hearing was more a construct of the proponents' own failure to act than it was a function of the District Court's denial of more time for trial preparation. The proponents' due process claim failed. Montanans for Justice: Vote No on CI-98 v. St., 2006 MT 277, 334 M 237, 146 P3d 759 (2006), distinguishing Wilson v. Dept. of Public Service Regulation, 260 M 167, 858 P2d 368 (1993).

No Constitutional Conflict in Initiative Absent Enactment — Time for Objections: In considering the question of a constitutional conflict in an initiative measure that, if enacted, would abolish property taxes, the Supreme Court declined to intervene in the initiative process prior to a vote absent extraordinary causes, finding that it would be an unjustified infringement of the people's initiative rights to remove the measure from the ballot. The court noted that no constitutional conflict existed until and unless the measure passed by popular vote and that the time period until the effective date would allow sufficient time to raise objections to the measure. State ex rel. Mont. School Bd. Ass'n v. Waltermire, 224 M 296, 729 P2d 1297, 43 St. Rep. 2198 (1986).

Legislative Resolution in Excess of Initiative Power: In this original proceeding for a Writ of Injunction, plaintiffs sought an order declaring a constitutional initiative void and unconstitutional. The initiative, if adopted by the voters, would have amended the Montana Constitution to direct the 1985 Legislature to adopt a resolution requesting Congress to call a constitutional convention for the sole purpose of adopting a balanced budget amendment. It also would have required that if the resolution was not adopted within 90 legislative days, the Legislature would remain in session without pay until the resolution was adopted. The Supreme Court, in granting injunctive relief, held that although the initiative was in form a constitutional amendment, it was in substance a legislative resolution. The initiative power conferred by the Montana Constitution does not include the power to enact a legislative resolution. The electorate cannot circumvent the constitution by indirectly doing that which can be done directly. State ex rel. Harper v. Waltermire, 213 M 425, 691 P2d 826, 41 St. Rep. 2212 (1984).

Judicial Interpretation of Initiatives — Rules: The rules applicable to judicial interpretation of legislation enacted by the Legislature apply to the interpretation of initiatives. State ex rel. Palmer v. Hart, 201 M 526, 655 P2d 965, 39 St. Rep. 2277 (1982).

Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 481 inserted (2) establishing qualifications for a person who gathers signatures; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 11, 2007.

Severability: Section 29, Ch. 481, L. 2007, was a severability clause.

Withdrawal of Signatures:

In the absence of legislative expression to the contrary, the right of signers to withdraw signatures from a petition exists until the Secretary of State has finally determined that the petition is sufficient. State ex rel. O'Connell v. Mitchell, 111 M 94, 106 P2d 180 (1940).

Any person signing the petition has absolute right to withdraw his name at any time before the person or body created by law to determine the matter submitted by the petition has finally acted. For an initiative, such time expires when the Secretary of State finally determines the petition sufficient. Ford v. Mitchell, 103 M 99, 61 P2d 815 (1936).

2017 Amendment: Chapter 368 in two places substituted "registration form" for "registry card". Amendment effective January 1, 2018.

Case Notes

No Mandamus to Certify Signatures: A Writ of Mandate may not be issued to control discretion, absent an abuse thereof. The function of the County Clerk and Recorder in deciding if signatures on a petition for a ballot issue are "signed in substantially the same manner" as the signatures on the voter registry cards involves the exercise of discretion. Therefore, the District Court properly refused to issue a Writ to compel the certification of certain signatures. State ex rel. Miller v. Murray, 183 M 499, 600 P2d 1174 (1979).

Address on Petition for Identification Purposes Only: The only purpose of the address on a petition for a proposed initiative is to aid the Clerk and Recorder in the identification of the signer for certification of the signature. State ex rel. Miller v. Murray, 183 M 499, 600 P2d 1174 (1979).

Attorney General's Opinions

Address on Petition Different From That on Voter Registry Card: A signature of a properly registered voter on a petition for a ballot measure should not be disqualified if the address on the petition is not the same as the address on the voter registry card. 39 A.G. Op. 50 (1982).

1983 Amendment: In first sentence of (1), inserted ", other than a constitutional amendment,"; at beginning of (2), deleted "Unless the legislature provides otherwise,"; and in (2), inserted "by initiative or" and substituted "July 1" for "October 1".

1981 Amendment: Changed the effective date of an initiative, constitutional amendment, or referendum from July 1 to October 1 following approval; inserted the however clause in (1).

Attorney General's Opinions

Applicability of Referendum Containing Retroactive Effective Date: Unless a law that has been suspended by referendum contains a specific effective date, upon approval by the voters, the law becomes effective upon completion of the canvass of the election results, as provided in this section. However, when a law that has been suspended by referendum contains a retroactive effective date, approval of the law by the voters also includes approval of its retroactive applicability. 45 A.G. 2005 Amendment: Chapter 479 in (1) at end substituted "13-37-102" for "13-37-101". Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 323 in definition of signature gatherer after "collects" deleted "or intends to collect". Amendment effective July 1, 2003.

Effective Date: Section 5(2), Ch. 117, L. 1999, provided: "[Sections 1, 2, and 3(1)] [enacting 13-27-111, 13-27-112, and 13-27-113(1)] are effective October 1, 1999."

Case Notes

Signature Gathering Process Permeated by Pervasive and General Pattern and Practice of Fraud and Procedural Noncompliance — Votes for Ballot Issues Not to Be Counted: The District Court held that signature gatherers for three ballot measures engaged in a pervasive and general pattern and practice of fraud and procedural noncompliance. On appeal, the Supreme Court found that: (1) signature gatherers executed affidavits submitting signatures that were gathered outside the signature gatherers' presence in violation of 13-27-302 and this section; (2) 43 signature gatherers gave false or fictitious addresses in their certification affidavits in violation of 13-27-302 and this section; and (3) a significantly large number of signature gatherers engaged in a fraudulent bait-and-switch tactic to induce people who knowingly signed one petition to unknowingly sign the other two petitions. Once opponents established the deceptive practices, it was the proponents' burden to produce evidence to the contrary, but the proponents failed to do so. The District Court was affirmed, and because the signatures gathered in violation of the procedural safeguards tainted the initiative process, the Supreme Court ordered that votes on the ballot measures not be counted to the extent that was technically feasible or, if the votes were counted, that the votes would have no force or effect. Montanans for Justice: Vote No on CI-98 v. St., 2006 MT 277, 334 M 237, 146 P3d 759 (2006).

1995 Amendment: Chapter 545 in (2), at end of fifth sentence after "legislative", substituted "services division" for "council". Amendment effective July 1, 1995.

1995 Transition: Section 81, Ch. 545, L. 1995, provided: "(1) The members of the legislative council, as provided in 5-11-101, the members of the legislative finance committee, as provided in 5-12-202, the members of the legislative audit committee, as provided in 5-13-202, and the members of the environmental quality council, as provided in 5-16-101, must be appointed as soon as possible following [the effective date of this section] [effective April 27, 1995].

(2) To implement the changes provided in [this act], the office of the legislative council, the office of budget and program planning, and the department of administration shall establish all necessary authorizations during the accounting preparation process known as the "turnaround" process, beginning in April or May 1995, to administer the several appropriations made by any means to programs of the legislative branch agencies consolidated under [sections 3 and 4] [5-2-503 and 5-2-504] for fiscal year 1996 or 1997 or the biennium ending June 30, 1997, as appropriations to a single legislative agency while maintaining the specific identification, legislative intent, and purpose for which the appropriations were made. During this transition, the executive director may authenticate documents as required to accomplish the purposes of [this act]. Appropriate changes on the statewide budgeting and accounting system and the payroll, personnel, and position control system must also be made and authorized as required to accomplish the purposes of [this act].

(3) Personnel and property of the environmental quality council are transferred to the legislative services division effective July 1, 1995."

Case Notes

Constitutional Referendum Void — Separate Vote Requirement — Substantive Changes Not Closely Related: The separate vote requirement for constitutional initiatives prohibits a proposal that makes two or more changes to the Montana Constitution that are substantive and not closely related. Furthermore, if a proposed constitutional amendment adds new matter to the Constitution, that proposition is at least one change in and of itself. Modifying an existing constitutional provision is considered at least one change, whether that effect is express or implicit. Although the text of CI-116, also known as "Marsy's Law", was contained in a new section, the constitutional initiative implicitly modified Art. II, secs. 2(3), 9, 10, 17, 20, 21, and 24. Because these changes were substantive and not closely related, CI-116 violated the separate-vote requirement, and it was void in its entirety. Mont. Ass'n of Counties v. St., 2017 MT 267, 389 Mont. 183, 404 P.3d 733.

Severance of Constitutional Amendment Language Not Curative of Defect When Initiative Improperly Submitted to Voters: Constitutional Initiative No. 75 (CI-75) expressly amended three parts of the Montana Constitution without allowing a separate vote on each amendment and thus was unconstitutional under Art. XIV, sec. 11, Mont. Const. Language in the initiative that would have severed the invalid parts from the valid parts could not cure the constitutional defect in CI-75 because the defect was in the submission of CI-75 to voters with more than one constitutional amendment. Marshall v. St., 1999 MT 33, 293 M 274, 975 P2d 325, 56 St. Rep. 142 (1999).

Submission of Constitutional Initiative Amending Three Parts of Constitution Violative of Separate Vote Requirement: Plaintiffs filed an original application for declaration of judgment and injunctive relief, challenging the validity of Constitutional Initiative No. 75 (CI-75), which was passed by the voters and stated that no new tax or tax increase could be enacted unless approved by a majority of the electorate. The initiative amended Art. VIII, Mont. Const., revising state revenue and finance provisions; amended Art. II, sec. 18, Mont. Const., providing that sovereign immunity did not shield public officials or employees from appropriate civil liability for violating CI-75; and provided that notwithstanding the referendum provisions of Art. VI, sec. 10, Mont. Const., before a bill imposing new or increased taxes is referred to the people, the Governor had veto power. The dispositive issue was that CI-75 had two or more constitutional amendments, in violation of Art. XIV, sec. 11, Mont. Const., which is a cogent constitutional recognition of the circumstances under which Montana voters receive constitutional initiatives, namely that a separate vote is required for each proposed constitutional amendment. Citing Armatta v. Kitzhaber, 959 P2d 49 (Oreg. 1998), the Supreme Court held that the separate vote requirement is distinguishable as different and narrower than the single subject requirement in Art. V, sec. 11, Mont. Const., and that to the extent that a constitutional amendment may be valid under the single subject rule but fail under the separate vote rule, holdings to the contrary in State ex rel. Teague v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 34 M 426, 87 P 450 (1906), State ex rel. Hay v. Alderson, 49 M 387, 142 P 210 (1914), and State ex rel. Corry v. Cooney, 70 M 355, 225 P 1007 (1924), were overruled. Because CI-75 expressly amended three parts of the Montana Constitution without allowing a separate vote on each amendment, CI-75 was unconstitutional under Art. XIV, sec. 11, Mont. Const. Marshall v. St., 1999 MT 33, 293 M 274, 975 P2d 325, 56 St. Rep. 142 (1999), following State ex rel. Hinz v. Moody, 71 M 473, 230 P 575 (1924), and Sawyer Stores, Inc. v. Mitchell, 103 M 148, 62 P2d 342 (1936). However, see Mont. Ass'n of Counties v. St., 2017 MT 267, 389 Mont. 183, 404 P.3d 733, clarifying that the single-subject requirement does not apply to constitutional initiatives.

Initiative Amendment Void — Material Language Difference — Improper Publication Procedures: The language of an amendment to Art. II, sec. 16, Mont. Const., as filed and certified by the Secretary of State, was not the same language submitted to the voters at the election. Because the difference in language was material and because publication of the proposed initiative prior to election did not follow constitutional mandates, the purported amendment was held to be void. State ex rel. Mont. Citizens for the Preservation of Citizens' Rights v. Waltermire, 227 M 85, 738 P2d 1255, 44 St. Rep. 913 (1987). Petitions for rehearing, reconsideration, and clarification denied, 44 St. Rep. 929A (1987).

Attaching Title and Text Mandatory: Section 37-102, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), requiring that the sheets provided for signatures on a petition must be attached to a full and correct copy of the title and text thereof, was mandatory and not directory, because its purpose was to advise signers as to the contents of the proposed law, especially where question of noncompliance is raised prior to election. Ford v. Mitchell, 103 M 99, 61 P2d 815 (1936).

Difference in Text of Petitions: When two petitions differed substantially in text of the proposed law, they could not be considered as parts of one petition for the purpose of the sufficiency of the number of signatures. Ford v. Mitchell, 103 M 99, 61 P2d 815 (1936).

2011 Amendment: Chapter 372 in (1) in first sentence after "proposed" inserted "ballot" and after "draft ballot" inserted "issue"; and in (5)(b) in first sentence after "statement of purpose" substituted "and implication, and the yes and no statements" for "and the statements of implication". Amendment effective January 1, 2013.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 481 in (1) substituted "A proponent of a ballot issue shall submit the text of the proposed issue to the secretary of state together with draft ballot statements intended to comply with 13-27-312. Petitions may not be circulated for the purpose of signature gathering more than 1 year prior to the final date for filing the signed petition with the county election administrator. The secretary of state shall forward a copy of the text of the proposed issue and statements to the legislative services division for review" for "Before submission of a sample sheet to the secretary of state pursuant to subsection (3), the following requirements must be fulfilled:

(a) The text of the proposed measure must be submitted to the legislative services division for review"; in (2)(a) near beginning after "text" inserted "and statements" and after "consistency" inserted "and conformity with the most recent edition of the bill drafting manual furnished by the legislative services division, the requirements of 13-27-312"; in (2)(b) near beginning after "text" inserted "and statements" and after "shall" substituted "recommend in writing to the proponent revisions to the text and revisions to the statements to make them consistent with any recommendations for change to the text and the requirements of 13-27-312" for "make to the person submitting the text written recommendations for changes in the text"; in (2)(c) at beginning of first sentence after "The" substituted "proponent" for "person submitting the text"; in (4) near beginning of first sentence after "signatures" substituted "the final text of the proposed issue and ballot statements" for "a sample sheet containing the text of the proposed measure" and at end after "state" deleted "in the form in which it will be circulated", deleted former second sentence that read: "The sample petition may not be submitted to the secretary of state more than 1 year prior to the final date for filing the signed petition with the county election administrator", inserted second sentence regarding rejection of the proposed issue, at beginning of third sentence inserted "If accepted", after "copy of the" substituted "proposed issue and statements" for "petition sheet", and at end after "general for" substituted "a determination as to the legal sufficiency of the issue and for approval of the petitioner's ballot statements and for a determination pursuant to 13-27-312 as to whether a fiscal note is necessary" for "approval", and deleted former fourth through tenth sentences that read: "The secretary of state and attorney general shall each review the petition for sufficiency as to form and approve or reject the form of the petition, stating the reasons for rejection, if any. The attorney general shall also review the petition as to its legal sufficiency. If the attorney general determines that the petition is legally deficient, the attorney general shall notify the secretary of state of that fact and provide a copy of the determination to the secretary of state and to the petitioner within the time provided in 13-27-312(8). The petition may not be given final approval by the secretary of state unless the attorney general's determination is overruled pursuant to 13-27-316. As used in this section, "legal sufficiency" means that the petition complies with the statutory prerequisites to submission of the proposed measure to the electors and that the text of the proposed measure complies with constitutional requirements governing submission of ballot measures to the electorate. Review of a petition for legal sufficiency does not include consideration of the merits or application of the measure if adopted by the voters. The secretary of state or the attorney general may not reject the petition solely because the text contains material not submitted to the legislative services division unless the material not submitted to the legislative services division is a substantive change not suggested by the legislative services division"; in (5)(a) after "review the" substituted "legal sufficiency opinion and ballot statements of the petitioner, as approved by the attorney general" for "comments and statements of the attorney general" and at end after "13-27-312" deleted "and make a final decision as to the approval or rejection of the petition"; inserted (5)(b) outlining the secretary of state's actions upon approval of a proposed issue; in (5)(c) at beginning inserted "If the attorney general rejects the proposed issue" and after "submitted the" substituted "proposed issue of the rejection, including the attorney general's legal sufficiency opinion" for "petition sheet of the approval or rejection of the form of the petition within 28 days after submission of the petition sheet"; in (5)(d) at end substituted "proposed issue" for "petition sheet"; deleted former (5) and (6) that read: "(5) A petition with technical defects in form may be approved with the condition that those defects will be corrected before the petition is circulated for signatures.

(6) The secretary of state shall upon request provide the person submitting the petition with a sample petition form, including the text of the proposed measure, the statement of purpose, and the statements of implication, all as approved by the secretary of state and the attorney general. The petition may be circulated by a signature gatherer in the form of the sample prepared by the secretary of state. The petition may be circulated by a signature gatherer upon approval of the form of the petition by the secretary of state and the attorney general pending a final determination of its legal sufficiency"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 11, 2007.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 537 in (4)(b) deleted former second sentence and former (4)(b)(i) and (4)(b)(ii) that read: "The secretary of state shall send written notice to the person who submitted the petition sheet of the final approval or rejection of the petition within 5 days of:

(i) the date on which a final court decision is entered under 13-27-316 if a challenge to the attorney general's review of the petition is filed pursuant to that section; or

(ii) the expiration of the time for filing a challenge to the attorney general's review under 13-27-316 if no challenge is filed. If the petition is rejected, the notice must include reasons for rejection"; and inserted (4)(c) requiring the secretary of state to notify the person who submitted the petition sheet if an action is filed challenging the validity of the petition. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 191 at end of second sentence in (3) substituted "county election administrator" for "secretary of state" and inserted fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth sentences requiring attorney general to review petition for legal sufficiency, providing procedures upon determination of legal insufficiency, defining legal sufficiency, and providing that review for legal sufficiency does not include consideration of merits or application if adopted; at end of (4)(a) substituted "the petition" for "the form of the petition"; in first sentence in (4)(b) after "rejection" inserted "of the form of the petition" and inserted second sentence and (4)(b)(i) requiring secretary of state to send written notice to petitioner of final approval or rejection of petition within 5 days of final court decision challenging attorney general's review; at beginning of (4)(b)(ii) inserted first sentence allowing approval or rejection by time of expiration of filing time to challenge attorney general's review if no challenge is filed; inserted third sentence in (6) allowing petition to be circulated upon approval of form by secretary of state and attorney general pending final determination of legal sufficiency; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 1999.

Applicability: Section 5, Ch. 191, L. 1999, provided: "[This act] applies to initiative petitions submitted to the secretary of state after October 1, 1999."

1997 Amendment: Chapter 42 in (1)(b), before "staff", deleted reference to Council; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 12, 1997.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 545 throughout section substituted reference to Legislative Services Division for reference to Legislative Council; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1995.

1995 Transition: Section 81, Ch. 545, L. 1995, provided: "(1) The members of the legislative council, as provided in 5-11-101, the members of the legislative finance committee, as provided in 5-12-202, the members of the legislative audit committee, as provided in 5-13-202, and the members of the environmental quality council, as provided in 5-16-101, must be appointed as soon as possible following [the effective date of this section] [effective April 27, 1995].

(2) To implement the changes provided in [this act], the office of the legislative council, the office of budget and program planning, and the department of administration shall establish all necessary authorizations during the accounting preparation process known as the "turnaround" process, beginning in April or May 1995, to administer the several appropriations made by any means to programs of the legislative branch agencies consolidated under [sections 3 and 4] [5-2-503 and 5-2-504] for fiscal year 1996 or 1997 or the biennium ending June 30, 1997, as appropriations to a single legislative agency while maintaining the specific identification, legislative intent, and purpose for which the appropriations were made. During this transition, the executive director may authenticate documents as required to accomplish the purposes of [this act]. Appropriate changes on the statewide budgeting and accounting system and the payroll, personnel, and position control system must also be made and authorized as required to accomplish the purposes of [this act].

(3) Personnel and property of the environmental quality council are transferred to the legislative services division effective July 1, 1995."

1991 Amendment: In (3) inserted fifth sentence regarding rejection of a petition based on material not submitted to Legislative Council; in (4), in second sentence after "approval", inserted "or rejection" and substituted third sentence requiring that reasons for rejection be included in petition for former third sentence that read: "The secretary of state shall send written notice if the petition has been rejected, together with reasons for rejection, within 14 days after submission of the petition sheet"; inserted (5) regarding petition with technical defects; and inserted (6) concerning preparation of a sample petition form.

1983 Amendment: Provided for Legislative Council review before submission of sample sheet to Secretary of State by inserting (1) and (2) and deleting former (1)(b) relating to Legislative Council review after such submission.

1981 Amendment: Inserted "containing the text of the proposed measure" after "sample sheet" in the first sentence of (1); inserted subsection (1)(b) referring to review by the Legislative Council.

Case Notes

Sufficiency of Title of 1988 Welfare Referendum — Applicable Standard: The title of a referendum "allowing the legislature greater discretion to determine the eligibility, duration, and level of economic assistance and social services to those in need" was found by the Supreme Court to be legally sufficient after applying the constitutional requirement of clarity of title set out in Art. V, sec. 11, Mont. Const., and employing the rules of construction developed under State ex rel. Wenzel v. Murray, 178 M 441, 585 P2d 633 (1978), and St. v. McKinney, 29 M 375, 74 P 1095 (1904). The court refused to intervene to remove the referendum from the ballot prior to a vote of the people so as not to violate the constitutional rights of popular sovereignty and self-government. Recognizing important distinctions between the processes of referendum and initiative, the standard applied to the referendum was the same applied to examination of the title of other products of the Legislature. The court affirmed the District Court finding of no statutory authority for preelection nullification of a legislative referendum and noted a strong presumption in favor of the constitutionality of legislative enactments. The ballot language was not purposely misleading and sufficiently identified the measure to provide for an informed vote. Harper v. Greely, 234 M 259, 763 P2d 650, 45 St. Rep. 1889 (1988), distinguishing State ex rel. Steen v. Murray, 144 M 61, 394 P2d 761 (1964), and State ex rel. Harper v. Misleading Summary of Proposed Initiative: Under section 37-104.1, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), an Attorney General's summary of a proposed initiative which could mislead the voters because it was not a "true and impartial statement of the purpose of the measure in plain, easily understood language" was improper. Jordan v. Murray, 171 M 29, 554 P2d 749 (1976).

Revisions of Attorney General's Summary: Section 37-106, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), gave the Attorney General the authority to revise his summary of a proposed initiative. Jordan v. Murray, 171 M 29, 554 P2d 749 (1976).

2007 Amendment: Chapter 481 throughout petition form in seven places substituted "initiative" for "measure"; in (2) in second sentence after "signature" inserted "date"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 11, 2007.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 323 in (1)(a) substituted "one-half of the counties" for "34 legislative representative districts"; and in (2) substituted "county of residence, and printed last name and first and middle initials of the signer" for "legislative representative district number, and printed last name of the signer". Amendment effective July 1, 2003.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 537 in (1)(e) after "address" inserted "or telephone number"; in (2) in second sentence after "signature" substituted "residence address" for "post-office address" and inserted third and fourth sentences allowing the signer to provide the signer's post-office address or home telephone number in place of a residence address and providing that an address provided on a petition by the signer that differs from the signer's address as shown on the signer's voter registration card may not be used as the only means to disqualify the signature of that petition signer; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 51 in (1)(b) after "measure on the ....." substituted "20..." for "19..."; in (1)(e) near middle after "voter" substituted "registration" for "registry"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2000.

1981 Amendment: Inserted (1)(a) referring to number of signatures needed; inserted (1)(b) referring to title of measure and statement of implication; inserted (1)(c) urging voters to read measure and explaining that signature is only to put measure on ballot; inserted (1)(e) requiring signature to be same as on voter registry card; changed "a qualified elector of the state" to "a legally registered Montana voter"; deleted "or imprisonment in the state prison for a term not to exceed 10 years"; and made changes in phraseology in (1)(d); deleted language relating to form for petition for initiative.

Judicial Decision Invalidating Constitutional Amendments — Constitutional Language and Statutory Implementation Language Restored: In 2002, Montana voters approved Constitutional Amendment Nos. 37 and 38, along with statutory implementing provisions, to modify county distribution requirements for signatures to qualify an initiative petition for the ballot. In Mont. PIRG v. Johnson, CV 03-183-M-DWM (D.C. Mont. 2005), a federal District Court held that the amended distribution requirements resulted in an unequal treatment of qualified electors in different counties and were unconstitutional on their face and invalid. The Attorney General cited State ex rel. Woodahl v. District Court, 162 M 283, 511 P2d 318 (1973), in concluding that the nullification of the constitutional amendments by the judicial decision invalidating the county distribution requirements restored the language of the constitution and implementing statutes as they existed before the approval of the invalid amendments. 51 A.G. Op. 2 (2005).

1981 Amendments — Composite: Pursuant to sec. 7, Ch. 198, L. 1981, inserted language allowing the court to fine the offender a maximum of $50,000 in lieu of imprisonment or to punish the offender by both a fine and imprisonment.

Chapter 488 inserted (1)(a) referring to number of signatures needed; inserted (1)(b) referring to title of referendum and statement of implication; inserted (1)(c) urging voters to read measure and explaining that signature is only to put measure on ballot; inserted (1)(e) requiring signature to be same as on voter registry card; in (1)(d) changed "a qualified elector of the state" to "a legally registered Montana voter"; deleted "or imprisonment in the state prison for a term not to exceed 10 years", and made changes in phraseology; deleted language relating to the form for petition for referendum.

In preparing the composite for this section, the Code Commissioner did not include the language relating to a $50,000 fine as indicated by Ch. 198 because the apparent intent of Ch. 198, sec. 7(3) and (4), was to provide for a fine of $50,000 only where a felony prison term was provided for and Ch. 488 removed the felony prison term of 10 years.

Case Notes

Constitutional Referendum Void — Separate Vote Requirement — Substantive Changes Not Closely Related: The separate vote requirement for constitutional initiatives prohibits a proposal that makes two or more changes to the Montana Constitution that are substantive and not closely related. Furthermore, if a proposed constitutional amendment adds new matter to the Constitution, that proposition is at least one change in and of itself. Modifying an existing constitutional provision is considered at least one change, whether that effect is express or implicit. Although the text of CI-116, also known as "Marsy's Law", was contained in a new section, the constitutional initiative implicitly modified Art. II, secs. 2(3), 9, 10, 17, 20, 21, and 24. Because these changes were substantive and not closely related, CI-116 violated the separate-vote requirement, and it was void in its entirety. Mont. Ass'n of Counties v. St., 2017 MT 267, 389 Mont. 183, 404 P.3d 733.

Single-Subject Requirement — Inapplicable to Constitutional Initiatives: The single-subject requirement of Art. V, sec. 11(3), Mont. Const., does not apply to constitutional amendments proposed by initiative. Mont. Ass'n of Counties v. St., 2017 MT 267, 389 Mont. 183, 404 P.3d 733.

Severance of Constitutional Amendment Language Not Curative of Defect When Initiative Improperly Submitted to Voters: Constitutional Initiative No. 75 (CI-75) expressly amended three parts of the Montana Constitution without allowing a separate vote on each amendment and thus was unconstitutional under Art. XIV, sec. 11, Mont. Const. Language in the initiative that would have severed the invalid parts from the valid parts could not cure the constitutional defect in CI-75 because the defect was in the submission of CI-75 to voters with more than one constitutional amendment. Marshall v. St., 1999 MT 33, 293 M 274, 975 P2d 325, 56 St. Rep. 142 (1999).

Submission of Constitutional Initiative Amending Three Parts of Constitution Violative of Separate Vote Requirement: Plaintiffs filed an original application for declaration of judgment and injunctive relief, challenging the validity of Constitutional Initiative No. 75 (CI-75), which was passed by the voters and stated that no new tax or tax increase could be enacted unless approved by a majority of the electorate. The initiative amended Art. VIII, Mont. Const., revising state revenue and finance provisions; amended Art. II, sec. 18, Mont. Const., providing that sovereign immunity did not shield public officials or employees from appropriate civil liability for violating CI-75; and provided that notwithstanding the referendum provisions of Art. VI, sec. 10, Mont. Const., before a bill imposing new or increased taxes is referred to the people, the Governor had veto power. The dispositive issue was that CI-75 had two or more constitutional amendments, in violation of Art. XIV, sec. 11, Mont. Const., which is a cogent constitutional recognition of the circumstances under which Montana voters receive constitutional initiatives, namely that a separate vote is required for each proposed constitutional amendment. Citing Armatta v. Kitzhaber, 959 P2d 49 (Oreg. 1998), the Supreme Court held that the separate vote requirement is distinguishable as different and narrower than the single subject requirement in Art. V, sec. 11, Mont. Const., and that to the extent that a constitutional amendment may be valid under the single subject rule but fail under the separate vote rule, holdings to the contrary in State ex rel. Teague v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 34 M 426, 87 P 450 (1906), State ex rel. Hay v. Alderson, 49 M 387, 142 P 210 (1914), and State ex rel. Corry v. Cooney, 70 M 355, 225 P 1007 (1924), were overruled. Because CI-75 expressly amended three parts of the Montana Constitution without allowing a separate vote on each amendment, CI-75 was unconstitutional under Art. XIV, sec. 11, Mont. Const. Marshall v. St., 1999 MT 33, 293 M 274, 975 P2d 325, 56 St. Rep. 142 (1999), following State ex rel. Hinz v. Moody, 71 M 473, 230 P 575 (1924), and Sawyer Stores, Inc. v. Mitchell, 103 M 148, 62 P2d 342 (1936). However, see Mont. Ass'n of Counties v. St., 2017 MT 267, 389 Mont. 183, 404 P.3d 733, clarifying that the single-subject requirement does not apply to constitutional initiatives.

Initiative Amendment Void — Material Language Difference — Improper Publication Procedures: The language of an amendment to Art. II, sec. 16, Mont. Const., as filed and certified by the Secretary of State, was not the same language submitted to the voters at the election. Because the difference in language was material and because publication of the proposed initiative prior to election did not follow constitutional mandates, the purported amendment was held to be void. Attorney General's Opinions

Judicial Decision Invalidating Constitutional Amendments — Constitutional Language and Statutory Implementation Language Restored: In 2002, Montana voters approved Constitutional Amendment Nos. 37 and 38, along with statutory implementing provisions, to modify county distribution requirements for signatures to qualify an initiative petition for the ballot. In Mont. PIRG v. Johnson, CV 03-183-M-DWM (D.C. Mont. 2005), a federal District Court held that the amended distribution requirements resulted in an unequal treatment of qualified electors in different counties and were unconstitutional on their face and invalid. The Attorney General cited State ex rel. Woodahl v. District Court, 162 M 283, 511 P2d 318 (1973), in concluding that the nullification of the constitutional amendments by the judicial decision invalidating the county distribution requirements restored the language of the constitution and implementing statutes as they existed before the approval of the invalid amendments. 51 A.G. Op. 2 (2005).

Address on Petition Different From That on Voter Registry Card: A signature of a properly registered voter on a petition for a ballot measure should not be disqualified if the address on the petition is not the same as the address on the voter registry card. 39 A.G. Op. 50 (1982).

2001 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 396 at end of last sentence substituted "a fee, which must be set and deposited in accordance with 2-15-405" for "a fee sufficient to reimburse the secretary of state for the cost of providing copies of the petition and signature sheets to each county election administrator". Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Chapter 537 at beginning of first sentence substituted "Upon final approval" for "When the secretary of state sends written notice of the final approval". Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 191 in first sentence after "notice" substituted "of the final approval of a petition" for "of the approval of the form of a petition"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 1999.

Part 3
Submission and Processing of Petitions

Part Case Notes

Denial of Request for Supreme Court to Exercise Original Jurisdiction to Enjoin Initiative — Examination of Constitutionality When and If Initiative Passes: The plaintiffs challenged the constitutionality of an initiative by filing a petition for declaratory relief and seeking an injunction to prevent the Secretary of State from certifying the initiative. The Supreme Court denied the petition without prejudice, concluding that the court lacked authority to determine the constitutionality of the initiative's provisions until, and if, the initiative passed. Mont. AFL-CIO v. McCulloch, 2016 MT 200, 384 Mont. 331, 380 P.3d 728.

Summary Ballot Statements Legally Sufficient: In an original proceeding challenging the legal sufficiency of a proposed ballot measure that sought to prohibit enforcement of the federal Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (ACA) in Montana, petitioners argued that the ballot statements approved by the Attorney General were insufficient because the statements failed to explain to voters the substantive provisions of the ACA that would be void if the measure passed and failed to explain the far-reaching consequences that the measure would have on existing Montana programs. The Supreme Court denied the petitioners' challenge, concluding that the Attorney General's statement mentioned the topics that the petitioners claimed would be affected by the measure, thereby capturing the purpose, implication, and fiscal impacts in a summary fashion and sufficiently informing voters of the implications of a vote for or against the measure. Hoffman v. St., 2014 MT 90, 374 Mont. 405, 328 P.3d 604.

Attorney General Review of Ballot Initiative — No Power to Review Substantive Legality: The Attorney General's review of a ballot initiative for legal sufficiency is limited to determining whether the initiative complies with requirements governing the submission of the proposed issue to voters and does not include consideration of the substantive legality of the initiative if it were approved by voters. Montanans Opposed to I-166 v. St., 2012 MT 168, 365 Mont. 520, 285 P.3d 435, followed in Hoffman v. St., 2014 MT 90, 374 Mont. 405, 328 P.3d 604.

Specific Intent to Place Referendum on Primary Ballot as Overriding General Filing Time Provisions: Petitioners argued that because a legislative referendum was passed less than 6 months before the special election at which it was, by order of the Legislature, to be placed on the ballot and because the referendum was therefore necessarily submitted to the Attorney General less than the 6 months before the election required by subsection (2) of 13-27-310 (now repealed), it should be removed from the ballot as violative of the time constraints in subsection (2) of 13-27-310 (now repealed). However, the statement of particular intent in the referendum that the measure appear on the special election ballot controlled over the statement of general intent in 13-27-310 (now repealed), and a petition for a writ of injunction preventing placement of the measure on the ballot was therefore denied. State ex rel. Gould v. Cooney, 253 M 90, 831 P2d 593, 49 St. Rep. 410 (1992).

Petitions Once Lodged With Clerk Not Returnable: Under section 37-103, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), after referendum petitions had been lodged with the County Clerk they could not be returned by him to the persons delivering them, since he was required to forward them, with certificate attached, to the Secretary of State. State ex rel. Holloran v. McGrath, 104 M 490, 67 P2d 838 (1937).

Referendum Petitions Open to Inspection by Public: Irrespective of whether or not referendum petitions constitute public records and as such are open to inspection, they are "other matters" within the meaning of 2-6-104 (now repealed), which declares that "public records and other matters in the office of any officer" are open to the inspection of any person during office hours. Therefore, mandamus is proper to compel the County Clerk to permit inspection. State ex rel. Holloran v. McGrath, 104 M 490, 67 P2d 838 (1937).

2003 Amendment: Chapter 323 in text of affidavit sample near beginning substituted "person who is the signature gatherer), swear that I gathered or assisted in gathering the signatures on the petition to which this affidavit is attached on the stated dates" for "person who circulated this petition), swear that I circulated or assisted in circulating the petition to which this affidavit is attached", inserted provision for date first signature was gathered, and in both places under signature lines substituted "signature gatherer" for "circulator"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2003.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 537 in affidavit form near end of paragraph after "registered at the address" inserted "or have the telephone number"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 51 near beginning of petition form after "petition)" substituted "swear" for "affirm, or being first sworn, depose and say" and near end after "day of ....." substituted "20..." for "19..."; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2000.

1981 Amendment: Inserted "are the signatures of Montana electors who are registered at the address following their signature" near the middle of the affirmation; inserted "address of petition circulator" following affirmation; made minor changes in phraseology.

Case Notes

Signature Gathering Process Permeated by Pervasive and General Pattern and Practice of Fraud and Procedural Noncompliance — Votes for Ballot Issues Not to Be Counted: The District Court held that signature gatherers for three ballot measures engaged in a pervasive and general pattern and practice of fraud and procedural noncompliance. On appeal, the Supreme Court found that: (1) signature gatherers executed affidavits submitting signatures that were gathered outside the signature gatherers' presence in violation of 13-27-111 and this section; (2) 43 signature gatherers gave false or fictitious addresses in their certification affidavits in violation of 13-27-111 and this section; and (3) a significantly large number of signature gatherers engaged in a fraudulent bait-and-switch tactic to induce people who knowingly signed one petition to unknowingly sign the other two petitions. Once opponents established the deceptive practices, it was the proponents' burden to produce evidence to the contrary, but the proponents failed to do so. The District Court was affirmed, and because the signatures gathered in violation of the procedural safeguards tainted the initiative process, the Supreme Court ordered that votes on the ballot measures not be counted to the extent that was technically feasible or, if the votes were counted, that the votes would have no force or effect. Montanans for Justice: Vote No on CI-98 v. St., 2006 MT 277, 334 M 237, 146 P3d 759 (2006).

Challenging Qualifications of Signers: Section 37-103, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), did not purport to make the County Clerk's certificate conclusive. Therefore, the qualifications of persons signing the petition could be inquired into by the courts if the question was presented before the election. Martin v. Highway Comm'n, 107 M 603, 88 P2d 41 (1939).

Manner of Withdrawal of Signatures: Certification of petitions for the withdrawal of signatures appearing on petitions for initiation of a measure, in the form prescribed by section 37-103, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), for certification of original petitions, was prima facie sufficient to show qualification and genuineness of signatures. Ford v. Mitchell, 103 M 99, 61 P2d 815 (1936).

Case Notes

Address on Petition for Identification Purposes Only: The only purpose of the address on a petition for a proposed initiative is to aid the Clerk and Recorder in the identification of the signer for certification of the signature. State ex. rel. Miller v. Murray, 183 M 499, 600 P2d 1174 (1979).

No Mandamus to Certify Signatures: A Writ of Mandate may not be issued to control discretion, absent an abuse thereof. The function of the County Clerk and Recorder in deciding if signatures on a petition for a ballot issue are "signed in substantially the same manner" as the signatures on the voter registry cards involves the exercise of discretion. Therefore, the District Court properly refused to issue a Writ to compel the certification of certain signatures. State ex rel. Miller v. Murray, 183 M 499, 600 P2d 1174 (1979).

Initiative Amendment Void — Material Language Difference — Improper Publication Procedures: The language of an amendment to Art. II, sec. 16, Mont. Summary of Constitutional Amendment Insufficient: Article XIV, sec. 9, Mont. Const., requires "the amendment" in a constitutional initiative to be published as provided by law. The provision in 13-27-311 that "[a] summary of the amendment" would suffice itself constitutes an amendment to the constitution insofar as initiatives are concerned and should not be allowed. Any initiative amendment adopted in this statutory manner is void. State ex rel. Mont. Citizens [ ] AGAINST extending the right to vote to persons 18 years of age". Amendment effective January 1, 2013.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 481 in (1) near beginning after "receipt of a" substituted "proposed ballot issue and statements" for "petition", near middle after "examine the" substituted "proposed issue for" for "petition as to form", and after "provided in" substituted "this section and shall determine whether the ballot statements comply with the requirements of this section" for "13-27-202, and, if the proposed ballot issue has an effect on the revenue, expenditures, or the fiscal liability of the state, shall order a fiscal note incorporating an estimate of the effect, the substance of which must substantially comply with the provisions of 5-4-205. The budget director, in cooperation with the agency or agencies affected by the petition, is responsible for preparing the fiscal note and shall return it within 6 days unless the attorney general, for good cause shown, extends the time for completing the fiscal note"; in (2) in introductory clause at beginning of first sentence deleted "If the petition form is approved" and after "shall" inserted "in reviewing the ballot statements" and inserted second sentence requiring attorney general review; in (2)(a) after "purpose of the" and in (2)(b) at end substituted "issue" for "measure"; in (3) inserted first two sentences regarding preparation of a fiscal note and at beginning of third sentence inserted "If the fiscal note indicates a fiscal impact", near middle after "50 words" deleted "if a fiscal note was prepared for the proposed ballot issue", and near end after "if the" substituted "issue" for "measure"; in (4) at beginning after "The" substituted "ballot statements" for "statement of purpose and the statements of implication" and at end substituted "issue" for "measure" and deleted former second sentence that read: "Statements of implication must be written so that a positive vote indicates support for the measure and a negative vote indicates opposition to the measure"; in (5) in two places substituted "issue" for "measure"; in (6) near beginning after "must be" inserted "written so that a positive vote indicates support for the issue and a negative vote indicates opposition to the issue and must be"; deleted former (7) that read: "(7) If the petition is rejected as to form, the attorney general shall forward the comments to the secretary of state within 21 days after receipt of the petition by the attorney general. If the petition is approved as to form, the attorney general shall forward the statement of purpose, the statements of implication, and the fiscal statement, if applicable, to the secretary of state within 21 days after receipt of the petition by the attorney general"; inserted (7) regarding review of the proposed ballot issue for legal sufficiency; in (8)(a) at beginning deleted "If the petition is approved as to form", after "30 days" substituted "after receipt of the proposed issue from the secretary of state" for "of the approval", and at end after "state" substituted "an opinion as to the issue's legal sufficiency" for "the determination regarding legal sufficiency, as provided in 13-27-202"; inserted (8)(b) concerning actions following a determination that a proposed ballot issue is legally sufficient; inserted (8)(c) concerning actions following a determination that a proposed ballot issue is not legally sufficient; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 11, 2007.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 132 in (4) inserted second sentence requiring that statements of implication be written so that a positive vote indicates support and a negative vote indicates opposition; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 191 in first sentence in (1) inserted "legal sufficiency, as provided in 13-27-202"; inserted (8) requiring attorney general to forward to secretary of state within 30 days determination regarding legal sufficiency if petition form is approved; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 1999.

Applicability: Section 5, Ch. 191, L. 1999, provided: "[This act] applies to initiative petitions submitted to the secretary of state after October 1, 1999."

1991 Amendment: In (2), in second sentence, substituted "shall prepare" for reference to appointment by Attorney General of a five-member committee to recommend the statement of purpose and statement of implication; deleted former (2) that read: "(2) The attorney general may accept, reject, or modify the statements recommended by the committee. If the committee is unable to recommend one or both statements, the attorney general shall prepare the statements"; in (5), after "purpose", deleted "prepared pursuant to subsection (1) or (2)"; in (6), near beginning after "similar to", inserted "but not limited to"; in (7), in first sentence, increased from 10 days to 21 days the time allowed Attorney General to forward comments if a petition is rejected; and made minor change in style.

1985 Amendment: Deleted brackets around entire (3); bracketed subsection was amendatory language in Ch. 336, L. 1981, to former subsection (2) which was deleted by Ch. 488, L. 1981. The Code Commissioner had included the language in brackets in 1981 because it appeared to reflect a separable concept not in conflict with Ch. 488 and the apparent intent was to incorporate the concept into the law.

1981 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 336 inserted the material relating to fiscal liability and a fiscal note after "petition as to form" in the first sentence through "completing the fiscal note" in the second sentence in (1); inserted subsection (3) referring to fiscal statement; and inserted "and the fiscal statement if applicable" after "implication" in (7).

Chapter 488 rewrote subsection (1), adding subsections (1)(a) and (1)(b) to change a requirement that attorney general prepare a statement explaining the purpose of the measure and a separate requirement that he prepare a statement of the implication of a vote for or against a ballot issue to a requirement that the attorney general "seek out parties on both sides of the issue and obtain their advice" and ", if he deems it necessary, appoint a five member committee to recommend the statements" and inserted provisions relating to committee composition and manner of arriving at statements and requisites for statements in (1); inserted (2) allowing attorney general to accept, reject, or modify statements or to prepare statements in certain cases; and inserted (4) requiring statements of purpose and implication to be true and unbiased.

In preparation of the composite of the Ch. 336 and Ch. 488 amendments to this section, the Code Commissioner omitted from the composite the Ch. 336 amendment to former subsection (2) which raised the restriction in the number of words allowable in a statement of implication prepared by the attorney general from 25 to 50 words because former subsection (2) was entirely deleted by Ch. 488, which is in the nature of a repealer (see 1-2-204) and the increase directly conflicts with the new language of subsection (1)(b), which was added by Ch. 488, specifically designating the number of words allowable. Any inconsistency between the official enrolled bill and the MCA is to be resolved in favor of the official enrolled bill (see 1-11-103).

Summary Ballot Statements Legally Sufficient: In an original proceeding challenging the legal sufficiency of a proposed ballot measure that sought to prohibit enforcement of the federal Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (ACA) in Montana, petitioners argued that the ballot statements approved by the Attorney General were insufficient because the statements failed to explain to voters the substantive provisions of the ACA that would be void if the measure passed and failed to explain the far-reaching consequences that the measure would have on existing Montana programs. The Supreme Court denied the petitioners' challenge, concluding that the Attorney General's statement mentioned the topics that the petitioners claimed would be affected by the measure, thereby capturing the purpose, implication, and fiscal impacts in a summary fashion and sufficiently informing voters of the implications of a vote for or against the measure. Hoffman v. St., 2014 MT 90, 374 Mont. 405, 328 P.3d 604.

Attorney General Review of Ballot Initiative — No Power to Review Substantive Legality: The Attorney General's review of a ballot initiative for legal sufficiency is limited to determining whether the initiative complies with requirements governing the submission of the proposed issue to voters and does not include consideration of the substantive legality of the initiative if it were approved by voters. Montanans Opposed to I-166 v. St., 2012 MT 168, 365 Mont. 520, 285 P.3d 435, followed in Hoffman v. St., 2014 MT 90, 374 Mont. 405, 328 P.3d 604.

Supreme Court Without Authority to Modify Text of Initiative Measure — Authority of Court to Modify Ballot Statements — Attorney General's Fiscal Statement Held Sufficient — No Prejudice Shown: Harrington brought an original proceeding in the Montana Supreme Court challenging the Attorney General's statements of purpose and implication because those statements did not contain references to "consumer loan licensees", as did the text of the initiated measure. The Supreme Court held that under 13-27-316 the court had no authority to modify the text of the initiative but that under 13-27-316(3)(c)(ii) the court could reform the ballot statements to include the phrase "consumer loan licensees" and certify those statements to the Secretary of State. Harrington also objected to the content of the fiscal statement prepared by the Attorney General and objected to the fact that the Attorney General had apparently not consulted with the Department of Revenue in preparing the statement. The Supreme Court found the fiscal note sufficient because the statute did not specify the content of the note and because the Attorney General had consulted with the Division of Banking and Finance of the Department of Administration in preparing the note. The court also pointed out that Harrington failed to point out any language in the statement of implication or the fiscal statement that prejudiced him. Mont. Consumer Fin. Ass'n v. St., 2010 MT 185, 357 Mont. 237, 238 P.3d 765.

Attorney General Statements on Initiative Considered True and Impartial — Judicial Deference to Statements That Meet Statutory Requirements: Plaintiffs challenged the Attorney General's statements of purpose and implication on a ballot initiative that concerned the recall of elected justices and judges when voters determined that appropriate cause existed. The District Court held that the Attorney General's statements satisfied statutory requirements, and plaintiffs appealed, requesting the Supreme Court to rewrite the ballot statements. The Supreme Court applied the standard in Stop Over Spending Mont. v. St., 2006 MT 178, 333 M 42, 139 P3d 788 (2006), that courts will defer to Attorney General statements on ballot initiatives provided the statements meet statutory requirements, noting that this section does not grant proponents or opponents the right to a ballot statement of their choosing. Rather, a statement that explains the ballot measure in ordinary plain language and that is true and impartial and not argumentative or likely to create prejudice for or against the measure is in compliance with the statute. In this case, the statement of purpose was true, and the Attorney General's decision to omit what plaintiffs characterized as salient provisions from the statement of purpose did not prevent voters from casting an intelligent and informed ballot. The Attorney General's statement of implication was true, impartial, and a plainly written explanation of a vote for and against the initiative. Thus, the Supreme Court declined to rewrite the Attorney General's statements and affirmed the District Court. Citizens Right to Recall v. St., 2006 MT 192, 333 M 153, 142 P3d 764 (2006), followed in Mont. Consumer Fin. Ass'n v. St., 2010 MT 185, 357 Mont. 237, 238 P.3d 765. See also State ex rel. Wenzel v. Murray, 178 M 441, 585 P2d 633 (1978).

District Court's Rewriting of Attorney General's Statements Explaining Initiative Proposal Reversed When Statements Accurate: Plaintiff group sought an initiative petition to include an additional constitutional limit on legislative appropriations to an amount to be determined by applying a formula based on population growth and inflation unless an increase was approved by the electorate. As required, the Attorney General prepared statements explaining the purpose of the measure, the implications of a vote for and against the measure, and a fiscal statement. Plaintiffs were dissatisfied with the statements and filed a complaint. The District Court determined that all the statements were inaccurate, rewrote the statements, and ordered that the court's statements rather than the Attorney General's be placed on the ballot should the measure qualify. The Attorney General appealed, and the Supreme Court reversed. Employing the rules of construction developed under State ex rel. Wenzel v. Murray, 178 M 441, 585 P2d 633 (1978), the Supreme Court held that the District Court was incorrect in determining that the statement of purpose was inaccurate and omitted salient provisions of the measure. It is not the job of a court to add to the requirements of this section that to be accurate, a statement of the purpose of an initiative must include a description of how it can be enforced or a statement of when it will become effective. Without engaging in a comparison of the statements, the Supreme Court held that the Attorney General's statement of purpose was adequate to meet the statutory requirements to provide a true and impartial explanation of the proposed ballot issue in plain, easily understood language. Likewise, the statement of implication and the fiscal statement were adequate, if not perfect, satisfied statutory requirements, and were not confusing or misleading, and the Supreme Court ordered that the issue be placed on the ballot containing the statements prepared by the Attorney General. Stop Over Spending Mont. v. St., 2006 MT 178, 333 M 42, 139 P3d 788 (2006).

Sufficiency of Title of 1988 Welfare Referendum — Applicable Standard: The title of a referendum "allowing the legislature greater discretion to determine the eligibility, duration, and level of economic assistance and social services to those in need" was found by the Supreme Court to be legally sufficient after applying the constitutional requirement of clarity of title set out in Art. V, sec. 11, Mont. Const., and employing the rules of construction developed under State ex rel. Wenzel v. Murray, 178 M 441, 585 P2d 633 (1978), and St. v. McKinney, 29 M 375, 74 P 1095 (1904). The court refused to intervene to remove the referendum from the ballot prior to a vote of the people so as not to violate the constitutional rights of popular sovereignty and self-government. Recognizing important distinctions between the processes of referendum and initiative, the standard applied to the referendum was the same applied to examination of the title of other products of the Legislature. The court affirmed the District Court finding of no statutory authority for preelection nullification of a legislative referendum and noted a strong presumption in favor of the constitutionality of legislative enactments. The ballot language was not purposely misleading and sufficiently identified the measure to provide for an informed vote. Harper v. Greely, 234 M 259, 763 P2d 650, 45 St. Rep. 1889 (1988), distinguishing State ex rel. Steen v. Murray, 144 M 61, 394 P2d 761 (1964), and State ex rel. Harper v. Waltermire, 213 M 425, 691 P2d 826, 41 St. Rep. 2212 (1984). See also State ex rel. Boese v. Waltermire, 224 M 230, 730 P2d 375, 43 St. Rep. 2156 (1986), and T&W Chevrolet v. Darvial, 196 M 287, 641 P2d 1368 (1982).

Initiative Amending Montana Major Facility Siting Act: The Attorney General's explanatory statement regarding Initiative 80, empowering voters to approve or reject any proposed nuclear power facility, did not have to contain the word "ban" or a word of like import. State ex rel. Wenzel v. Murray, 178 M 441, 585 P2d 633 (1978).

Misleading Summary of Proposed Initiative: Under section 32-104.1, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), an Attorney General's summary of a proposed initiative which could mislead the voters because it is not a "true and impartial statement of the purpose of the measure in plain, easily understood language" is improper. Jordan v. Murray, 171 M 29, 554 P2d 749 (1976).

Revisions of Attorney General's Summary: Section 37-106, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), gave the Attorney General the authority to revise his summary of a proposed initiative. Jordan v. Murray, 171 M 29, 554 P2d 749 (1976).

Length of Title: Although section 37-105, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), limited the title of an act referred to the people to 100 words, the fact that Ch. 168, L. 1939, contained 138 words, a point not raised until after the people had approved the act, was merely a procedural defect and as such insufficient to invalidate it, particularly so in view of Ch. 45, L. 1941, validating all bond issues theretofore authorized, thus including the issue for erection of buildings at the State Hospital for the Insane. Nordquist v. Ford, 112 M 278, 114 P2d 1071 (1941).

Legal Requirements Mandatory — Injunction: The law prescribes the necessary steps for submission of an initiative measure to the voters. Such steps are mandatory and must be followed. Under section 37-105, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), which required the title to be "descriptive", the title attached to the proposed Initiative Measure No. 39, the "chain store law", under the facts presented was not "descriptive" but deceptive for various reasons. The Supreme Court had jurisdiction to entertain proceeding to enjoin the Secretary of State from certifying the measure to the County Clerks, and a Writ of Injunction was issued. Sawyer Stores, Inc. v. Mitchell, 103 M 148, 62 P2d 342 (1936).

2011 Amendment: Chapter 372 near beginning substituted "a ballot issue" for "an issue", near middle after "may not prepare" substituted "a statement of purpose and implication" for "statements of implication"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2013.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 481 near beginning after "receipt of" substituted "an issue referred by the legislature from the secretary of state pursuant to 13-27-209" for "a copy of a ballot form under 13-27-310(2) for an issue proposed by the legislature" and after "shall" substituted "prepare and forward to the secretary of state, within 30 days, ballot statements as provided in 13-27-312, except that the attorney general may not prepare statements of implication of a vote for or against a ballot issue if the statements have been provided by the legislature" for "order a fiscal note as provided in 13-27-312(1) if the issue has an effect on the revenues, expenditures, or the fiscal liability of the state" and deleted former second sentence that read: "At the same time the explanatory statement is prepared under subsection (2), the attorney general shall prepare a fiscal statement of no more than 50 words to be forwarded to the secretary of state at the same time as the explanatory statement"; deleted former (2) that read: "(2) At the same time the attorney general, pursuant to 13-27-313, informs the secretary of state of the approval or rejection of a ballot form for an issue proposed by the legislature, the attorney general shall forward to the secretary of state a statement, not exceeding 100 words, expressing a true and impartial explanation of the purpose of the measure in plain, easily understood language. The statement may not be an argument and may not be written to create a prejudice for or against the issue. The statement prepared under this section is known as the attorney general's explanatory statement"; deleted former (3) that read: "(3) If statements of the implication of a vote for or against a ballot issue have not been provided by the legislature, the attorney general shall prepare the statements. Requirements for statements of implication for ballot issues referred by the legislature are the same as those provided in 13-27-312 for other ballot issues. Statements of implication prepared by the attorney general must be returned to the secretary of state no later than the time specified for approval of the ballot form"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 11, 2007.

1981 Amendment: Inserted "or the fiscal statement" after "statements of implication of a vote" in (1) and (2).

Case Notes

Referendum Title Unnecessarily Redundant but Legally Sufficient — Clarification in Ballot Statement Required: MEA-MFT challenged the title of a legislative referendum that ended same-day voter registration, claiming it was inaccurate and misleading. The title of the referendum "ensur[ed] compliance with the National Voter Registration Act", and a provision was placed in the bill referencing the federal law, although Montana was already compliant with the federal Act. MEA-MFT argued that the title's reference to the National Voter Registration Act (NVRA) misled voters by suggesting that ending same-day voter registration was required by the Act. The Supreme Court found that although the reference to NVRA compliance was unnecessary, the superfluous language did not make it void. Nevertheless, the court found that the stand-alone title could lead to voter confusion and ordered the Attorney General to revise the ballot statement to make it clear that the NVRA did not require elimination of same-day voter registration. MEA-MFT v. St., 2014 MT 33, 374 Mont. 1, 318 P.3d 702.

Supreme Court Without Authority to Modify Text of Initiative Measure — Authority of Court to Modify Ballot Statements — Attorney General's Fiscal Statement Held Sufficient — No Prejudice Shown: Harrington brought an original proceeding in the Montana Supreme Court challenging the Attorney General's statements of purpose and implication because those statements did not contain references to "consumer loan licensees", as did the text of the initiated measure. The Supreme Court held that under 13-27-316 the court had no authority to modify the text of the initiative but that under 13-27-316(3)(c)(ii) the court could reform the ballot statements to include the phrase "consumer loan licensees" and certify those statements to the Secretary of State. Harrington also objected to the content of the fiscal statement prepared by the Attorney General and objected to the fact that the Attorney General had apparently not consulted with the Department of Revenue in preparing the statement. The Supreme Court found the fiscal note sufficient because the statute did not specify the content of the note and because the Attorney General had consulted with the Division of Banking and Finance of the Department of Administration in preparing the note. The court also pointed out that Harrington failed to point out any language in the statement of implication or the fiscal statement that prejudiced him. Mont. Consumer Fin. Ass'n v. St., 2010 MT 185, 357 Mont. 237, 238 P.3d 765.

Attorney General Statements on Initiative Considered True and Impartial — Judicial Deference to Statements That Meet Statutory Requirements: Plaintiffs challenged the Attorney General's statements of purpose and implication on a ballot initiative that concerned the recall of elected justices and judges when voters determined that appropriate cause existed. The District Court held that the Attorney General's statements satisfied statutory requirements, and plaintiffs appealed, requesting the Supreme Court to rewrite the ballot statements. The Supreme Court applied the standard in Stop Over Spending Mont. v. St., 2006 MT 178, 333 M 42, 139 P3d 788 (2006), that courts will defer to Attorney General statements on ballot initiatives provided the statements meet statutory requirements, noting that 13-27-312 does not grant proponents or opponents the right to a ballot statement of their choosing. Rather, a statement that explains the ballot measure in ordinary plain language and that is true and impartial and not argumentative or likely to create prejudice for or against the measure is in compliance with the statute. In this case, the statement of purpose was true, and the Attorney General's decision to omit what plaintiffs characterized as salient provisions from the statement of purpose did not prevent voters from casting an intelligent and informed ballot. The Attorney General's statement of implication was true, impartial, and a plainly written explanation of a vote for and against the initiative. Thus, the Supreme Court declined to rewrite the Attorney General's statements and affirmed the District Court. Citizens Right to Recall v. St., 2006 MT 192, 333 M 153, 142 P3d 764 (2006), followed in Mont. Consumer Fin. Ass'n v. St., 2010 MT 185, 357 Mont. 237, 238 P.3d 765. See also State ex rel. Wenzel v. Murray, 178 M 441, 585 P2d 633 (1978).

Extent of Court Consideration of Constitutional Amendment Initiative: Unless it appears to be absolutely essential, the Supreme Court will not interfere with the right retained by the people to change the Montana Constitution by initiative, and an initiative will not be removed from the ballot prior to vote unless it is clearly unconstitutional on its face or has been improperly submitted. The court will not accept jurisdiction to decide if the statement of purpose and statement of implication are untrue unless the challenge procedure in 13-27-316 is followed. State ex rel. Mont. Citizens for the Preservation of Citizens' Rights v. Waltermire, 224 M 273, 729 P2d 1283, 43 St. Rep. 2192 (1986). See also Stop Over Spending Mont. v. St., 2006 MT 178, 333 M 42, 139 P3d 788 (2006).

Challenged Initiative Title — Reasonableness of Statutory Procedure for Judicial Review: While the 10-day period for filing a challenge to an initiative in District Court is not long, it provides a reasonable procedure for immediate access to the courts by initiative opponents to allow correction of a challenged title in time to allow the initiative to appear on the ballot. State ex rel. Boese v. Waltermire, 224 M 230, 730 P2d 375, 43 St. Rep. 2156 (1986). See also State ex rel. Mont. Citizens for the Preservation of Citizens' Rights v. Waltermire, 224 M 273, 729 P2d 1283, 43 St. Rep. 2192 (1986).

Challenge of Multiplicitous Initiative Subjects — Procedural Review Requirements to Be Met: An opponent who challenges an initiative on the grounds that the title contains more than one subject, in violation of Art. V, sec. 11, Mont. Const., must meet the procedural review requirements of 13-27-316. State ex rel. Boese v. Waltermire, 224 M 230, 730 P2d 375, 43 St. Rep. 2156 (1986). See also State ex rel. Mont. Citizens for the Preservation of Citizens' Rights v. Waltermire, 224 M 273, 729 P2d 1283, 43 St. Rep. 2192 (1986).

Reasonableness of Time Periods: Under 13-27-316(2), certification by the Secretary of State to the Governor of qualification for the ballot triggers the time in which opponents to the measure may act. The opponents have 10 days following certification to file a challenge in District Court. The opponent has the time from the petition's initiation until its certification to prepare the action but is not required to act until it qualifies for the ballot. The statutes then provide for immediate access to the courts. This is a reasonable procedure for challenging the sufficiency of the title of an initiative. St. ex rel. Boese v. Waltermire, 224 M 230, 730 P2d 375, 43 St. Rep. 2156 (1986).

Initiative Amendment Void — Material Language Difference — Improper Publication Procedures: The language of an amendment to Art. II, sec. 16, Mont. 1997 Amendment: Chapter 47 in (1), near end after "later than", substituted "1 week prior to the deadline for filing arguments on the ballot issue under 13-27-406" for "6 months before the election at which the ballot issue will be voted on by the people"; in (2), at end of first sentence, substituted "must be made no later than 1 week before the deadline for filing arguments on the ballot issue under 13-27-406" for "that is approved less than 7 months before the election at which the ballot issue will be voted on by the people shall be made no later than 30 days after the measure is approved for circulation by the secretary of state" and inserted fourth sentence allowing filling of vacancy by unanimous written consent in certain cases; substituted (3) regarding notice provisions for former language that read: "All appointees to a committee pursuant to subsection (1) must be notified by the secretary of state by certified mail, with return receipt requested, no later than 5 days after the deadline set for appointment of committee members, of the deadlines for submission of the committee's arguments"; deleted former (4) and (5) that read: "(4) All appointees to a committee pursuant to subsection (2) must be notified by the secretary of state by certified mail, with return receipt requested, no later than 35 days after the petition has been approved for circulation, of the deadlines for submission of the committee's arguments.

(5) Committees appointed under subsections (2)(b), (4), and (5) of 13-27-402 must be vacated and have no further obligation if the ballot measure for which they were appointed fails to receive sufficient signatures to place it on the ballot. The secretary of state shall notify the committee members of the failure of a ballot measure to receive sufficient signatures no later than 3 days after the filing deadline set in 13-27-104"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 13, 1997.

1991 Amendment: In (1), at beginning, inserted exception clause and after "legislature" inserted "or a ballot measure referred to the people by referendum petition or proposed by any type of initiative petition"; in (2), in first sentence after "initiative petition", inserted "that is approved less than 7 months before the election at which the ballot issue will be voted on by the people"; and made minor changes in style.

1987 Amendment: In (1) increased time to 6 months from 4 months; at end of (1) deleted "All persons responsible for appointing members to such committees shall submit to the secretary of state the names and addresses of three prospective appointees for each position, set forth in the order of preference of appointment, no later than 3 weeks before the deadline for making such appointments"; in first sentence of (2) increased time to 30 days from 10 days, at end of first sentence substituted "approved for circulation by the secretary of state" for "certified to the governor", and at end of second sentence substituted "the appointees no later than the date set by this subsection. Such submission must include the written acceptance of appointment from each appointee required by section 13-27-402(6)" for "two prospective appointees for each position, set forth in the order of preference of appointment, no later than 2 weeks after the final date for filing the petition in accordance with 13-27-301"; near beginning of (3) deleted "prospective" before "appointees"; at end of (3) substituted "no later than 5 days after the deadline set for appointment of committee members, of the deadlines for submission of the committee's arguments" for "at least 15 days before the appointment deadline specified in subsection (1). A prospective appointee may assent or decline to serve on the committee by so informing the secretary of state. Lack of response to the secretary of state for any reason 10 days after mailing of notice is considered to be refusal of appointment"; near beginning of (4) deleted "prospective" before "appointees"; at end of (4) substituted "no later than 35 days after the petition has been approved for circulation, of the deadlines for submission of the committee's arguments" for "at least 8 days before the appointment deadline specified in subsection (2). A prospective appointee may assent or decline to serve on the committee by so informing the secretary of state. Lack of response to the secretary of state for any reason 5 days after mailing of notice is considered to be refusal of appointment"; and substituted (5), providing that committees be vacated if ballot measure fails to receive sufficient signatures to place it on ballot and that Secretary of State notify committee members of such failure, for former language that read: "The secretary of state shall determine which of the prospective appointees assenting to serve on the committee shall be appointed, according to the order of preference specified by the appointing authority, and shall so notify all prospective appointees by the appointment deadline specified in subsection (1) or (2), respectively."

1983 Amendment: In (1), in first sentence after "shall be" changed "filed with the secretary of state" to "made" and inserted second sentence referring to submission of names of proposed appointees to committees advocating approval or rejection of a constitutional amendment an act referred to the people; in (2) in first sentence after "shall be" changed "filed with the secretary of state" to "made" and substituted second sentence, referring submission of names of proposed appointees to committees advocating approval or rejection of a ballot measure referred by referendum or proposed by initiative, for former second sentence which read: "At the same time the certification of the sufficiency of a petition is made to the governor, the secretary of state shall notify all persons responsible for appointing members of committees advocating approval or rejection of the issues of the date by which such appointments must be filed in his office"; and inserted (3) referring notice to and response from appointees to committees advocating approval or rejection of an act referred to people of a constitutional amendment; inserted (4) referring to notice to and response from appointees to committees advocating approval or rejection of ballot measure referred by referendum or proposed by initiative; and inserted (5) referring to Secretary of State's determination of appointments.

(2) To implement the changes provided in [this act], the office of the legislative council, the office of budget and program planning, and the department of administration shall establish all necessary authorizations during the accounting preparation process known as the "turnaround" process, beginning in April or May 1995, to administer the several appropriations made by any means to programs of the legislative branch agencies consolidated under [sections 3 and 4] [5-2-503 and 5-2-504] for fiscal year 1996 or 1997 or the biennium ending June 30, 1997, as appropriations to a single legislative agency while maintaining the specific identification, legislative intent, and purpose for which the appropriations were made. During this transition, the executive director may authenticate documents as required to accomplish the purposes of [this act]. Appropriate changes on the statewide budgeting and accounting system and the payroll, personnel, and position control system must also be made and authorized as required to accomplish the purposes of [this act].

(3) Personnel and property of the environmental quality council are transferred to the legislative services division effective July 1, 1995."

CHAPTER 35
ELECTION AND CAMPAIGN PRACTICES AND CRIMINAL PROVISIONS

Chapter Compiler's Comments

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 414, L. 2003, provided: "WHEREAS, the U.S. Supreme Court in Bush v. Gore, 531 U.S. 98 (2000), found that the lack of uniform procedures for determining voter intent in Florida during the 2000 presidential election led to a violation of the U.S. Constitution's Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment; and

WHEREAS, at the request of the 57th Legislature, the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee devoted much of the 2001-2002 interim to a review of Montana election laws with respect to voting systems and counting processes in light of Bush v. Gore; and

WHEREAS, the interim study found that Montana's statutory provisions relating to ballots, voting systems, and vote counting processes needed to be updated, clarified, and in some instances revised to better define uniform standards and procedures to provide equal protection for votes cast by Montana voters; and

WHEREAS, the Subcommittee on Voting Systems of the State Administration and Veterans' Affairs Interim Committee agreed that statutory changes should be made with an eye on future technology but should also standardize current practices to the greatest extent possible.

THEREFORE, this legislation will enable the Secretary of State to adopt a statewide benchmark performance measure that voting systems must meet before they can be approved for use in the state; allow local election administrators to continue to choose which of the approved voting systems should be used locally; require the Secretary of State to adopt uniform statewide rules regarding ballot form, votes and vote counts, and other operational procedures specific to each voting system and to provide training to local election administrators; and require all counting boards to use the uniform counting procedures specified."

Severability Clause: Section 48, Ch. 334, L. 1977, was a severability clause.

General Provisions

13-35-103. Violations as misdemeanor.

Attorney General's Opinions

Servicepersons — Registration to Vote — Tax Liability: The fact that a member of the military service has registered to vote in Montana is evidence, though not conclusive proof, that he is a Montana resident and is thus not exempt, under the federal Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940, from property and income taxation by Montana. Montana's election law requires one to be a resident of Montana before voting in the state's elections, so a serviceperson who has registered to vote in Montana (thereby claiming to be a resident) may not claim tax exemption under the federal Act without offering convincing evidence that he is in fact not a Montana resident after all. However, to claim he is not in fact a resident after having registered to vote in Montana would subject him to prosecution for the misdemeanor of fraudulent registration. 41 A.G. Op. 2 (1985).

Case Notes

Applicability: This section, prior to its amendment in 1979, did not apply to a case involving violations by election officials. The section only applied to violations by a candidate or political committee. In re Recount of Ravalli County Primary Election, Petition of Thoft, 178 M 272, 583 P2d 430 (1978).

Political Party Selection: This section is permissive in empowering the Court to direct the appropriate political party to select a new candidate if a violation occurs during a primary election. The Court is not required to do so. In re Recount of Ravalli County Primary Election, Petition of Thoft, 178 M 272, 583 P2d 430 (1978).

Case Notes

Initiative Solicitation in School Polling Place Constitutional: Plaintiff was not allowed to gather signatures for an initiative petition on a general election day in a school building used as a polling place. The school district had a general policy prohibiting solicitation of any kind in school buildings. The District Court granted summary judgment to the school district. On appeal, the Supreme Court said that although this section permits some manner of solicitation at polling places on election day, it does not guarantee the right. The court found the initiative process to be within the protection of Montana's counterparts of the first amendment. This does not assure that the process may not be regulated, however. The court, relying on the time, place, and manner regulations on the right to use public places for expressive activity found in Grayned v. City of Rockford, 408 US 104 (1972), and Tinker v. Des Moines School District, 393 US 503 (1969), found that the school district's policy was not narrowly tailored to further its interests in undisrupted school functioning. The policy applied regardless of whether classes were being held and applied to all solicitors, regardless of whether they acted peaceably. Fear of disruption was not sufficient to overcome the right to freedom of expression. The school district's policy was found unconstitutional. Dorn v. Bd. of Trustees, 203 M 136, 661 P2d 426, 40 St. Rep. 348 (1983).

Legislative Intent — Plain Meaning: Plaintiff was not allowed to gather signatures for an initiative petition on a general election day in a school building used as a polling place. The school district had a general policy prohibiting solicitation of any kind in school buildings. Plaintiff contended the policy violated this section by prohibiting solicitation permitted by that section. The Supreme Court held that its function in construing and applying statutes is to effect legislative intent. The primary tool for ascertaining intent is the plain meaning of the words used. The court properly refers to legislative history only when intent cannot be determined from the content of the statute. This section did not necessitate such an inquiry. The court held that it clearly and unambiguously proscribes a manner of solicitation which results in interference with the election process or obstructing access to and from the polls but in no way guarantees access to persons whose solicitation effects no interference or obstruction. The most that can be said is that some manner of solicitation at polling places on election day may be permitted. Dorn v. Bd. of Trustees, 203 M 136, 661 P2d 426, 40 St. Rep. 348 (1983).

Attorney General's Opinions

Gathering Initiative Petition Signatures at Primary Election Polling Places The orderly gathering of initiative petition signatures at primary election polling places that does not interfere with the election process or obstruct voter access to the polling place may not be prohibited. Any interference with the initiative process must be narrowly construed in light of the state constitution's provisions guaranteeing an open initiative process. 39 A.G. Op. 62 (1982).

2013 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 367 in (3)(a) inserted "the following"; and in (3)(a)(ii) substituted "the contrasting votes were made in any of the previous 6 years" for "closely related in time". Amendment effective October 1, 2013.

Chapter 423 in (1) in second sentence substituted "The attribution must contain" for "When"; in (1)(a) at beginning inserted "for election material financed by" and near middle after "campaign finances" deleted "the expenditure, the attribution must be"; in (1)(b) at beginning substituted "for election material financed by" for "In the case of" and near middle after "political committee" deleted "the attribution must be"; inserted (6) and (7) regarding complaints alleging violations of election material requirements and imposing certain duties on the commissioner to enforce election material laws; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2013.

Applicability: Section 3, Ch. 423, L. 2013, provided: "[This act] applies to proceedings begun on or after October 1, 2013."

2003 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 415 in (1) at beginning of first sentence substituted "All" for "Whenever a person makes an expenditure for the purpose of financing", near middle after "bumper sticker" inserted "internet website", and after "conspicuously" substituted "include the attribution "paid for by" followed by" for "state", inserted second sentence requiring the attribution to be the name of the candidate when the expenditure is financed by the candidate, and in third sentence after "name" inserted "of the committee, the name of the committee treasurer" and after "address of the" inserted "committee or the committee"; inserted (3) concerning information required in printed election material; in (4) near beginning after "requirements of" substituted "subsections (1) through (3)" for "subsection (1)" and near end after "commissioner" inserted "of political practices"; in (5) near beginning of introductory clause after "required in" substituted "subsections (1) through (3)" for "subsection (1)", after "upon" substituted "discovery of or notification about" for "discovering", and after "omission, the" inserted "candidate responsible for the material or the"; in (5)(a) after "commissioner" inserted "of political practices" and after "5 days" inserted "of the discovery or notification"; in (5)(b) at end substituted "subsections (1) through (3)" for "subsection (1)"; inserted (5)(c) concerning withdrawal of noncompliant communications; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

Chapter 419 in (1) at beginning of first sentence substituted "All" for "Whenever a person makes an expenditure for the purpose of financing" and near middle after "conspicuously" substituted "include the attribution "paid for by" followed by" for "state", inserted second sentence requiring the attribution to be the name of the candidate when the expenditure is financed by the candidate, and in third sentence after "name" inserted "of the committee, the name of the committee treasurer" and after "address of the" inserted "committee or the committee"; inserted (3) concerning information required in printed election material; in (4) near beginning after "requirements of" substituted "subsections (1) through (3)" for "subsection (1)", after "included, the" inserted "candidate responsible for the material or the", near end after "commissioner" inserted "of political practices", and after "information" substituted "or statement, at the time of" for "prior to"; in (5) near beginning of introductory clause after "required in" substituted "subsections (1) through (3)" for "subsection (1)", after "is" deleted "inadvertently", after "upon" substituted "discovery or notification about" for "discovering", and after "omission, the" inserted "candidate responsible for the material or the"; in (5)(a) after "5 days" substituted "of the discovery or notification" for "and make every reasonable effort to"; in (5)(b) at end after "compliance" deleted "with subsection (1)"; inserted (5)(c) concerning withdrawal of noncompliant communications; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

Style changes were slightly different in the chapters. In each case, the codifier chose appropriate text.

1991 Amendments: Chapter 23 near middle of (1), after "conspicuously state", deleted "the name and address of the printer, if printed commercially, and". Amendment effective February 14, 1991.

Chapter 482 in (1) inserted second sentence requiring statement of party affiliation or inclusion of party symbol; and made minor changes in style.

1987 Amendment: In (2), near middle after "included", deleted "or if necessary information is inadvertently omitted" and at end inserted "prior to its public distribution"; and inserted (3) requiring notification and correction of omissions in information required on election materials.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 59 in (1) at beginning deleted "Except as provided in subsection (4)" and in two places after "candidate" deleted "a ballot issue"; deleted former (1)(b) that read: "(b) For purposes of this section, "corporation" refers to for-profit and nonprofit corporations"; deleted former (4) that read: "(4) The provisions of subsection (1) prohibiting corporate contributions to or expenditures in connection with a ballot issue do not apply to a nonprofit corporation formed for the purpose, among others, of promoting political ideas and that:

(a) does not engage in business activities;

(b) has no shareholders or other affiliated persons who have a private claim on the corporation's assets or earnings;

(c) does not accept foreign or domestic for-profit corporations as members; and

(d) does not accept in the aggregate more than 5% annually of its total revenue from foreign or domestic for-profit corporations"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 5, 2003.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 59, L. 2003, provided: "WHEREAS, in Montana Chamber of Commerce v. Argenbright, 226 F3d 1049 (9th Cir. 2000), the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals held that corporate wealth has not distorted the ballot issue process in Montana and that therefore the first amendment to the United States Constitution does not permit the section 13-35-227, MCA, provision that prohibits a corporation from making a contribution or expenditure in connection with a ballot issue."

1997 Amendment — Rejected: The amendments made by Ch. 294, L. 1997 (House Bill No. 575), were removed from this section because House Bill No. 575 was rejected by the electorate in an initiative referendum held November 3, 1998.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 294 at beginning of (1)(a) deleted "Except as provided in subsection (4)" and in two places, after "candidate", deleted "a ballot issue"; deleted former (4) that read: "(4) The provisions of subsection (1) prohibiting corporate contributions to or expenditures in connection with a ballot issue do not apply to a nonprofit corporation formed for the purpose, among others, of promoting political ideas and that:

(a) does not engaged in business activities;

(c) does not accept foreign or domestic for profit corporations as members; and

(d) does not accept in the aggregate more than 5% annually of its total revenue from foreign or domestic for profit corporations"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 17, 1997.

1996 Amendment by Initiative: Initiative No. 125, proposed by initiative petition and approved at the general election held November 8, 1996, at beginning of (1)(a) inserted exception clause, inserted (1)(b) defining corporation, and inserted (4) relating to exempting nonprofit corporations from the prohibition on political contributions under certain circumstances. This amendment was not published in the 1997 Montana Code Annotated because the 1997 Legislature passed Ch. 294, which removed the amendments that had been inserted by Initiative No. 125.

Preamble: The preamble attached to I.M. No. 125 provided: "WHEREAS, corporations are not allowed to directly spend money to influence political candidate campaigns in Montana; and

WHEREAS, corporations are not allowed to directly contribute money to a political party in Montana; and

WHEREAS, the processes of initiative and referendum are a vital part of the political process in Montana; and

WHEREAS, corporations are not restricted in the direct use of corporate funds to support or oppose the adoption or rejection of ballot issues in Montana; and

WHEREAS, corporations are now making direct corporate expenditures of overwhelming amounts of money in Montana initiatives; and

WHEREAS, participation in the political system needs to be kept fair to citizens of normal financial means; and

WHEREAS, limitations on direct corporate contributions work toward that fairness.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF MONTANA:

That the prohibition on the direct use of corporate funds in the Montana political process be expanded to prohibit direct corporate expenditures in support of or in opposition to initiative and referendum ballot issues."

Severability: Section 4, I.M. No. 125, was a severability clause.

Good Faith Defense of Statute by Attorney General When Constitutional Rights Vindicated — Private Attorney General Doctrine Inapplicable: Following the United States Supreme Court's ruling in Citizens United v. F.E.C., 558 US 310, 130 S Ct 876 (2010), the plaintiffs challenged a Montana statute that prohibited campaign contributions from corporations, claiming it violated the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The District Court granted the plaintiffs summary judgment, the Montana Supreme Court reversed, and the United States Supreme Court summarily reversed the Montana Supreme Court. The plaintiffs then sought attorney fees under the private attorney general doctrine. The Montana Supreme Court concluded that the plaintiffs were not entitled to attorney fees because even though the plaintiffs vindicated constitutional rights, the Attorney General defended a statute that was grounded in constitutional principles and his defense of the statute was neither frivolous nor in bad faith. W. Tradition Partnership, Inc. v. Attorney General, 2012 MT 271, 367 Mont. 112, 291 P.3d 545.

Montana Law Prohibiting Corporation From Making Political Contributions Ruled Constitutional Following Citizens United Case — Montana Supreme Court Decision Subsequently Reversed by U.S. Supreme Court: Section 13-35-227 was enacted in 1912 by a citizen's initiative and prohibits a corporation from making a contribution or an expenditure to support or oppose a candidate. After the U.S. Supreme Court issued its ruling in Citizens United v. Federal Election Commission, 558 US 50, 175 L Ed. 2d 753, 130 S Ct 876 (2010), three entities filed a suit against Montana's Attorney General seeking a declaration that 13-35-227 violated their constitutionally protected freedom of speech. The District Court granted the plaintiffs summary judgment, relying on the U.S. Supreme Court's holding in Citizens United that the government may not prohibit independent and indirect corporate expenditures on political speech. The Attorney General appealed, and the Montana Supreme Court reversed the District Court. Specifically, the Montana Supreme Court found that Montana has a compelling interest to prevent corruption and preserve the integrity of elections given Montana's history of corrupt political practices predating the passage of 13-35-227. Moreover, the Montana Supreme Court concluded that the statute was narrowly tailored to meet those objectives. Western Tradition Partnership, Inc. v. Attorney General, 2011 MT 328, 363 Mont. 220, 271 P.3d 1. The plaintiffs appealed to the United States Supreme Court, which granted certiorari and summarily reversed the Montana Supreme Court ruling. American Tradition Partnership, Inc. v. Bullock, 567 US 516, 132 S Ct 2490 (2012). See also Comm'r of Political Practices v. Wittich, 2017 MT 210, 388 Mont. 347, 400 P.3d 735.

Corporate Expenditures in Connection With Ballot Issues: The District Court did not clearly err in finding that corporate wealth has not distorted the ballot issue process in Montana and that the first amendment therefore does not permit this section's provision that prohibits a corporation from making a contribution or expenditure in connection with a ballot issue. The provision is unconstitutional. Mont. Chamber of Commerce v. Argenbright, 226 F3d 1049 (9th Cir. 2000).

Statutory Limits on Contributions to Ballot Issue Committees Held Unconstitutional: A city ordinance placing a $250 limit on contributions to committees formed to support or oppose ballot measures is an unconstitutional interference with the first amendment rights of association and free speech. Citizens Against Rent Control v. Berkeley, 454 US 290, 70 L Ed 2d 492, 102 S Ct 2d 434 (1981).

Corporate Free Speech — United States Constitution: The portion of this section (prior to 1979 amendment) that totally prohibited payments or contributions by corporations in support of or opposition to ballot issues was an unconstitutional restriction of corporate rights to free speech guaranteed by the first amendment to the United States Constitution (similar to Art. II, sec. 7, Mont. Const.). C & C Plywood Corp. v. Hanson, 583 F2d 421 (9th Cir. 1978), affirming 420 F. Supp. 1254 (D.C. Mont. 1976).

Bullock, 698 F.3d 741 (9th Cir. 2012), the Ninth Circuit found portions of 13-35-231 that prohibit a political party from endorsing judicial candidates or expending money to publicize such endorsements unconstitutional."

Case Notes

Ban on Political Party Endorsements and Expenditures Unconstitutional — Ban on Contributions Remains in Effect: Following the issuance of a permanent injunction by a U.S. District Court with respect to the entirety of this section in accordance with a previous Ninth Circuit opinion, the Ninth Circuit clarified that although its initial opinion in Sanders County Republic Cent. Comm. v. Bullock, 698 F3d 741 (9th Cir. 2012), found that Montana's ban on endorsements and expenditures by a political party in a judicial election violated First Amendment protections, it had not found the statute unconstitutional in all respects. Noting that the underlying case had specifically not addressed the issue of the statute's ban on contributions to judicial candidates by political parties, the Ninth Circuit affirmed the portions of the injunction consistent with its previous opinion and reversed and remanded the portion of the permanent injunction concerning contributions to judicial candidates by political parties. Failure to Prove Illegal Voting — Summary Judgment Proper: Walker claimed that illegal votes were cast by five voters who were not residents of the town of Darby. Higgins established that they were each registered to vote in Darby and that their names appeared on the precinct voting register, which constitutes prima facie evidence of the right to vote. Despite residency questions, Walker failed to produce material and substantial evidence that votes were illegally cast, and summary judgment for Higgins was proper. Walker v. Higgins, 277 M 443, 922 P2d 1154, 53 St. Rep. 719 (1996).

Freeholder Requirement Constitutional — Reasonable Relationship Standard Applied: A landowner within an irrigation district filed a petition seeking to have the election of an irrigation district commissioner set aside on the grounds that the elected commissioner did not own irrigable land within the district as required by 85-7-1501. The District Court set aside the election, and the commissioner appealed on the grounds that the land ownership requirement violates the equal protection clause of the United States Constitution. The Supreme Court affirmed and held that the freeholder requirement does not violate the right to equal protection under the federal constitution. Johnson v. Killingsworth, 271 M 1, 894 P2d 272, 52 St. Rep. 274 (1995).

Election Not Affected by Voting Irregularities: Appellants appealed District Court order denying petition to invalidate school board election and mill levy, alleging election officials improperly distributed and tabulated absentee ballots and that several voters failed to meet residency requirements. In affirming the order, the Supreme Court ruled that the issue of validity was moot and that voting irregularities caused by the election officials had no effect on election results. Baker v. Bink, 223 M 375, 726 P2d 822, 43 St. Rep. 1801 (1986).

Unstamped and Excess Ballots: Although discarding the ballots in excess of the number of names on the pollbooks would not have affected the outcome of a legislative primary election, the District Court properly ordered a new election when it could not be determined with mathematical certainty that petitioner had won the nomination because some ballots had not been endorsed with the official stamp and the number of such unstamped ballots cast for petitioner was unknown. In re Recount of Ravalli County Primary Election, Petition of Thoft, 178 M 272, 583 P2d 430 (1978).

False Swearing as to Unconstitutional Freeholder Requirement Not a Violation: The freeholder requirement contained in 7-4-4401, prior to its amendment in 1979, was unconstitutional since it bore no relation to a person's qualifications and ability to serve as City Councilman, resulting in an invidious discrimination violative of equal protection. Thus, appellant's false swearing as to freeholder status in his filed declaration of nomination did not constitute a violation of the election laws. Sadler v. Connolly, 175 M 484, 575 P2d 51 (1978), distinguished in Johnson v. Killingsworth, 271 M 1, 894 P2d 272, 52 St. Rep. 274 (1995).

Effect of Failure of Judges to Sign Registry Books: Failure of the election judges of a precinct to require the electors to sign the registry books before voting at a primary election was the fault of the judges and not of the electors, and therefore their votes were legal and properly counted. Thompson v. Chapin, 64 M 376, 209 P 1060 (1922).

Evidence: Under former law, when it appeared in an election contest that a voter's ballot had been endorsed by the judges of election, as required by law, it was necessary to show that it could not thereby be identified, in order to let in, as secondary evidence, testimony as to how he voted. Case Notes

Costs and Fees Payable in Contested Election Proceeding: Litigants in Montana are generally not entitled to an award of attorney fees absent a specific contractual or statutory provision. This section provides the statutory authority for an award of costs, disbursements, and attorney fees to the prevailing party in a contested election proceeding. Big Spring v. Jore, 2005 MT 64, 326 M 256, 109 P3d 219 (2005).

Award of Attorney Fees Reasonable: Paulsen contested an election and lost. The District Court awarded $4,582.14 in attorney fees to the prevailing party, Huestis. Paulsen argued on appeal that the attorney fees were not warranted. The Supreme Court found that the District Court had reviewed the evidence presented and had ruled consistently with the factors in determining reasonableness set out in Swenson v. Janke, 274 M 354, 908 P2d 678 (1995). The award was not an abuse of discretion under this section and was therefore affirmed. Paulsen v. Huestis, 2000 MT 280, 302 M 157, 13 P3d 931, 57 St. Rep. 1170 (2000).

Award of Attorney Fees Proper: The award of attorney fees in a case challenging the legality of voter residency in a city election was proper, after consideration of the factors constituting reasonableness set out in Swenson v. Janke, 274 M 354, 908 P2d 678 (1995). Walker v. Higgins, 277 M 443, 922 P2d 1154, 53 St. Rep. 719 (1996).

Award of Attorney Fees Not Abuse of Discretion: Marsh argued that the District Court should not have awarded Overland attorney fees because due to the actions of the election judges and the recount, it was inevitable that either he or Overland would have initiated the election contest proceeding. The Supreme Court held that the District Court in its discretion could have accepted Marsh's arguments but that not to do so and the award of attorney fees to Overland were not an abuse of discretion. The Supreme Court also granted Overland's request that Marsh be required to pay Overland's costs and attorney fees on appeal on the basis that the award on appeal furthered the purpose of this section. Marsh v. Overland, 274 M 21, 905 P2d 1088, 52 St. Rep. 1099 (1995).

Docketing Priority in Cases of Contested Nominations: This section provides for prompt resolution of an election dispute and requires a court to give a contest petition precedence over other pending cases. The court is to conduct a hearing on a priority basis, and the contestee must make an appearance and answer the petition. However, there is no stated requirement that the hearing be held within 7 days after a petition is filed. Under 13-36-208, there is some discretion regarding postponements or continuances when necessary. Taylor v. Matejovsky, 261 M 514, 863 P2d 1022, 50 St. Rep. 1434 (1993).

Scope of Testimony and Evidence Allowed at Hearing on Petition: This section allows the contestant and contestee to produce evidence at the hearing and includes witness testimony in addition to tangible forms of evidence, as long as it is proffered by one of the parties. The court has discretion to determine the admissibility of the testimony under the general rules of evidence, but it is not to be rejected on the basis that this section permits only the parties to the action to testify. Taylor v. Matejovsky, 261 M 514, 863 P2d 1022, 50 St. Rep. 1434 (1993).

Ordering New Primary Election: When a nomination is declared vacant, the District Court has, without question, the power to order a new election. In re Recount of Ravalli County Primary Election, Petition of Thoft, 178 M 272, 583 P2d 430 (1978).

False Swearing as to Unconstitutional Freeholder Requirement Not a Violation: The freeholder requirement contained in 7-4-4401, prior to its amendment in 1979, was unconstitutional since it bore no relation to a person's qualifications and ability to serve as City Councilman, resulting in an invidious discrimination violative of equal protection. Thus, appellant's false swearing as to freeholder status in his filed declaration of nomination did not constitute a violation of the election laws. Sadler v. Connolly, 175 M 484, 575 P2d 51 (1978), distinguished in Johnson v. Killingsworth, 271 M 1, 894 P2d 272, 52 St. Rep. 274 (1995).

Case Notes

Failure to Prove Illegal Voting — Summary Judgment Proper: Walker claimed that illegal votes were cast by five voters who were not residents of the town of Darby. Higgins established that they were each registered to vote in Darby and that their names appeared on the precinct voting register, which constitutes prima facie evidence of the right to vote. Despite residency questions, Walker failed to produce material and substantial evidence that votes were illegally cast, and summary judgment for Higgins was proper. Walker v. Higgins, 277 M 443, 922 P2d 1154, 53 St. Rep. 719 (1996).

Nonprejudicial Defects in Proceedings: An election will not be declared void by reason of nonprejudicial defects in the manner in which nomination was declined when question was raised after election. Stackpole v. Hallahan, 16 M 40, 40 P 80 (1895).

Case Notes

Advisory Body Meeting Without Notice — Mootness of Issues When Ultimate Action Becomes Final: The committee that recommends a list of persons from whom the Governor may select the Commissioner of Political Practices met, without public notice, to discuss who would be recommended. The Governor appointed a recommended person. A suit was filed to void the appointment on the grounds that the submission of the list was void because there was no notice of the meeting. The committee was granted summary judgment in the District Court, and plaintiffs appealed. Before the appeal was heard, the Senate confirmed the appointment. That the confirmation vested the title to the office in the appointee did not make the appeal and issue moot because alleged violations of the state constitutional right to know and open meeting statutes could occur again, both in the context of this committee and similar advisory entities. To allow an alleged violation to escape judicial scrutiny simply because legal proceedings are not always swift would take away the people's constitutional right to know. Common Cause of Mont. v. Statutory Comm. to Nominate Candidates for Comm'r of Political Practices, 263 M 324, 868 P2d 604, 51 St. Rep. 77 (1994).

Appointment by Governor Not Voided by Failure of Recommending Committee to Give Notice of Meeting at Which Recommended Persons Chosen: The committee that recommends persons to the Governor, who appoints the Commissioner of Political Practices, violated the open meeting law when it met, without public notice, to discuss who would be recommended. The Governor appointed a recommended person, and the Senate confirmed the appointment. Since the Governor is free to disregard the recommended persons, the Governor did not violate the law in appointing one of the recommended persons, and the appointment was not voided. Common Cause of Mont. v. Statutory Comm. to Nominate Candidates for Comm'r of Political Practices, 263 M 324, 868 P2d 604, 51 St. Rep. 77 (1994).

Failure to Give Notice of Meeting of Committee That Recommends Persons Governor May Appoint as Commissioner of Political Practices: When three members of the four-member committee that recommends a list of persons from whom the Governor may select the Commissioner of Political Practices met to discuss candidates and the transmission of their names to the Governor and gave no public notice of the meeting, the committee violated the open meeting law. Common Cause of Mont. v. Statutory Comm. to Nominate Candidates for Comm'r of Political Practices, 263 M 324, 868 P2d 604, 51 St. Rep. 77 (1994).

"Meeting" Held When Three of Four Members Met to Select Recommended Persons for Position Appointed by Governor: A meeting was held within the meaning of the open meeting law when three members of the four-member committee that recommends a list of persons from whom the Governor may select the Commissioner of Political Practices met to discuss candidates and the transmission of their names to the Governor. Common Cause of Mont. v. Statutory Comm. to Nominate Candidates for Comm'r of Political Practices, 263 M 324, 868 P2d 604, 51 St. Rep. 77 (1994).

Public or Governmental Bodies — Committee to Recommend Commissioner of Political Practices Appointees to Governor: The committee that recommends a list of persons from whom the Governor may select the Commissioner of Political Practices is not a board, bureau, commission, or agency within the meaning of those terms as used in the open meeting law. However, the committee is a "public or governmental body" under the plain meaning of those terms as used in that law because it has a clear public and governmental purpose and was created for a specific governmental task and is thus subject to the open meeting law. Common Cause of Mont. v. Statutory Comm. to Nominate Candidates for Comm'r of Political Practices, 263 M 324, 868 P2d 604, 51 St. Rep. 77 (1994).

Case Notes

Appeal in Commissioner of Political Practices Enforcement Action Premature — Dismissal for Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction Proper: In a Commissioner of Political Practices enforcement action, the defendant's motion to dismiss the enforcement action in the First Judicial District Court, Lewis and Clark County, for lack of subject matter jurisdiction was properly denied. Section 13-37-113, which allows for prosecutions in the county in which the violation occurred or in Lewis and Clark County, clearly conferred subject matter jurisdiction on the District Court. Because the issue at bar was not one of subject matter jurisdiction but, rather, was an issue of statutory interpretation, the Supreme Court determined that the defendant's appeal must be characterized as one seeking relief from the denial of a motion to dismiss, which is not appealable, and dismissed the appeal as premature. Comm'r of Political Practices v. Bannan, 2015 MT 220, 380 Mont. 194, 354 P.3d 601.

District Court Authorized to Transfer Venue — No Authority to Transfer to Specific Department of Another District: The Commissioner of Political Practices filed a civil enforcement action in Lewis and Clark County District Court against the plaintiff, who was a candidate for a senate district that included all of Park County and most of Sweet Grass County. After the filing, the plaintiff initiated a declaratory judgment action in Park County District Court, raising issues similar to those raised in the enforcement action. The Commissioner answered the declaratory action and filed a motion to transfer the declaratory judgment action from Park County to Lewis and Clark County pursuant to Rule 42(a)(2), M.R.Civ.P. (Title 25, ch. 20). The Commissioner withdrew his motion to transfer, but the Park County District Court ordered, sua sponte, that the case be transferred to a specific department within Lewis and Clark County District Court. On appeal, the Supreme Court upheld the transfer, reasoning that 25-2-201 requires a venue change it if the convenience of witnesses and the ends of justice would be promoted by the change. However, the Supreme Court reversed the Park County District Court's transfer of the action to a specific department within Lewis and Clark County District Court, as issues of consolidation remained with the district court judges of Lewis and Clark County. Montana Campaign Finance Law — Candidates Required to Disclose Corporate Contributions and In-Kind Contributions: The Commissioner of Political Practices alleged that a state Senator violated campaign finance and practices laws during his 2010 primary campaign for Senate District 35: (1) by failing to report or disclose expenses for services associated with campaign mailings that the Commissioner determined were in-kind contributions, (2) by accepting illegal corporate contributions through coordination, and (3) by failing to maintain or produce campaign finance records. Concluding that the Senator accepted and failed to report nearly $20,000 in campaign contributions, including coordinated in-kind contributions, the District Court denied the Senator's motion for a new trial and entered an order trebling the verdict amount. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed the District Court's denial of the defendant's motion to dismiss for lack of subject matter jurisdiction, motion in limine to exclude the expert testimony of the Commissioner, and motion for a new trial. The Supreme Court held that the District Court did not abuse its discretion when it concluded that the defendant waived his constitutional argument on appeal, because he asserted his first amendment constitutional issue as an affirmative defense and did not ask the District Court to make a legal ruling on the constitutionality of the statutes underlying the action against him. The Supreme Court also found that the District Court had not abused its discretion when it trebled the verdict amount. Comm'r of Political Practices v. Appeal in Commissioner of Political Practices Enforcement Action Premature — Dismissal for Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction Proper: In a Commissioner of Political Practices enforcement action, the defendant's motion to dismiss the enforcement action in the First Judicial District Court, Lewis and Clark County, for lack of subject matter jurisdiction was properly denied. Section 13-37-113, which allows for prosecutions in the county in which the violation occurred or in Lewis and Clark County, clearly conferred subject matter jurisdiction on the District Court. Because the issue at bar was not one of subject matter jurisdiction but, rather, was an issue of statutory interpretation, the Supreme Court determined that the defendant's appeal must be characterized as one seeking relief from the denial of a motion to dismiss, which is not appealable, and dismissed the appeal as premature. Comm'r of Political Practices v. Bannan, 2015 MT 220, 380 Mont. 194, 354 P.3d 601.

Declaratory Action Properly Dismissed for Lacking Justiciable Controversy: The defendant Commissioner of Political Practices found sufficient evidence that the plaintiff, a resident of Gallatin County, had violated state campaign practice laws and that civil adjudication of the violations was warranted. The defendant forwarded the sufficiency decision to the Lewis and Clark County Attorney for consideration. The plaintiff filed an action for declaratory relief in the Eighteenth Judicial District Court in Gallatin County arguing that the defendant should have referred the sufficiency decision to the Gallatin County Attorney rather than the Lewis and Clark County Attorney. After the Lewis and Clark County Attorney waived his right to participate in the action pursuant to 13-37-124, the defendant filed a complaint against the plaintiff in the First Judicial District Court in Lewis and Clark County, alleging campaign finance and practice violations. The Eighteenth Judicial District Court dismissed the plaintiff's declaratory relief action for lack of a justiciable controversy. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed, concluding that the plaintiff has an alternative remedy available to him in the First Judicial District Court action because he may raise the issues raised in the declaratory relief action as defenses in that action. In addition, any decision the Eighteenth Judicial District Court would have issued would not have been binding on the First Judicial District Court and would merely be an advisory opinion, which is impermissible. Murray v. Motl, 2015 MT 216, 380 Mont. 162, 354 P.3d 197.

Declaratory Judgment, Mandamus, and Judicial Review Inappropriate Remedies for Discretionary Decision of Commissioner of Political Practices: Doty, a political candidate, filed a complaint with the Commissioner of Political Practices, alleging that an opponent violated Montana's political civil libel statute and the false swearing statute when the opponent filed a complaint with the Commissioner, alleging that Doty was unqualified for office. The Commissioner found insufficient evidence that the opponent violated the law and decided not to prosecute the opponent, so Doty sought a declaratory judgment, mandamus, and judicial review in District Court challenging the Commissioner's decision. The Commissioner moved to dismiss on grounds that: (1) Doty lacked standing to request a declaratory judgment because Doty's rights, status, or other legal relations were not affected by the Commissioner's decision not to pursue legal action; (2) the decision was not subject to mandamus because it was discretionary; and (3) the decision was not subject to judicial review because it was not a contested case and because Doty's rights were not prejudiced. The District Court agreed and dismissed the complaint, and Doty appealed, but the Supreme Court affirmed. The court first noted that the Commissioner's authority to enforce campaign laws is discretionary and that the laws are for the benefit of the public at large. Pursuant to Jeppeson v. St., 205 M 282, 667 P2d 428 (1983), a writ of mandamus will not issue to compel performance of a discretionary function. Also, Doty himself was not prosecuted or threatened with prosecution for violating campaign laws, so his legal rights were unaffected by the Commissioner's decision. Thus, neither a declaratory judgment action nor judicial review was appropriate. Doty v. Comm'r of Political Practices, 2007 MT 341, 340 M 276, 173 P3d 700 (2007).

Jurisdiction of District Court — Defective Affidavit of Probable Cause: The failure of the Commissioner of Campaign Finances and Practices (now Commissioner of Political Practices) to recite, in an affidavit supporting a request for leave to initiate prosecution by information, the fact that the County Attorney had waived under 13-37-124 his right to prosecute the defendant was not a jurisdictional defect, and the court improperly granted the defendant's motion to dismiss. Such a defect is a procedural matter, not a substantive one, and does not require dismissal of the charge. St. v. Matthews, 183 M 405, 600 P2d 188 (1979).

Case Notes

Contribution Limits for Individuals, Political Committees, and Political Parties Upheld — District Court Reversed: The District Court invalidated the amount of money individuals, political committees, and political parties may contribute to candidates under this section as unduly restrictive of political speech under the first amendment to the U.S. Constitution. However, because the limits were closely drawn to serve the state's interest in combating actual or apparent quid pro quo corruption, they were adequately tailored to permit candidates to raise enough money for their campaigns, they did not prevent contributors from affiliating with the candidates of their choosing, and the limits fell within the realm of legislative judgment, the Ninth Circuit Court reversed the District Court's judgment. Lair v. Motl, 873 F.3d 1170 (9th Cir. 2017).

Legal Test for Contribution Limits — Eddleman "Closely Drawn" Test Applicable With Quid Pro Quo Corruption Standard: A federal District Court found that Montana's contribution limits for individuals and political committees in this section unconstitutionally burdened free speech and enjoined their enforcement by applying a "closely drawn" test developed in Randall v. Sorrell, 548 U.S. 230, 126 S Ct 2479 (2006). On appeal, a three-judge merits panel reversed and remanded the case because the analysis in Sorrell was the result of a plurality opinion and the panel found that the Sorrell analysis did not overrule the underlying "closely drawn" test promulgated in Mont. Right to Life Ass'n v. Eddleman, 343 F3d 1085 (9th Cir. 2003). However, the panel also held that Citizens United v. F.E.C., 558 US 310, 130 S Ct 876 (2010), had limited what permissibly constituted corruption as an "important state interest" to quid pro quo corruption or its appearance. To the extent that Eddleman had relied on a broader important state interest to uphold Montana's contributions, it was abrogated by Citizens United, and the District Court was instructed to apply the Eddleman test with the modified corruption standard to the contribution limits. Lair v. Bullock, 787 F3d 989 (9th Cir. 2015), amended and rehearing en banc denied by 798 F3d 736 (9th Cir. 2015).

Provisions Limiting Contributions to Individual and Political Action Committees and Imposing Aggregate Dollar Amounts From Committees Constitutional: To reform campaign finance laws, Montana voters in 1994 passed Initiative Measure No. 118, which included two provisions that lowered the maximum dollar amount that a political action committee and an individual could contribute to a political candidate and imposed an aggregate dollar amount that a candidate could receive from all political action committees. The Montana Right to Life Association filed suit, alleging that the provisions unduly burdened constitutionally protected free speech and associational rights. The District Court upheld the provision as sufficiently tailored to achieve Montana's important interest in preventing corruption and the appearance of corruption in Montana politics. On appeal, the Ninth Circuit Court applied the standards articulated by the U.S. Supreme Court in Buckley v. Valeo, 424 US 1 (1976), and Nixon v. Shrink Mo. Gov't PAC, 528 US 377 (2000), in which the court held that a state's campaign contribution limits would be upheld if the limits furthered a sufficiently important state interest and were closely drawn so that they focused narrowly on the state's interest, left a contributor free to affiliate with a candidate, and allowed a candidate to amass sufficient resources to wage an effective campaign. In affirming the District Court decision, the Ninth Circuit Court ruled that the limits imposed on individual and committee contributions and on the aggregate dollar amount that a candidate could receive from all political action committees were sufficiently tailored to achieve Montana's important interest in preventing corruption and the appearance of corruption in Montana politics. Mont. Right to Life Ass'n v. Eddleman, 343 F3d 1085 (9th Cir. 2003), abrogated by Citizens United v. F.E.C., 558 US 310, 130 S Ct 876 (2010). For a discussion of the effects of Citizens United on the important state interest analysis in Eddleman, see Lair v. Bullock, 798 F3d 736 (9th Cir. 2015).

Statutory Limits on Contributions to Ballot Issue Committees Held Unconstitutional: A city ordinance placing a $250 limit on contributions to committees formed to support or oppose ballot measures is an unconstitutional interference with the first amendment rights of association and free speech. Citizens Against Rent Control v. Berkeley, 454 US 290, 70 L Ed 2d 492, 102 S Ct 2d 434 (1981).

Corporate Free Speech — Contributions for Ballot Issues: The portion of 13-35-227 (prior to 1979 amendment) that totally prohibited payments or contributions by corporations in support of or opposition to ballot issues was an unconstitutional restriction of corporate rights to free speech guaranteed by the first amendment to the United States Constitution (similar to Art. II, sec. 7, Mont. Const.). C & C Plywood Corp. v. Hanson, 583 F2d 421 (9th Cir. 1978), affirming 420 F. Supp. 1254 (D.C. Mont. 1976).

Limitations on Contributions Constitutional: Federal Election Campaign Act's limits on contributions to campaigns for election to federal office do not unconstitutionally impair first amendment freedoms of expression and association and are not invidiously discriminatory, as such a ceiling is a valid guard against the corrupting potential of large financial contributions to candidates. Buckley v. Valeo, 424 US 1 (1976).

Limitations on Expenditures Unconstitutional: Limits on campaign expenditures by candidates, from personal or family resources, for federal office or by other individuals or campaign committees to advocate election or defeat of candidates for federal office are an impermissible burden on first amendment freedom of expression because candidates must have an unfettered opportunity to make their views known so that the electorate may intelligently evaluate candidates' personal qualities and positions on vital public issues before choosing among the candidates on election day. Debate on public issues should be uninhibited, robust, and wide open to assure unfettered interchange of ideas for bringing about political and social changes desired by the people. Buckley v. Chapter 86 in (3)(a) extended reporting time to 48 hours from 24 hours and inserted second sentence authorizing the report to be made by mail or by electronic communication; and made minor changes in style.

In (5)(c), at beginning, the Code Commissioner inserted "a report" for consistency of style.

1993 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 10 in (7) deleted superfluous internal reference; and made minor changes in style.

Chapter 208 in (3)(a) and (5)(a) substituted "12th day" for "10th day"; in (3)(a) substituted "17th day" for "15th day"; and made minor changes in style.

One style change in (4) was slightly different in the two chapters. The codifier chose the more appropriate of the two.

1991 Amendment: Deleted former (1)(a)(ii) that required quarterly filing of a report on an issue subject to a referendum or expected to be on ballot; inserted (2) regarding filings required of political committees organized to support or oppose a statewide ballot issue; and made minor changes in style.

1989 Amendment: Inserted (1)(a) relating to quarterly filing of reports.

Preamble: The preamble attached to I.M. No. 125 provided: "WHEREAS, corporations are not allowed to directly spend money to influence political candidate campaigns in Montana; and

WHEREAS, corporations are not allowed to directly contribute money to a political party in Montana; and

WHEREAS, the processes of initiative and referendum are a vital part of the political process in Montana; and

WHEREAS, corporations are not restricted in the direct use of corporate funds to support or oppose the adoption or rejection of ballot issues in Montana; and

WHEREAS, corporations are now making direct corporate expenditures of overwhelming amounts of money in Montana initiatives; and

WHEREAS, participation in the political system needs to be kept fair to citizens of normal financial means; and

WHEREAS, limitations on direct corporate contributions work toward that fairness.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF MONTANA:

That the prohibition on the direct use of corporate funds in the Montana political process be expanded to prohibit direct corporate expenditures in support of or in opposition to initiative and referendum ballot issues."

Vacancies — How Filled: The Office of a Public Service Commissioner who dies after the primary election date must be placed on the general election ballot. The elected successor will take office when elected and qualified and will serve out the unexpired term. Political party nominations for the general election may be made in accordance with the custom of each political party. Nominations for independent candidates or candidates of parties not eligible for the direct primary must be made in accordance with Title 13, ch. 10, part 5. 35 A.G. Op. 95 (1974).

Committee Structure

13-38-201. Election or appointment of committee representatives at primary — vacancies — tie votes.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 420 in (1) at beginning deleted "Except as provided in subsection (4)" and after "political party shall" inserted "appoint or"; substituted current (2) and (3) concerning political parties and the appointment or election of precinct committee representatives for former (2) and (3) that read: "(2) An elector may be placed in nomination for precinct committee representative by a declaration of nomination, signed by the elector, notarized, and filed in the office of the county election administrator within the time for filing declarations naming candidates for nomination at the regular biennial primary election.

(3) Except as provided in subsection (4), the names of candidates for precinct committee representative of each political party must appear on the party ticket in the same manner as other candidates and are voted for in the same manner as other candidates"; in (4) at beginning inserted "In a primary election for a precinct committee representative"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2015.

2013 Amendment: Chapter 336 inserted (7) concerning tie votes; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2014.

2011 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 242 in (4) in four places substituted "party's precinct" for "precinct's" (rendered void by Ch. 268); and inserted (6) concerning write-in votes for committee precinct representatives. Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

Chapter 268 in first sentence of (2) following "for" inserted "precinct", substituted "declaration of nomination" for "written statement", and substituted "county election administrator" for "registrar"; deleted former (4) that read: "(4) If only one person of each sex has been nominated to fill a precinct's positions, the election administrator may decline to include that precinct's election in the primary election. If a precinct's election is not held during the primary election pursuant to this subsection, the county governing body shall declare elected by acclamation the candidates nominated for that precinct's committee representative positions"; inserted (4) regarding not holding precinct committee election; inserted (5) regarding certificate of election; inserted (6) regarding counting write-in votes; and inserted (7) regarding appropriate rules for filling vacancy. Amendment effective October 1, 2011.

2003 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 367 at beginning of (1) and (3) inserted exception clause; inserted (4) allowing election administrator to decline precinct election in primary election if only one person of each sex nominated to fill precinct position and requiring county governing body to declare candidate nominated for precinct committeeman position elected by acclamation if precinct election not held during primary election; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

Chapter 414 in (3) substituted "must appear" for "shall be printed"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

Style changes were slightly different in the chapters. In each case, the codifier chose appropriate text.

13-38-204. Committees to fill vacancies among nominees under certain circumstances.

Case Notes

Failure to Accept Nomination — No Vacancy Created: When a successful write-in candidate at a nominating election failed to file his acceptance within 10 days after election day, his subsequent resignation did not result in a vacancy which the county central committee of his party could fill. State ex rel. Wilkinson v. McGrath, 111 M 102, 106 P2d 186 (1940).

Death After Election: Sections 23-915 and 23-929, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), did not empower county central committee to make an original nomination of a candidate to an office to be filled at a special election when the officer-elect died after election and before induction into office. State ex rel. Smith v. Duncan, 55 M 376, 177 P 248 (1918), distinguished in LaBorde v. McGrath, 116 M 283, 149 P2d 913 (1944).

Time for Filling Vacancies: Under section 1320, Political Code of 1895, when a convention had made a nomination and authorized its committee to fill any vacancy that may have occurred, the filling of the vacancy by the committee, upon the death or resignation of the candidate or because the original certificate of nomination was or became insufficient or inoperative, could be made at any time before the day of election. State ex rel. Galen v. Hays, 31 M 227, 78 P 301 (1904); State ex rel. Scharnikow v. Hogan, 24 M 397, 62 P 683 (1900).

Attorney General's Opinions

Vacancy With No Opportunity to Nominate in Primary: When the office of County Commissioner has become vacant with no opportunity to nominate candidates in the primary election, the selection of candidates for the general election will be made by each political party according to 13-10-327; and, pursuant to 13-12-208 (now repealed), write-in candidates may also seek the office. The appointee to fill the immediate vacancy will hold that office until the next general election. 37 A.G. Op. 147 (1978).
